CRIME INQUIRY IS HURT BY DEADLINE FIXING—M'CARRAN

Nevada Senator Says Clause Destroyed Effectiveness Of Nationwide Probe

SAYS JOB TOO VAST TO BE COVERED BY LAST OF JULY

By Don Whitehead

WASHINGTON, April 8. — (AP) — Senator McCarran said today the senate rules committee had "destroyed the effectiveness" of a proposed nation-wide crime investigation by fixing a July 31 deadline for the inquiry.

The Nevada Democrat chairman of the senate judiciary committee—urged that the senate approve a $50,000 inquiry into organized gambling and rackets without a time limit.

"It would be a waste of money," McCarran told a reporter, "to try to cover this vast field by July 31. It just can't be done in that time."

McCarran's committee voted for the investigation and asked $100,000 for expenses. But the rules committee cut the figure to $50,000 and added the July 31 deadline.

Senator Kefaurver (D.-Tenn.), sponsor of the resolution, has appealed to the Democratic policy to give priority to the resolution and a decision is expected either Monday or Tuesday.

Kefauver also said he will try to have the deadline date knocked out. "We've lost so much time," he said, "I believe the senate should remove this limitation."

Some Democrats have expressed the view privately that Republicans would seek to use a crime investigation for partisan advantage in the coming congressional campaigns.

DULLES TACKLES JAP PEACE PACT

Tough Problem Of Whether Or Not Treaty Should Be Drawn Studied

WASHINGTON, April 8. — (AP) — Republican Adviser John Foster Dulles has held his first foreign policy huddle with the state department, on the tough problem of whether to press for an early Japanese peace treaty.

Secretary of State Acheson sought the assistance of his new policy consultant, it was learned today, after Dulles had expressed an interest in the issue.

The problem has been hotly debated both within the Truman administration and among the big powers of the world.

The treaty issue also raised a heated dispute on the 13-nation far eastern commission, which makes policy for the former enemy country the question has been deadlocked there for months.

When Dulles indicated interest in the problem, Acheson immediately directed Assistant Secretary of State W. Walton Butterworth to fly to New York and give Dulles complete information on the treaty situation.

Butterworth, who is now concentrating exclusively on Japanese affairs, did so yesterday afternoon shortly before Dulles left for a Canadian vacation of two weeks preliminary to taking over his new duties here.

Quads Born To Alabama Farm Couple

LOUISVILLE, Ala., April 8. — (AP)—A white Alabama farm wife was "Kinda tickled and disgusted too" when she gave birth to quadruplets today.

But Mrs. Mackie O'Neal Singleton, 33, was only slightly less flabbergasted than her tenant farmer husband, said Dr. R. O. Norton, who delivered the four squirming baby girls.

The Singletons already have six children, the youngest four-year-old twins.

Farmer Homer L. Singleton, 33, "Didn't have much to say about it," Dr. Norton said.

Dr. Norton, who has been in general practice here for 38 years, admitted he was "About as surprised as the parents" even though he suspected it would be twins at least.

"But I guess if you stick at anything long enough," he confided, "you're bound to hit the jack pot some day. Looks like I made it this trip."

'Christ Is Risen!' — Stirring Message Of This Easter Day

"Christ is Risen!" This will be the stirring message of today. It will be sounded forth early in the Twin Cities where members of the C. Y. A. are staging a magnificent pageant at Memorial Park cemetery just as the sun peeps up in the East. This now means 5:45

No effort or expense has been spared to make this, the fourth annual event of the kind here, one to be long remembered. The Ouachita Parish High School choir will sing, the empty tomb will be shown and all who contributed at that first resurrection morn will be shown in roles portrayed by skilled actors. The public, regardless of denomination, is cordially invited to witness this pageant.

All churches of Monroe and West Monroe will participate in making the day impressively beautiful. There will be altars loaded with flowers, pastors will strive to bring home the Easter theme. There will be enlarged choirs.

The usual masses will be observed by St. Matthew's Church with high mass at 11 a.m. when Msgr. J. C. Marsh will officiate.

At the First Methodist Church nearby, there will be two duplicate services, sermons and music and general programs alike, at 9:30 a.m. and 10:50 a.m. and there is to be an infant christening hour at 4 p.m.

Other downtown Monroe churches that will have pageants or cantatas are: First Christian, at the 7:30 p.m. hour when "The Glorious Gallilean" is to be given. The Stone Avenue Methodist Church will present at night "The Golden Dawn."

The First Baptist Church of Monroe pla s a cantata "The Crucifixion" at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The First Presbyterian Church will hear a sermon suited to Easter by the pastor entitled: "Immortality, a Reasonable Belief. At the

BURGLARY OCCURS IN VICINITY OF BINAGGIO SLAYING

Brazen Thievery Adds Woes To Authorities Probing Double Killing

CONTINUE INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF POLITICAL BOSS

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—(AP)—A brazen tavern burglary next door to the death scene added fresh woes to police seeking slayers of Politician Charles Binaggio and his henchman, Charles Gargotta.

With two policemen guarding the first district Democratic club where the two were executed gangland fashion early Thursday, thieves broke into an adjacent bar and stole $600, two wrist watches and some liquor last night.

The tavern is located at 720 Truman Road, the big crosstown thoroughfare named for the president. The place where the two charlies fell and died in pools of blood is 718 and 716 Truman Road.

The Kansas City Star said that in view of the wide publicity given the Binaggio slaying, thieves must have been aware the Democratic Club would be under guard. This, the paper said, "led to the conjecture that the theft may have been a cover-up for some more devious purpose." Police had no comment on this suggestion.

A safe and strong box were opened officially in the club today but investigators said these yielded no significant clues to the twin shootings that have had repercussions in the state and national capital.

In St. Louis, the Star-Times reported Binaggio had tried to make political peace with President Truman in the last few weeks of his life. Three Kansas City men, who the newspaper said participated in the plan, stoutly denied any knowledge of the maneuver.

WAR WEARY VET IS FOUND SHOT

Death Termed Suicide; Had Been Sought In Slaying Of College Senior

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., April 8. —(AP)—An all-night manhunt for a war weary former graduate student accused of murder ended in a wooded spot in this university town today.

The body of Len Broughton Smithey was found slumped against a pine tree with a bullet through his head and a .38 caliber pistol in his right hand. Police said the 30-year-old South Pacific veteran took his own life while they pushed a statewide search for the Good Friday killer of George Lemuel Bennett, Jr.

Bennett, a studious, 22-year-old commerce senior from Wadesboro, was shot five times while studying in his basement room near the University of North Carolina campus. a few minutes later, Smithey walked away from the private home in which he also had a room.

Police Chief W. T. Sloan said the two had argued several days ago after Smithey accused Bennett of taking his rifle. The chief could offer no motive in the slaying that shattered the Easter weekend calm of this quiet, shaded town.

Smithey's body was found in the university's forest amphitheater where Easter worshippers will greet the rising sun tomorrow.

His mother, Mrs. Naomi Smithey of Arlington, Va., when informed of Bennett's slaying, said that "I was afraid this would happen." She described her son as a "war casualty", saying he had shown "mental abnormalities" after serving six years in the air force.

Smithey was admitted to the veterans hospital in Fayetteville last year for mental observation but he left without undergoing treatment. He had picked up painting jobs around Chapel Hill since dropping out of the political science school last December.

MOHR CONVICTED OF MERCY KILLING

A jury at Allentown, Pa., has just convicted Harold Mohr of voluntary manslaughter for the so-called mercy killing of his brother, and now the defendant leaves courthouse in an automobile. Sentence was deferred pending action on a defense motion for a new trial. The slain brother, Walter Mohr, 55, a blind man, was suffering with cancer. He was killed with a bullet fired into his head. Harold pleaded temporary insanity. His attorneys claimed he cracked under the strain of caring for Walter who repeatedly pleaded to be "put out of his misery." (AP Wirephoto).

Sen. M'Carthy Avoids Lattimore's Challenge

Continues Blasting, But Refuses To Repeat Libelous 'Communist Spy' Charges While Not Protected By Senatorial Immunity

WASHINGTON, April 8. —(AP)— Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) attacked Owen Lattimore without senatorial immunity today, but omitted his "Communist spy" charges—and Lattimore said the speech amounted to a retraction.

McCarthy has assailed the Far Eastern authority in a senate speech as a Soviet espionage agent and a Communist party member, or a former one. Today, however, he used neither of these terms in a public speech at Passaic, N. J.

He said Lattimore, as "the state department's architect of policy in the Far East," had urged action which was identical with that advocated by the Communist party.

The senator, author of charges that the state department harbors Communists and fellow travelers, also renewed his attack on Philip C. Jessup, right hand adviser to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and John S. Service, U. S. diplomat.

He failed to repeat some of his principal charges against Jessup and Service also. He dared them to sue him for libel.

In a statement following the McCarthy speech, Lattimore called it "a retraction of his libelous and fantastic accusations."

"Of course," he added, "the senator did not repeat his charges. H knew better than to make them in an unprivileged speech."

Lattimore meant that a senator cannot be sued for anything he says in the Senate Record. McCarthy had been challenged to speak out where he does not have this protection.

"Again the senator weaseled," Lattimore haid. "He knows that the charges are false, and he is frantically trying to hide behind his senatorial immunity while pretending to come out in the open... He must have a low opinion of the intelligence of the American press and the public."

Lattimore declared that if McCarthy "were a man of his word, he would perform on his twice-repeated promise to resign from the senate. That is the best possible way in which he can serve his country."

Pain In The Neck Saves Speeding Auto Driver

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 8. —(AP)— City Patrolman Jack Farmer caught a man speeding through town today but no charges were pressed.

The speeder, Joe Gulley, 26, of Talbott, Tenn., explained, "it's not what you think — I've got a fish bone in my throat."

Farmer called an ambulance and Gulley was taken to a hospital where the bone was removed.

Gulley said he had been unable to get the bone removed in either Morristown where he works so he drove into Knoxville.

THREE ARRESTED WITH NARCOTICS

Two Civilians, Soldier Caught Leaving Vault With Drugs

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, April 8. —(AP)— An air force general said two civilians and a soldier were arrested here today as they attempted to leave the narcotics vault of the U. S. Air Force Hospital at Fort Richardson with between $150,000 and $200,000 worth of drugs.

Brig. Gen. Donald R. Hutchinson, commanding general of the 57th fighter interceptor wing, identified the trio as:

Charles Houston Tittle, 37, and John Francis Brown, 25, both Anchorage cab drivers, and Sergeant First Class (Master) Bernard Levine, 35.

Military agents were waiting outside the vaults, the general reported, as the three men emerged at 3 a.m. with the drugs. The narcotics included opium, morphine, codine and a quarter pound of chloral hydrate which is used in knockout drops of "mickey finns."

GAS BILL ISSUE PUTS PRESIDENT TRUMAN ON SPOT

No Matter If He Signs Or Vetoes Measure Power Friends Will Be Offended

MUST DECIDE WHAT TO DO BY NINETEENTH OF APRIL

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)— President Truman is almost certain to strain some valued political friendships when he acts on the natural gas bill.

Powerful friends in and out of congress have urged him to approve the bill.

Equally influential friends have pleaded with him to veto it.

Mr. Truman has until April 19 to make up his mind on the measure which squeaked through the senate 44 to 38 and the house 176 to 174.

The measure would prohibit the federal power commission from regulating prices of gas produced by the so-called independents who do not own their own distribution facilities.

Big city mayors including William O'Dwyer of New York have called for a veto. They have been joined by Americans for democratic action, Sen. Paul Douglas (D.-Ill.), Walter P. Reuther, head of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, and others.

House speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, long a Truman pal and the administration's top man in the house, had urged the president to sign the measure. So have Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) sponsor of the bill, and others whose friendship the president doesn't want to damage.

Opponents claim the measure will result in increased gas prices to consumers, largely in the big cities.

Supporters contend it may have just the opposite effect — lower prices through increased production.

Reuther, whose labor following is a valuable asset in any election, has called the bill "the biggest steal since Teapot Dome."

"If anything," he said in an interview, "it will be a boon to consumers because it may bring about lower prices."

The law of supply and demand, Rayburn said, should take care of that, and the bill will increase the supply.

Rayburn, said the bill takes away from the federal power commission no powers that it has ever claimed.

Congress never intended for the FPC to regulate the independent producers, he said, adding that the bill merely makes that intention crystal clear.

Yugoslavia Criticizes Bulgarian Spy Trials

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 8. —(AP)— Yugoslavia tonight criticized the recent Bulgarian spy trial of six Yugoslavs and 20 Bulgarians as a "stage-managed affair."

A statement issued by the foreign affairs ministry and handed to Bulgarian diplomats here said the trial was "hostile and harmful to the peace loving intentions of Yugoslavia."

In the trial, two defendants received life sentences and others terms ranging from two to 15 years on charges of espionage and plotting to assassinate members of the Bulgarian cabinet.

Predicts Eisenhower Will Be G. O. P. Nominee In 1952

NEW ORLEANS, April 8.—(AP)— The former chairman of the Republican National Committee predicted here today that General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower would be the Republican nominee for president in 1952.

Rep. Hugh D. Scott (R.-Pa.), who resigned as G. O. P. committee chairman last Aug. 4 because of pressure within the party, said in an interview "although Eisenhower doesn't want to run, I don't think he will be able to resist. . . I think the general, who is a good soldier, would submit to a draft just like any good G. I. would."

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio was mentioned as a second possibility for the nomination.

People, Scott said, "are tired of President Truman's loud talk, loud shirts and loud scandals."

Charles Tyroler II, assistant director of the national planning commission, a private organization to promote industrial development, interposed that Scott was practically alone in his opinion's about Truman.

Scott also criticized 'vest pocket Republicans," especially in Louisiana, Texas, Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas.

"Republican organizations in most southern states" he said "are dominated by one or two men who refuse to welcome new and progressive people. They keep it a paper organization so they can not only distribute the patronage, but also can show up at the national convention with all the party votes of their states in their vest pockets."

Scott and Tyroler were here together to embark tomorrow on a two-weeks naval reserve training cruise in the Caribbean.

WRECKAGE FOUND

Gale-Battered Vessel Vanishes After Courageous Battle To Survive

APPARENTLY HAD WON OUT WHEN SHE DISAPPEARED

CHATHAM, Mass., April 8. —(AP)— Almost home, a fishing boat with eight men aboard was lost off Cape Cod today in a howling snow-blinding gale just as all hands seemed to have won their long, back-breaking fight to stay afloat.

The William Landry, a 63-foot scallop dragger out of New Bedford, vanished after struggling through heavy seas to a lightship stationed at Pollock Rip in Nantucket Sound.

Search planes and Coast Guard cutters reported no sign of the vessel but one cutter picked up wreckage which the Coast Guard said was "possibly from the Landry."

The Coast Guard said the fishermen vanished "all at once" shortly after midnight after having been in frequent radio contact with the lightship and two rescue planes.

Capt. Arne Hansen, 37, of Nantucket, and his crew battled the storm for hours in making their slow way to the lightship after the Landry's engine was disabled.

When towering seas put the pumps out of operation the men bailed with buckets and at 7 p.m. the Landry was near the lightship —about 60 miles from her home port.

From that time until midnight, the Coast Guard said, the eight hands seemed to be winning against the 60-65 miles per hour gale and the swirling snow.

"About then it looked as if they were all bailed out and just about to get the pumps going again," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Then suddenly the lightship lost sight of the Landry's running lights. Radio calls to the battered ship were unanswered.

About that time the storm built up to heavy snow and seas that were churned by winds of "whole gale force," the Coast Guard said.

The gale delayed the arrival of the Coast Guard cutters Hornbeam and Legare until daybreak. It was the Legare which picked up wreckage of a spar, a hatch cover, planks and pillows about four miles off Great Point, the northern tip of the island of Nantucket.

The Landry's position near the lightship was between Cape Cod and Nantucket, about five miles from Chatham on the cape and about 15 from the island.

Crewmen aboard included: Earl Blount, 40, cook, and Theodore Poloski, 25, both of Nantucket; Arthur Sylvia, 32, Fall River; Donald Corriea, 23, Thomas Donahue and Mitchell Kuliga, 28, all of New Bedford; Harold Lodden, 461 54th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Landry was heading home for Easter from a week-long fishing voyage.

Chilly Easter Is Predicted

By The Associated Press

A chilly Easter Sunday was predicted for most of the nation by the weather bureau yesterday.

Only Florida was favored by an unqualified forecast of "fair and mild." The bureau said it would be "fair most of the time in the Gulf states," with only "a few scattered showers indicated for the southern rockies plateau states and most of the Pacific States."

The rest of the country fell into the path of a mass of cold air sweeping in from Canada. The bureau predicted:

"Cold and windy weather is expected for Easter Sunday over the northern half of the United States from New England and middle Atlantic States westward through the northern Rockies.

EASTER

The current quest for means to put man at peace with his environment is but a resumption of the mission of Jesus two thousand years ago. Then as now men were fearful. Materialism had calloused the spirit. Anchors found no sure holding ground anywhere and hopelessness was the rule.

Jesus gave the human race a simple formula. Accent the things of the spirit and everything else that is good will follow. Man will have peace of mind which is the only security, social or otherwise, that this earth can assure.

Be merciful, just, long-suffering. Give to others without counting the cost to yourself. The message of Jesus was that the individual must do the good works himself. How else can he feed the spirit and advance good deeds until they become the common practice of the mass of humanity?

Jesus introduced these thoughts into the minds of men. They astonished men of good will and angered those of bad will. The final result was martyrdom, for men of bad will predominated. And out of martyrdom grew the Easter message that man by his good deeds survives.

Whether survival is physical or whether it is the force of good deeds that is imperishable makes no real difference. The irreducible Easter thought is that man must have the same good will toward his neighbor as toward himself to survive. He who bears ill will, will perish.

Jesus dramatized that choice. It still awaits a sorrowful and sin-sick world.

WILLIAM GREEN

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor told Louisiana delegates to the state federation of labor convention in New Orleans Wednesday that—quoting his exact words—"you can count on the 8,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor to help you financially and otherwise to return Senator Russell Long to congress."

The arrogant presumptuousness of this aging executive of a minority pressure group of citizenry in coming into Louisiana and telling our people who they should or should not elect to the United States senate is exceeded only by the apparent willingness of Senator Long to follow a course in the senate enabling him to obtain such support.

Everyone knows that Green and his union labor co-leaders endorse only political candidates whom they are certain will vote on any and all legislation exactly as labor leadership tells them to vote, and that union labor leadership fights to the bitter end against any member of the house or senate who is independent enough to vote his own convictions instead of labor's demands.

In further endorsement of Senator Long, Green said—again quoting his exact words as carried by the Associated Press:

"Here in Louisiana you have a fine young senator in Russell Long who is coming up for renomination this summer and who will probably face serious opposition. I know I need not tell you of the splendid record thus far by Senator Long in his brief term."

Such fulsome praise and all-out endorsement of Senator Long and his senate record by William Green means exactly one thing: That Senator Long has voted right up union labor's alley on all legislation in which union leadership is interested, and that Green, et al, are fully satisfied that he always will vote that way as long as he is in the senate.

At the same time, Green demanded that Louisiana voters defeat Senator Ellender, who does not come up for re-election until 1954, declaring that Ellender "stands up in congress with Senator Harry Byrd (Virginia Democrat), the worst Dixiecrat of them all," and told also of the A. F. of L.'s all-out efforts "financially and otherwise" to defeat Senator Robert A. Taft (Ohio Republican) in Ohio's senatorial elections next fall.

In other words, Green made it plain that he and his clique of union leaders, operating out of their shock troop headquarters in Washington, are attempting to dictate to voters of Louisiana that Senator Long must be re-elected no matter who his opponent may be, and to the voters of Ohio that Senator Taft must be defeated no matter who his opponent may be, since in neither case has any opposition become known publicly as yet; and that the money and manpower of the entire American Federation of Labor will be used to make this dictation to the voters effective. And of course the same type of campaign will be conducted in other states.

There is probably no greater living statesman in any public elective office today than Senator Taft of Ohio, whom Green declares must be destroyed politically. He is symbolic of genuine political integrity and intellectual honesty, always stating openly just where he stands on every issue, and always standing according to his own convictions even though this may place him in direct disagreement with other leaders within his party. As for Senator Byrd, another target of Green's vicious and narrow-visioned vitriol, he stands forth today as the outstanding leader in either major political party in behalf of sound and economical administration of federal government. These men, independent in thought and action, are the type of men whom Green declares the American voters must run out of office. He opposes them because they do not vote as he dictates. He supports Long because the latter has a "splendid record" in voting as labor desires. It matters not to Green what Senator Long does or does not do otherwise.

Such arrogance, such domineering presumptuousness and assumption of authority, indicates that Green figuratively has become intoxicated with power and lust for more of it through the Truman victory in the 1948 presidential election—and through belief that he and his union forces brought about that victory.

The voting records show that Dewey fared very well in most of the big industrial centers where the labor vote is heavy, but that he lost the national election through losing the big normally Republican farm states of the interior and western sections—such as Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Colorado, Wisconsin, et cetera. He lost these states because the farm and white collar workers turned from Dewey and to Truman on issues which many voters in both groups since have found to be false, none of them having anything to do with labor's legislative demands.

And, it is a matter of record that here in Louisiana union labor forces never have won a major victory in any state election where the issue between the farm and white collar vote on one side and organized labor on the other was clear-cut. Nor can they now, unless the opposition sleeps.

William Green has made it clear that union labor means that this issue of its demands versus everything else is to be clearcut in the coming senatorial primary in Louisiana and that Green means to put over his candidate—Russell Long—for selfish gain and regardless of public detriment. It should be clear to all that it is labor leadership itself—at the national level—that has made this issue and which is bringing demagoguery and the pitting of economic groups against each other into the coming primary. It is national labor leadership that is boasting that it will devote the dollars and men of its organization—8,000,000 strong in manpower and millions of dollars strong in money—to electing Long and others who vote as it wishes—and to defeating Taft and others who vote as their consciences dictate.

Louisiana is primarily a farming and lumber state with large oil and gas deposits and the World feels that its people will resent Green's arrogant, dictatorial and uncalled for meddling in its affairs.

Situation comedy at its best; a real bargain for anyone who's shopping for genuine entertainment value. . . . Good: Warner Brothers' "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady" (June Haver-Gordon MacRae-James Barton). A thoroughly enjoyable "family" filmusical, distinguished by sparkling work on the parts of its stars. . . . Fair: RKO's "The Capture" (Lew Ayres-Teresa Wright-Victor Jory-Jacqueline White). Adventure drama, laid "south of the border," and interesting enough to win the approval of most audiences. . . . Eagle-Lion's "The Gay Lady" (Jean Kent-James Donald-Hugh Sinclair). A made-in-England filmusical, distinguished by several good song numbers, but too slow-paced for American tastes. . . . Best Performance: Clifton Webb in "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Looking back over the records of this year's Academy Award winners, I was particularly impressed by the achievements of Joseph Mankiewicz, who took home two of the coveted statuettes, one for the direction of "A Letter to Three Wives," the other for the screen play which he wrote for that same picture. Mankiewicz had never won previously, but he had been nominated, personally, twenty-four times! And, in addition, twenty-seven pictures which he has either written or directed have been nominated for the "best-picture-of-the-year" awards. Such consistency is amazing. I doubt that any other creative worker in Hollywood can top, or even equal, that record.

One of the Hollywood trade papers, above an article about the movie industry's reaction to the fulminations of Senator Edwin Johnson, used the headline "Hope To Nip Attacks By Ed Johnson." I think that accidental phrasing is worth another "take." Instead of getting into a tizzy over the senator's ridiculous tirades against the entire movie industry, instead of hurling counter charges against the private morals of politicians as some Hollywood spokesmen have done, it might be better to turn the rebuttal over to Bob Hope and other wits of his kind. Johnson's soap-box type of oratory is made to order for them; I'd be willing to wager dollars to doughnuts that they could make his accusations the No. 1 farce of 1950, and have the senator running for cover in short order.

The report that Columbia is "trying to persuade" Aly Khan to appear in Rita Hayworth's comeback picture, "The Monte Carlo Story," leaves me gasping. Whether her studio bosses realize it or not, there are many people who look with just as much disfavor on Miss Hayworth as they do on Ingrid Berman. The appearance of Rita's prince in her comeback film would be, to those disapproving fans, about as soothing as a red flag is to a bull.

One of Charlie Chaplin's few intimates assures me that his next picture, scheduled for production next fall, will have no "message." That implies quite a reversal of form for Chaplin, who, for the past ten years has considered a "message," sociological in import, the prime requisite in picture-making. I'm wondering why the change. It could be that he's discovered he has no worthwhile message for the world, or it could be that he's discovered that the world won't listen when he's doing the talking.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

During some weeks to come many Sunday Schools will be studying lessons drawn from the so-called "Minor Prophets" of the Old Testament. The comment offered in these columns is not based upon any other comment or outlines, but is based upon the prophecies themselves, and is designed to present the times and conditions under which these prophecies were delivered, in such a way as to make their message intelligible and applicable to the life of today.

At the outset one should settle the matter of "Major" and "Minor" prophets. The 12 Minor prophecies are brief in comparison with the extensive prophecies of Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel, but they are not minor in the sense of any moral or spiritual inferiority.

On the contrary many passages in these so-called "Minor Prophets" represent the very highest point of Old Testament teaching concerning God and man. In Micah, for instance, is that concentrated and famous definition of true religion: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

The position of the "Minor Prophets" in our Bible, coming after the great prophecies, might suggest, also, that they were minor in the sense of actually being later in time. But this is not the case. Hosea and Amos were among the very earliest of the prophets whose prophecies are recorded, and others were either contemporary with, or in between, the greater prophets.

Most studies of the prophets begin with Amos, though Hosea prophesied in the same Northern Kingdom, and was probably only a few years later than Amos.

In the study of the prophets one must understand the significance of those words, Northern Kingdom and Southern Kingdom. They refer to the tragic disruption that occurred when Rehoboam, Solomon's son, inheriting a great, consolidated kingdom, and refused to lighten the burdens which Solomon's great building enterprises had put upon the people. It was at this time also that Jeroboam, who had led a previous unsuccessful rebellion and escaped to Egypt, now returned and led a successful revolt.

In this revolt, 10 tribes renounced Rehoboam and the Southern Kingdom of Judah, to establish the Northern Kingdom of Israel. Henceforth, until the tragic fall of both kingdoms, there were Kings of Judah and Kings of Israel, and prophets of Judah and prophets of Israel.

That is the first great fact of the times that one must grasp—division and strife preparing the way for disaster; but there were other disastrous conditions, as we shall see.

New York DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—I consider it a privilege to be corrected by so learned a gentleman as Gelett Burgess. Writing about the Duke of Windsor recently, I so far forgot myself as to say: "Only in this country, and among a certain decadent ilk, can he be hailed as something quite beyond kingship."

Gelett mails a postcard, merely saying, "Look up ilk in the dictionary."

Webster's International after giving the Scottish origin and an obsolete meaning lists:

—of that ilk. Of the same (name, place or territorial designation). . . . By extension, of the same family, kind, class or the like.

My phraseology was in error, and I bow to Mr. Burgess and Mr. Webster.

If I had said ". . . among certain decadants and others of that ilk," I would have been more precise in expressing my meaning.

As a matter of fact, I don't think I ever before used the word ilk, except as in Ilka Chase.

A very interesting letter comes from Mrs. Ray C. Miller, of Crowley, La. Her grandmother, Mary Vogel, living in Louisiana, is 96, and has nine children, all living. The oldest is 79, youngest fifty-four. Ages of children and mother add up to 689. But Mr. Vogel died at 80.

The family settled in the piney woods after the War between the States, and all the children were reared without any modern conveniences or boughten medicines.

George P. Sikes, San Diego, sends a family record that tops most. He was born in Watertown, N. Y. 92 years ago. Mrs. Sikes died two years ago, at 87. Mr. Sikes has lived in California nearly 60 years. his sister, aged 91, lives in Vancouver. Mr. Sikes has a son, 71, three daughters, ten grandchildren, eleven great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren. He has lived to see seven generations of his family, two of them before him.

He was married in 1878, and in the 72 years since then his wife's death was the only one in the family line.

Mr. Sikes says he is healthy and still having fun. He gives the San Diego climate and faith in God as contributing factors to a long and happy life.

I would like to be able to write so good a letter at 92, or any other age.

John Darcy, La Mesa, Calif., says good New England clam chowder is canned in concentrated form in Pine Point, Me. You add a pint of milk and a lump of butter, heat and serve. I'm going to try it, because I'm getting mighty lonesome for the clam chowder that isn't half full of tomato juice.

Miss Lara Virginia Gibbs, Hot Springs, Ark., writes to say that all the nice things I have ever said about Singer Marjorie Lawrence are deserved, and that Arkansas is proud to have her as a permanent resident.

"The Specter of Alexander Wolf," by Gaito Gazdanov (Dutton), is a good piece of creepy writing in the tradition of De Maupassant, if you like that kind of thing.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

CASE NO. 120

Archbold van Beuren was the Security officer of the OSS to whom Frank B. Bielaski, under-cover agent, turned over sample documents taken from the premises of "Amerasia" by a crew of OSS operatives on March 11, 1945, sent there to discover how a secret document got into the possession of that obscure magazine.

This country was at war. The possession by an unauthorized person of a secret document was an act of espionage. As relating to the OSS, only General William Donovan could give "Amerasia" these documents lawfully. He did not do so. The leak was called to OSS attention by a British Intelligence unit.

When the 12 to 14 samples, out of a hundred or more, were taken from "Amerasia," a routine memorandum was prepared in the OSS. Although that office has been abolished, the memorandum must be in existence somewhere. Mr. van Beuren and Mr. Bielaski should be called upon to testify concerning it.

Van Beauren called the attention of General Donovan to the 'Amerasia" Case. Subsequently, all this information was relayed to the joint chiefs of staff and to the secretary of state, who at that time was Edward Stettinius. In the state department, the matter was referred to Frederick B. Lyon for investigation. There the record dies so far as I can go.

The FBI was called into the investigation of the "Amerasia" Case. Myron Guernea, who is described to me as a very able man, was sent to New York by the FBI to investigate "Amerasia."

So far as I can learn, he made a second raid on the "Amerasia" office, during which all the documents found there were photographed. It is not clear whether the documents Guernea's crew found were the same as those found by Bielaski's crew. It is probable that there was a stream of stolen documents. Bielaski and Guernea, on the stand, could establish that.

All these documents had markings, fingerprints and other indications which should have made it possible for the FBI to trace them right through. They were able to know through whose hands the documents passed. Incidentally, there were a number of telephone calls, during the period of the OSS and FBI investigations, which were undoubtedly wire-recorded.

The following persons should be asked to testify concerning the "Amerasia" Case and what happened to it: General William Donovan, Archbold van Beuren, Frank B. Bielaski, Myron Guernea, J. Edgar Hoover, Frederick B. Lyon, Philip J. Jaffee, Kate L. Mitchell. The congressional committee making such an investigation should have adequate counsel to ask the correct questions.

Representative George A. Dondero has introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a bipartisan committee to do that. Such a committee should be appointed and should be limited to the "Amerasia" case. That job requires impartial thoroughness.

The "Amerasia" Case went to the grand jury and in due course Philip Jaffee pleaded guilty and was fined $2,500 and Emmanuel Larsen was fined $500 and the case died. Who killed it? The prosecution on behalf of the department of justice was handled by Robert M. Hitchcock and Donald Anderson. The record will show that a weak case was presented. One of the defendants was Kate L. Mitchell, a niece of James M. Mitchell, a Buffalo lawyer (now deceased) whose firm was Kenefick, Cooke, Mitchell, Bass and Letchworth. Robert M. Hitchcock is now a member of that firm. The coincidence is proof of nothing.

The record of the case shows: Sept. 29, 1945, Jaffe withdrew plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to a fine of $2,500. Fine paid. Justice Proctor, presiding.

Nov. 2, 1945, Larsen withdrew all previously filed motions and plea of not guilty and entered in lieu thereof a plea of nolo contendere. Sentenced to pay a fine of $500. Justice Proctor, presiding.

Nov. 26, 1945, Roth case continued for trial to Feb. 6, 1946. All motions to be disposed of on or before January 18, 1946. Justice Laws, presiding.

Feb. 6, 1946, Roth case reassigned (for trial).

Feb. 15, 1946, for Roth, nolle prosequi entered by U. S. district attorney, Ed M. Curran, Defendant discharged.

Feb. 16, 1946, Donald Anderson, justice department attorney, requested that Roth matter be dropped because of insufficient evidence.

There's something wrong there. This case really never was tried in any court.

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

The the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. — Isaiah 34:5.

The time will come when every change shall cease,
This quick revolving wheel shall rest in peace;
nor winter freeze;
No summer then shall glow,
Nothing shall be to come,
and nothing past,
But an eternal now shall ever last. — —Petrarch.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

The question of unemployment is looming large on the horizon again. The number is on the increase. The February figure was 4,684,000, the highest since August, 1941. Latest census figures show that 56,953,000 persons are now employed, and while the general opinion is that the total employed figure will no doubt again reach the previous high of 60,000,000 this summer, this is still not keeping up with our rapidly expanding labor force. In other words, the population is growing much faster than employment is growing.

What we need to realize in this country is the fact that the policies inaugurated by the government during the early 1930's perpetuated unemployment rather than solved it. What we need to realize is that the chronic unemployment problem fostered by the government during those years by "made word" was never solved and never will be solved in any other way than through the traditional American incentive system. Our present tax policy is killing this incentive; it is drying up all the sources of venture capital through which this nation has always expanded.

And we should not let anyone tell us that the "great depression" was an economic depression — because it was not! It was a moral depression. We were not working in 1929 — we were gambling; and if we ever gamble in that manner again, we can be quite sure that we shall have to pay for our sins— and there is no way to avoid it.

It is true the unemployment problem of the 1930's was ended by the advent of World War II — but it was not solved. War doesn't solve problems of this kind. And since the war, we have done nothing about the underlying cause of unemployment in this country. In fact, when unemployment becomes a serious problem again — and we can be quite sure it will under our present policy — we can be certain that the "new thinkers" in Washington will again propose a system of public works paid for with the taxpayers money or with deficit financing, both of which methods only aggravate the problem. They will ignore the fact that this method of solving unemployment has completely failed in the past. That is the way with the economic "planners"; when a little planning doesn't work, they ask for more planning. That is the way with Socialists; when a little state control doesn't work, they ask for more state control.

We could, if we would, very easily solve our unemployment problem. We could do so through a process so simple that its very simplicity perhaps causes us to overlook it. We could go back to our traditional American incentive system! There are still plenty of wants to be satisfied in this country. There is still room for a much greater increase in our standard of living. There are still plenty of opportunities for making new products. In other words, there is still plenty of work to do. Why not return to the system that built this nation in the first place instead of stifling this system at every turn? Why not again give the investor the incentive to put his savings into plants and machinery and tools and experimental projects that are the only possible means by which unemployment in a free nation can be solved and by which the standard of living can continue to increase?

Of course, the proponents of centralized bureaucracy, the advocates of the "planned economy", the promoters of the "welfare state" do not want to solve the problem in this manner — because it leaves out government control! They want to make it impossible for private enterprise to function, so the government will have to take over.

We all want full employment in this country for all those who deserve it, but what we must always remember is that when we turn responsibility for full employment over to the government, we do so as slaves, not as free men. There was full employment in Germany under Hitler; there is full employment in Russia under Stalin—but not freedom. Is that what we want in this country?

PITCHING HORSESHOES

SECOND FLOOR, FRONT

We men of Manhattan are an undaunted and unhaunted lot—or at least think we are—and so ghost stories seldom stand a ghost of a chance in this town. The other night, however, a real estate man buttonholed me coming out of "21" and told me a chiller about a deserted house in the Flushing section of Queens, and on the off-chance that your scalp can use a tingle or two, I'd like to pass it along. . . .

On the night of the big snow three winters ago, a doctor in Queens answered his doorbell and found a smallish man in a faded mackinaw standing on the stoop.

"My wife is very sick," he said. "I hate to ask you to come out on a night like this, but it's only a few blocks."

The doctor followed him to a large wooden house near the intersection of Vine Street and Broadway, and when the man unlocked the door the physician could see by the glare of an unshaded droplight that the lower floor was empty except for a few kitchen chairs and a length of carpet.

"This is no place for a sick woman," he said. "You ought to have some heat in the house."

The man led him up a creaky set of stairs to the second floor, and in the front room an emaciated woman was lying in an old four-poster bed. She kept coughing into a blood-flecked handkerchief, and though the doctor went through the motions of an examination he knew at once it was an advanced case of tuberculosis.

"I can give her something to relieve the congestion," he told her husband, "but she'll have to be moved to a hospital first thing in the morning."

He then wrote out a prescription. "I'll get it filled right away," said the man, and showed the doctor to the door.

Next morning, wondering how the woman was getting along, the physician stopped by the wooden house, but there was no answer when he rang the bell. Moreover, there were no tracks in the snow to indicate that an ambulance or any other vehicle had pulled up in front of the place.

Puzzled, he went to the office of a real estate agent on the next street and asked if he could get some information about the residents of the house.

"That's a funny sort of question," said the agent. "There aren't any residents and there aren't likely to be any. The house hasn't been occupied for 15 years, and though it's always been on my list, nobody's ever wanted it."

"Do you think squatters might be living in it on account of the housing shortage?" asked the doctor.

"Could be, but I doubt it," said the agent. "There's been a lot of queer talk about that house and the last family that moved in during the depression could only stand it for a few weeks. The husband and wife slept in the front room on the second floor, and to hear them tell it they were kept awake night after night by the sound of a woman coughing. It finally got so bad they packed and left."

"I know it sounds absurd," said the doctor, "but I examined a sick woman there last night, and if you've got a key I'll walk over with you and prove it."

When they got to the house, it took the agent quite a while to get the rusty lock open, and when they entered there wasn't a stick of furniture in sight. "I could have sworn I saw some chairs and a carpet down here last night," said the doctor.

"Maybe you've got this house mixed up with another one," the agent suggested.

"I still think it's the same place. Let's look upstairs."

On the second floor they went into the front room. It was also empty. Empty, that is, except for a piece of paper on the window sill—the prescription the doctor had written the night before.

In Washington

Washington today is split wide open over charges of Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) that Communists and fellow travelers have infiltrated the state department. You can scarcely get a group of your friends together without an argument over the McCarthy charges. Meanwhile, countrywide interest in the same charges is indicated by congressional mail, with most senators and congressmen reporting heavy backing for the Wisconsin senator.

Here even some of those friendly to McCarthy are saying that he should have had more evidence before he denounced Owen Lattimore, Dr. Philip Jessup, Dorothy Kenyon and others whom, he charged, have had state department affiliations.

It may be that time will show that McCarthy presented his case poorly. His four hour presentation of his case on March 30 may be refuted, but the record of the last 25 years indicates that charges which are ridiculed at first sometimes are fully sustained in the end.

The most recent case is that of Alger Hiss, finally convicted of perjury, and in effect of treason, for whom "the slow unfolding" of guilt required eleven years. The quoted phrase is the title of one chapter of the recently published book "Seeds of Treason", by Ralph de Toledano and Victor Lasky, two newspapermen who have written the first complete account of the Hiss case. Those who read it can form their own opinions.

Another case of "slow unfolding" dates back a quarter of a century when the late Senator Thomas Walsh (Dem., Mont.) with infinite patience, exposed the Teapot Dome case, which sent a former secretary of interior, the late Albert B. Fall, to prison for accepting a bribe in the leasing of government oil reserves.

That required only five years, but Senator Walsh, like McCarthy, and like the accusers of Hiss, was ridiculed and ignored, in some instances by members of his own party. Walsh felt the censure keenly but kept on until his investigation provided the evidence which exposed all of the prominent figures who figured in the Teapot Dome sell out.

All of this shows that the prosecutor has to push aside a concerted effort of the principals involved to cover up the real record. There seems to have been an indication of that in the McCarthy investigation.

The Wisconsin senator answered the charge that he is trying to smear the state department when he said:

"I realize full well that of the thousands of employes in the department, all but a small percentage are honest and loyal Americans. But that small percentage can and has done almost untold damage".

He has taken on a huge load, which he obviously can't carry himself. But a great many people seem to be urging him on.

No man can foresee how his descendants will turn out, but sometimes it is interesting to check. What would Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, richest man in the United States at his death in 1877, think if he could look back now and see how his numerous progeny (he was survived by twelve children) and their descendants have turned out?

Disregarding the socialities, idle rich and horse race devotees, the news this week was focussed on two great-great grandsons. They were:

No. 1—Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, aged 51, who resigned as undersecretary of commerce, to reenter private business. Where his ancestor built a great railroad system (the New York Central) C. V. Whitney organized Pan-American Airways, gave up his interest before the last war. As a colonel, he was decorated in both the Atlantic and Pacific theaters. He is interested in Marine Studios, Inc., in Florida, in mining, lumbering and farming. He married an Ohio girl of middle class family; accomplished in music, devoted to art.

No. 2—Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire Communist, Harvard classmate of Alger Hiss. Field has referred to "we American Communists" and bought a house in New York as Communist Headquarters. Once president of the Harvard Crimson, he later became a columnist on the Daily Worker, Communist organ. He contributed heavily to the Communist party. His present wife, whom he married in 1937, is interested in the same causes.

WASHINGTON STOP IS TRIP FEATURE

Jamboree Of Scouts To Include Two-Day Stay In Historic City

Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Council who are to attend the National Boy Scout Jamboree this summer will spend two days in Washington on their return trip from Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. The trip to the capitol city has been planned by the council's jamboree committee along with other special sight seeing tours to historic and scenic places along the route of travel.

Arrangements are being made for the council's contingent of over one hundred Scouts and Scouters to spend July 7 and 8 in Washington. While there they will visit Mount Vernon, the capitol, the White House, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, Arlington, Smithsonian Institute, many federal buildings, and other interesting sights about the city.

Louisiana's largest Jamboree Scout contingent will leave Monroe early Sunday morning, June 26, and travel by bus through Birmingham, Chattanooga, Knoxville, and the skyline drive. Sight seeing stops are already planned for Lookout Mountain and Natural Bridge, and others will probably be arranged.

The Ouachita Valley Council Scouts will arrive at Valley Forge Park on July 26 for a three-day Regional pre-training camp. The Jamboree for over 40,000 Scouts and leaders from every state in the union and many foreign countries will officially open on June 30.

During the seven-day Jamboree, Scouts will visit historic places around Philadelphia, observe Scout craft activities of Scouts from all over the country, and participate in all the great displays and pageantry being planned to take place in the huge natural arena on the Jamboree grounds.

One of the most prominent activities of the Jamboree will be "swapping." Boys from Texas will be trading horned frogs for maple syrup from Scouts from Vermont. Our Louisiana boys will be exchanging articles they have made for souvenirs from California, Michigan, and other parts of the country. Scouts of this area have started making "swap" items already, so that they will have a good supply.

While at the Valley Forge Jamboree, Scouts will sleep under tents on the ground and will do all of their own cooking. The Ouachita Valley Council will furnish all necessary troop and patrol equipment for its three troops. This equipment includes tents, dining flies, cooking gear, ground pads, charcoal grills, reflector ovens, water bags and buckets, lanterns, first aid kits, and other necessary camping equipment.

Northeast Louisiana Scouts will be well prepared for the Jamboree as a pre-training camp will be conducted for them at Camp Ki-Ro-Li during the week of June 18. In this training camp, organization and equipment will be completed and training on jamboree methods given. Scouts will practice using jamboree equipment and actually cook some of the jamboree meals. Some time will also be spent in preparing "swap" gadgets for the Jamboree.

A great amount of enthusiasm is being shown for the Jamboree in vhe Ouachita Valley Council. In addition to the 106 Scouts and leaders who have been accepted by the National Council to attend the event, many additional Scouts are on a waiting list, hoping that there will be some chance that they will be accepted for this outstanding affair. Approximately two hundred Scouts and parents attended a special Jamboree planning meeting which was held in Monroe last Sunday afternoon.

Five Cases Of Whiskey Stolen

Five cases of whiskey were reported stolen from Frank Miletello's grocery, 4215 DeSiard street, early Saturday morning, according to Monroe police.

Burglars entered the building through an east window, officers said, and left through the back door.

Police pointed out the liquor was in pints and half-pint bottles. An investigation of the burglary showed nothing missing in addition to the whiskey.

No arrests had been made in connection with the recent wave of burglaries late Saturday.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Two robbers took $300 from a men's furnishings store on the west side, and presumably split in on a share-and-share-alike basis. One of them also got a pair of shoes to boot.

Curtain Call

by Sue Williams

The show that they couldn't forget—that riotous comedy, Little Theatre's first play of this season, "John Loves Mary" is coming back again by popular demand to entertain what we hope will be a capacity audience at Ouachita Parish High School auditorium in behalf of the American Red Cross. All proceeds of this special showing will go to augment the fund drive for the Ouachita parish chapter of Red Cross

"John Loves Mary" was one of the most talked about stage shows ever presented in Monroe and it was carried to veterans hospital for Monroe Day during Christmas holidays and was most enthusiastically received by the patients.

In the press, over the air and man to man it has been acclaimed, so it is little wonder that officials of the Red Cross drive conceived the idea of reviving it, as far back as two months ago. One difficulty after another arose but they never gave up the idea, even with the cast of ten scattered from Leicester, England, to New Orleans and tied up in various other activities, they were undaunted and now with a majority of the cast rounded up and three new replacements, it is "John Loves Mary" again in benefit show this time.

Bill Bassett who played Lt. O'Leary in the original cast is tied up with the only male role in "The Voice of the Turtle" which will be presented by Little Theatre about the first Tuesday in May, so his role will be created in the new version by none other than genial fellow about town who is always willing to help a good for the Capitol Kiddie Show, Garland Shell. With Jim Hornbeak, member of Little Theatre board, who played General Biddle, now a resident of New Orleans, his part will be played by Frank Breese. The part of Lily, played by Anne Breard who is now visiting in England, goes to your humble reporter. Here I've been heckling Director Stocker Fontelieu, in a good natured sort of a way, for overlooking me and he turns around and hands me one of the prize packages of the year, a role equally as interesting as the ones I played in "Front Page" and "The Night of January 16th".

Miss June Shultz and her drama class from O. P. H. S. have willingly elected to do the properties and stage setting for the show, and if the date can be cleared we will confirm it later as April 26. It's a date for a good show and a good cause.

Random Notes—Rehearsal for "The Voice of The Turtle" boasted a host of interesting visitors on Thursday evening—Author and publicity man, Anthony Buttitta who did the publicity for "The Voice of The Turtle" when it opened on Broadway as well as such other famous shows like "Anna Lucasta", "One Touch of Venus" and others, came out from L. S. U. for the Easter holidays was on hand as well as Henry Guerriero from Tulane—Mac Ward came out with his house guest Paul Duet from New Orleans, former French instructor of N. J. C.—Our board member and guardian of the treasure, Julius Cahn dropped in during the evening bringing with him Jimmie Guerriero, medical student from L. S. U. who was last seen on Little Theatre stage in the leading role of Noel Coward's "Blythe Spirit".—Director Stocker Fontelieu will be in New Orleans this week end to spend Easter with his family and also to return to the New Orleans Little Theatre the costumes and properties borrowed for "The Glass Menagerie"—Dotsy Fountain who plays Olive in the coming production "The Voice of The Turtle" will motor to Smackover, Ark. for Easter with her family, sporting two new front teeth as a result of an automobile accident a few days back. Dotsy is a swell kid so we thought of writing a little parady for her entitled "All I want for Easter is my two front teeth".

TATTOOED REDS

RANGOON — (AP) — Police in the rice-growing delta district of Myaungmya arrested four members of the Burma Communist party while they were being tattoed for "invulnerability" in anti-government battles. The Burmese believe that the tattooing of certain parts of the body with the Burmese alphabet safeguards it wearers from injury. According to the design and color ink used, protection is supposed to be given against wild animals and knife and bullet wounds. The custom is widely adopted by bandits.

Peanut shells are regarded by most gardeners as excellent material to use in mulching both flowers and vegetables.

ALEXANDRIA VISITS MONROE SPORTS TODAY

COGGIN OPTIONED BY SHREVEPORT TO LOCAL CLUB

Pitcher Bill Tremel, Late Of Clarksdale, Bought From Boston Braves

Monroe's baseball stock went soaring yesterday with the acquisition of two new hurlers, one of them Cliff Coggin, the Mississippi Southern athlete who won national football fame last year when, as an end, he set an intercollegiate record for pass receptions.

Business Manager Paul Manasseh of the Cotton States League Sports yesterday announced President Bonneau Peters had optioned Coggin to Monroe from the Shreveport club. At the same time he announced the Sports have purchased Bill Tremel, who pitched for Clarksdale, Miss., in the Cotton States last year, from the Boston Braves.

Coggin, a righthander, joins the Sports as a rookie and is probably the best known of the Monroe club membership throughout this section. Tremel, also a northpaw, won seven and lost five with Clarksdale last summer.

Monroe, with a record of two victories over Louisiana Tech and Vicksburg's Billies and a lone loss to the Alexandria Aces in their exhibition schedule, will meet the Alexandria club here this afternoon at 3 o'clock in another exhibition at Legion Memorial Stadium.

Manager Al Mazur, who so far hasn't made any announcements concerning his possible choices for the starting lineup when the Sports launch their Cotton States campaign at Natchez, Miss., on April 18—nine days away—will use today's exhibition to further get a line on the talent available.

Right now no more than two positions, and possibly a third, appear sewed up.

Mazur, with Shreveport in the Texas League last year, is almost a sure bet for second base, and Parnell Ruark, a 25-year-old outfielder, purchased from Sparta, Ga., where he batted .389 for a sixth place club in the Georgia State League last year, is due to be in left field. Ruark knocked in 110 runs last year while hitting 38 doubles, 17 triples, and ten homers.

The "possible" third starter appears to be Jim Noverni, a young Chicago rookie, who is tagged for shortstop. A ruptured blood vessel in his wrist has kept Noverni keyed down, however.

In addition to Coggin and Tremel, the late acquisitions, other hurlers in the forefront right now include Bill Muffett, "Turkey" Lurk, Bobby Johnson, Earl Doud, Bill Bruce, Bill Coffey, and Joe Davis.

Muffett is the only holdover from the Helena Seaporters of last year. When Bonneau Peters purchased the Helena franchise last fall and transferred the club to Monroe, he took over the contracts of four Helena players, but Muffett is the only one kept for Monroe. He had a 10-10 record last season.

Lurk is a former Helena player, however, who pitched for the San Diego Naval Air Station last season. With Helena in 1948 he had a record of three wins against four losses.

Johnson is the former Northwestern Louisiana State College athlete from Shreveport, who won three and lost five with the Alexandria Aces in 1949. He also played in the outfield for the Aces.

Doud, considering the fact that he was working for a seventh place club, won 11 and lost 11 for Wausau, Wis., in the Wisconsin State League last summer. He registered 129 strikeouts and walked only 109.

Coffey, with a 4-6 record at Vernon, Tex., in the Longhorn League in '49, looks promising and is a hard thrower.

Davis, hurling for Dothan, Ala., last year, won 11 and lost 13 for a fifth place Alabama State League team while fanning 192 and walking only 106. Davis might easily be just the boy to become the ace of Mazur's mound corps.

Bruce is a product of the Shreveport American Legion Junior baseball program and is in his rookie year.

The catching department right now is in the hands of Henry Johnson and Virgil Bivens. Johnson formerly caught for Clarksdale, Miss., and Bivens is a rookvie from Texarkana, Tex.

Rounding out the infield with Mazur and Noverini, the leading prospects look like Charlie Cline and Carl Tucker at third, and Eddie Czaplicki and Raymond Mendoza at first.

Cline is a rookie from Nashville, Tenn., and Tucker was signed last week as a free agent after formerly playing with Mobile of the Southern Association and Shreveport. Czaplicki, a rookie from Patterson, N. J., was signed by the Sports at a Florida baseball school, and Mendoza, a snappy fielder, was acquired from Dublin, Ga., of the Georgia State League. Mendoza turned pro after completing his eligibility as a member of the national champion San Diego, Calif., American Legion Junior baseball team.

Among the top candidates to side Ruark in the garden patrol are Tom Arvanites, Billy Gimler, John Smith, and Lance Phillips.

Gimler and Smith are a pair of Monroe youths who came up

Tickets Go On Sale For Monroe Opener

Tickets for Monroe's opening night home game against the Natchez Indians here April 20 will go on sale at Legion Memorial Stadium here today, Business Manager Paul Manasseh said last night.

Manasseh said tickets would also be put on advanced sale tomorrow at Lockhart-Blair Sports Shop. Prices are: General admission, 80 cents; white bleachers, 50 cents; colored bleachers, 50 cents; children, 25 cents.

League President Al Haraway of Helena, accompanied by David Bloom of the Memphis Commerical Appeal, also plans to attend Monroe's home opener, Manasseh said.

Hal Wolan, second baseman, was also optioned yesterday to Alexandria, which has a working agreement with Shreveport. Wolan played for Brewton in the Alabama State League last year.

Tom Perry, a former Monroe pitcher, has also been acquired by Alexandria and may pitch against the Sports in their exhibition here today.

ARISE COLLARS OLYMPIA TO WIN EXCELSIOR CAP

Gets Revenge For Loss In Paumonok; Delegate Comes In Third

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Addison Stable's Arise, which has been second in his last two races, finally brought home the bacon today for his Canadian owners by beating Olympia in the $24,450 Excelsior Handicap at Jamaica.

The brown 4-year-old son of He Did caught the favored Olympia in a blazing stretch drive, passing him at the sixteenth pole. At the finish, Arise was a length and a half ahead of Fred W. Hooper's sprint star with Woolford Farm's Delegate third, another length and a half in arrears.

Jockey Doug Dodson said he got Arise into a good position early, and the horse had it when he asked him to open the throttle.

Owned by the Addison brothers, William and Horry, of Toronto, Arise stepped the mile and one sixteenth over a fast track in 1:43 4/5. It was one second off the Jamaica track record set 25 years ago by James Butler's Sting.

The winner, fourth choice of a crowd of 43,208 customers, returned $10.50, $4.70, and $2.70. Olympia, the favorite at $2.70 to $1, paid $4.30 and $2.70. Delegate paid $2.50 to show.

Arise, beaten by a neck by Royal Governor in the Widener in February, and loser to Olympia by a length and a quarter in last week's Paumonok, netted $17,200. He had earned $20,025 in five previous starts this year, winnig one of them.

The University of Arizona swimming team will face six opponents—two of them twice—during the 1950 season.

SKEET SHOOTERS MEETING TODAY

Expecting Another Big Turnout Following Record Of Season Last Sunday

The Monroe Skeet Club, which attracted a record crowd for the season to its range at Plum and South Sixth streets last Sunday, expects another big turnout when the firing begins again this afternoon.

Adding to the fun, Butter Krust Bakery, Brice's Super Market, and Hodges Super Market are offering awards for the best shooting of the day. Butter Krust will give a month's supply of bread, and Brice's and Hodges are offering hams.

Ross Graves broke all previous records at the range last Sunday when he turned in a perfect score, breaking 75 out of 75 targets in the skeet division.

Graves appeared in his best form, even better than last year when he took second place in the 200-shot club championship event for the C. D. McAdams Trophy with a score of 185x200.

T. O. "Toby" Bancroft still ruled on the traps, however, as he cracked 69x75 last Sunday.

Other skeet scores last Sunday were Glen Anderson, 89x100; Earl Andrews, 107x125; Bert Williams, 66x75; Bill Snyder, 37x50; "Toby" Bancroft, 69x75; J. D. Colorado A. And M. Acquires New Coach

FORT COLLINS, Colo., April 8.—(AP)—William M. (Bill) Strannigan, former college and A. A. U. star, was appointed today as head basketball coach at Colorado A. and M.

Strannigan's appointment becomes effective Monday and he will take immediate charge of spring workouts.

It had been thought that a successor to H. B. (Bebe) Lee, named head coach at Colorado earlier this week, would not be selected before May 1. Athletic Director Harry Hughes said action was taken sooner in order to give the new coach a better chance to become acquainted with his players.

A native of Rock Springs, Wyo., Strannigan is 31, married and the father of two young daughters. He played one year at the University of Colorado and two at the Universty of Wyoming, winning all conference recognition at guard all three years. He also lettered in baseball at both schools as a pitcher and as a tailback in football at Wyoming.

PUTTING ON THE DOG

A big attraction at the Monroe skeet range the last couple of Sundays has been the "educated" pointer bird dogs owned by Robert L. Fuller, Monroe. The dogs, Pete and Jake, pictured above, ballance objects for minutes at a time on various parts of their body. Local dog fanciers consider Pete and Jake among the best trained dogs in obedience. 'Football Knee' Giving Earl Torgeson Trouble

BOSTON, April 8.—(AP)—Braves First Baseman Earl Torgeson is bothered with a "football knee."

When Torgeson twisted his right knee at Bradenton, Fla., a week ago he aggravated "an old football injury," Dr. Roger Doyle reported to the club today.

Torgy was a high school footballer about eight years ago.

The club said he'll work out Monday at Wellesley High School and Dr. Doyle will wait until then before predicting when the knee will be O. K.

Dr. Doyle said there is no bone chip but the knee has a condition known as synovitis which is a slight increase in the amount of fluid in the knee. That results in swelling.

Torgy's knee injury came when he hopped off a train after farewells to his family as they started north.

ON TRUST 2ND IN TANFORAN'S 3-HORSE EVENT

Boomerang Boy Third; Four Entries Snatched Because Of Mud

SAN BRUNO, Calif., April 8.—(AP)—Calumet's Ponder won the $10,000 added Marchbank Handicap at Tanforan today, defeating On Trust and Boomerang Boy in a three-horse race.

Ponder ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1.45 flat.

Last year's Kentucky Derby winner won by three quarters of a length to pay $3.10. There were no place and show payoffs.

Weighted at 126 and ridden by Jockey Steve Brooks, Ponder was held back while first Boomerang Boy and then On Trust set the pace. But Brooks let Ponder go after the first half mile.

Four horses were scratched due to the muddy condition of the track. They were Ponder's stablemate, Two Lea; Rakoczi, Moonrush and Miche. There was only win betting on the race.

Ponder, the 1-2 favorite, paid $3.10.

Boomerang Boy, ridden by William Shoemaker, went into the early lead and then relinquished it to On Trust, with Ralph Neves aboard.

On Trust, California bred horse, then opened up an eighth length lead with Ponder still trailing as they went down the back stretch.

Brooks urged his mount as they rounded the far turn.

Ponder picked up ground steadily and charged into the lead in the stretch to win.

On Trust carried 116 and Boomerang Boy 104 pounds.

The race was worth $5,500 to the winner.

A crowd of 16,413 attended.

"It was a nice easy race," said Brooks after the handicap.

"Just like getting out in the morning and breezing with a couple of other horses."

And the rival jockeys conceded:

Neves—"He (Ponder) was just playing with me."

Shoemaker—"We couldn't beat those two."

Emphasizing Ponder's speed, he ate up a two length lead by On Trust in the stretch.

Schroeder To Defend River Oaks Net Title

HOUSTON, Texas, April 8.—(AP)—Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., will be out to defend his men's singles title Monday as the River Oaks Country Club Invitational Tennis Tournament begins a seven-day run here.

Two other former champions of the 16-year-old tournament will be among Schroeder's toughest competition.

They are Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, Atlanta, Ga., veteran, and Gardner Mulloy, Miami, Fla.

Grant, champion in 1935-36-37, is the only three-time winner.

Mulloy, Miami attorney, took the title in 1946.

Wilmer Allison, former Austin, Tex., Davis Cupper, was the 1932 titlist and will compete again this year in the veteran men's division.

Other entries in next week's tournament include Earl Cochell, San Franciso, Herbert Flam, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Tom Brown Los Angeles, Bob Falkenburg, Los Angeles, and Fred Kovaleski, William & Mary college star.

Three of the nation's top 10 ranked players will compete for the women's title. They are Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, ranked number 2, Patricia Todd, La Jolla, Calif., number 4, and Dorothy Head, Almeda, Calif., number 9.

Virginia Kovacs of San Francisco, the defending champion, did not enter this year.

SEMI-PRO LEAGUE MEETING BILLED TOMORROW NIGHT

Northeast Louisiana Circuit Will Hold Session At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO, La., April 8.—(Special) — The Northeast Louisiana League, major semi-pro baseball circuit of this area, will hold a meeting here Monday night at 8 o'clock at the R. E. A. office to complete plans for the approaching campaign.

Minor difficulties in the league set-up will be ironed out at the meeting, and any new clubs in this section desiring to join may be admitted.

Clubs lined up for the season so far are Urania, Columbia, Winnsboro, Tallulah, Lake Providence and possibly Jonesville.

The league, which desires eight members but plans to operate with less if no new teams ask admittance, will go along with practically the same plan as last year except minor changes in the class player rule and other lessor revisions.

May 14 has been fixed as the opening date on a 42-game per team schedule with contest played three days each week.

Umpires will also be discussed at the Monday meeting.

Look how you save with Dynaflow

FIRST thing you notice, of course, is the bother and effort Dynaflow Drive* saves.

Next, that Dynaflow saves you physically—after long trips you're less tense and tired, more relaxed.

But then, as the miles pile up—and this comes from cold, recorded fact after Dynaflow's two years of public operation—you spot savings you hadn't expected . . .

You save on tires—because power application is steady, even. On clutch expense—the usual friction clutch is gone.

You save on transmission maintenance, and the rear-axle expenses likely to go with it. And the way your engine is oil-cushioned against normal shocks and strains shows up in less engine upkeep.

You may well discover another pleasant surprise, too.

We are getting a steadily mounting number of well-satisfied letters about gasoline mileage with Dynaflow cars.

The SPECIAL has shown some records little short of phenomenal. The SUPER is delivering mileage that compares most favorably with gear-shift cars. And the ROADMASTER more than holds its own with cars of its size and bulk.

In short, there's a lot more to please your budget in the 1950 Dynaflow than its new lower price. Refinements over the past two years result in savings that are sizable over the life of the car.

Knowing that, don't you want us to demonstrate the big side of Dynaflow—the utter smoothness of America's first oil-does-it-all drive?

* Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Only Buick has Dynaflow—and with it goes: HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

Matchless Team — DYNAFLOW and F-263

In the Buick beauty pictured here you can have both Dynaflow and Buick's very latest in power. For every 1950 SUPER has the F-263 engine, that lively high-compression stepper that's the big power thrill of the season. Dynaflow Drive is optional equipment at extra cost.

FERRIER HOLDS LEAD IN MASTERS TOURNEY

BEN HOGAN ONE STROKE BEHIND IN SECOND SPOT

Three-Putt On 18th Green Keeps Bantam Benny Out Of 1st Place Tie

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8.—(AP)—Jim Ferrier's erratically concocted 73 on the third round was good enough to keep him in front in the Masters' Tournament today as Ben Hogan three-putted on the 18th green to lose his chance for a tie.

After three rounds, the big, Australian-born Ferrier had a total of 210, six strokes under par for the long, testing Augusta National course. Hogan, the convalescent clouter from Texas and Hersey, Pa., was second with 212 and two of her Texans, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demaret, were two strokes further back.

Only these four and Sammy Snead, last years winner who came in with 215, appeared to have any chance of winning as the pressure, the course and the gallery of about 10,000 took its toll of the rest of the field.

Par for the 6,900-yard, rolling National course is 36-36—72, and with the pins placed in difficult positions on the big, tricky greens, it took real golf to beat that figure today. The weather was the only thing better than on the first two days. It was warm and sunny, with very little breeze.

National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., had a 68, the best round of the day, which left him trailing with 219. Nelson had a 69, as did Clayton Heafner. There were a few 70.s.

Hogan, who had to soak his legs in hot water last night to improve circulation and stop the swelling that has troubled him since his near-fatal automobile accident last year, came in with a sound 71 green.

After Ferrier, who was missing greens all day, had come in to take an early lead, Ben overcame putting trouble to retain his chance for a tie. On the final hole he left himself a 25-foot downhill putt for a birdie. His aim was a couple of inches off and the ball rolled five feet past. Then he almost rimmed the cup on his next try and went over par for the fifth time during his round.

He was bunkered on the short fourth hole to lose a stroke after getting birdies on the second and third. And he overshot the green on the 425-yard 14th.

Bne and six birdies, all the result of spectacular driving and approaching that left him within easy putting distance.

Demaret, one of the few who still have a chance to overhaul Ferrier, fired his second straight par 72 round. He had his second eagle three on the 480-yard dogleg 13th hole, sinking a 40 foot putt. But he three-putted five times and was over par six times, coming out even when he birdied five holes.

Ferrier's usually steady long game gave him trouble today and his delicate chip shots and fine putting couldn't quite make up for this weakness. He missed the green on nine of the 18 holes, but, due to some brilliant recoveries, was over par on only five of them.

After going out one under par, he began losing ground on the back nine, going over three times and having only one birdie.

Possibly the pressure had something to do with it. Besides being the leader, Ferrier was playing with Byron Nelson, two-time masters winner from Roanoke, Tex., who was shooting exceptionally fine golf. Nelson, over par only once all day, had a three-under 69 for a total of 214. It was the accuracy of his long irons that Jim tried in vain to match.

Nelson was the only one of the early finishers anywhere near the top.

Ferrier went over par on the first hole when his drive sliced into a tree. He was off the green on the second and third holes, too, but recovered for a birdie and par with accurate chips. He did the same on the fifth, but missed a four-foot putt for par, then birdied the short sixth and the long eighth.

Coming home he was over on the tenth when his ball kicked off the green and on the 12th, when he overshot the carpet. Each time he had two putts after chipping back. A birdie on the 485-yard 15th, which calls for a troublesome carry over a pond, put Ferrier back even with par. He had it with a 10-foot putt. He missed the next green and went over to stay.

Sam Snead, last year's winner who nearly shot himself out of contention yesterday, got back in again with a fine 70 for 215. That left him with an outside chance of winning if the other leaders should weaken tomorrow. Snead picked up his two strokes on par with birdies on the 12th and 15th holes.

Snead had exactly the same score at this stage of last year's masters and trailed Johnny Palmer by a stroke. He won with a 67 on the final round.

One masters' record was broken today when Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., took an eleven on the 190-yard 16th hole. It's almost all carry over water and Barron went into the pond three times. Worst previous one-hole score recorded in the masters was Frank Walsh's ten on the second.

He finished tenth on Glamor Rose, a sprint for two-year-olds, to start the day. Although no handicapper gave the juvenille chance Glamor Rose was a 5 to 1 second favorite because of Longden. An estimated $75,000 was bet on Glamor Rose.

Curtis Faces 'Phantom' Challenge In Mat Main Event

SPORTS ROUNDUP by Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8.—(AP)—A touching reunion at the Masters Golf Tournament was the first meeting in 15 years between Bob Jones and his old caddie, Luke Ross. . . . Luke, a Cleveland boy, followed Bob around to carry his clubs when Jones was winning everything in sight. . . . Bob figured Luke was the best possible bag toter because he never made a suggestion about which club to use. . . . Chances are they had a few words about Jones' celebrated iron shot that won the playoff against Bobby Cruickshank for the Open title in 1923. . . . After Cruickshank took three strokes to reach the last green, Jones hauled out a mid-iron from his bag, hardly noticing which club he took, and fired a perfect shot six feet from the pin. . . . Luke, naturally, was standing near Jones and right behind him was Stewart Maiden, Bobby's mentor. . . . As the ball sailed in the air, a sure winning shot, Maiden grabbed his brand new straw hat in both hands and smashed it down on Luke s head. . . If Ross could forget the shot, he hardly could forget that wallop.

What Price?

Perhaps the best conversational twosome on the Augusta National course yesterday was Horton Smith and Gene Sarazen. They weren't scoring so well, but they were having fun. . . . Smith finally came through with a birdie on the ninth, and commented: "I had to get that to break 50. I had a lot of fives there." . . . "Yeah," commented Gene drily, "they're cheap today."

Sports Before our Eyes

Ups-and-downs item: Claude Harmon, who had an eagle three on the second hole in the first round of the Masters, took a six on the same hole yesterday. And Amateur Champ Charlie Coe jumped from two to six on the 155-yard 12th. . . . Henry Williams of the Tuly-Secane Club near Philadelphia, probably is the only prominent golf pro whose club is partly owned by a church. . . . But he hasn't got a prayer in this tournament. . . . Scoop Latimer checks in from nearby Greenville, S. C., with the news that the natives of the Virgin Islands, where he has been vacationing, are such enthusiastic baseball fans that all work stops at World Series time. . . . Booneville, Miss., a town too small for a daily newspaper, offers a claim to being the top basketball south. Its boys team won the state title; the girls finished third and its junior college reached the finals of the National tournament. Among the three, they accumulated 17 trophies.

Dark Future

Frank Gustine, who could only play day baseball when he was with the Cubs last year, is slated to spend this season with the Browns, who play almost entirely at night. . . . Maybe that way he'll get to see a few stars.

COLOGNE, WOLFE TO MATCH WITS IN SEMI-WINDUP

Hooded Grappler Claims Big Jack Does "Too Much Popping Off"

Jack Curtis, former world's light heavyweight mat champion and long a favorite with wrestling fans here, will meet the challenge of "Black Phantom," hooded tussler, in the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night.

The Phantom, one of five scrappers in a battle royal that included Curtis here last week, became irked with Curtis and challenged the former titleholder immediately after his appearance in the semi-final attraction.

Grabbing the public address system, the Phantom issued a public challenge to Curtis, declaring, "He's been doing too much popping off. I want the chance to show him how to wrestle. I'll prove he's just a big overrated sissy."

Curtis was quick to accept the challenge orally, but Black Phantom was emphatic in his demands to Promoter Kallio that Curtis be required to sign a contract.

"If you don't make him sign, he'll run out on the match," Phantom argued.

"I've never ran away from a challenge yet," declared Curtis who didn't quibble about signing a contract and affixed his signature along with that of Phantom and Kallio as soon as the contract was drawn up.

Phantom asked the match be a winner-take-all affair, and Curtis agreed. Then Curtis asked that the match be given no time limit with Phantom being required to unmask if he was beaten. Phantom rejected both Curtis requests.

The match will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

For his curtain-raiser, Promoter Kallio will present George Cologne, New Orleans, and Joe Wolfe, Columbus, O.

Cologne and Wolfe will meet over an hour time limit distance, also with two falls to win.

Ruth Still 'Biggest Drawing Card' In Baseball Shrine At Cooperstown

NEW YORK, April 8. — (AP) — The National Baseball Hall of Fame, as we know it, is a shrine in Cooperstown, N. Y., dedicated to the diamond greats and the men who made the game possible.

But who started it, and why? How does one become a member. And why was the obscure village of 2,599 selected as its site.

The story dates back to 1935. A farmer living in Fly Creek, a crossroads village near Cooperstown, came across a battered, undersized and obviously home-made baseball in his attic. The ball had once belonged to young Abner Graves who testified the game of baseball was invented at Cooperstown by Abner Doubleday. It soon became known as the Abner Doubleday baseball.

The baseball, however, was not the first evidence that the national pastime originated in Cooperstown. In 1908, a commission, made up of the most prominent baseball executives of the day, announced after a long investigation that the game was born in the little, sleepy hamlet of Cooperstown.

The antique baseball was bought by a Stephen C. Clark in 1935. Clark conceived the idea of exhibiting the ball, along with other baseball relics in a local club.

Clark solicited help, and soon afterwards Ford Frick, president of the National League, heard of the project. Frick, in turn, enlisted the aid of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis and Will Harridge, president of the American League. Together, and with other baseball officials, the trio accumulated baseball relics from across the nation to be placed in a museum atCooperstown.

It was then that Frick got the idea of having bronze plaques of baseball's immortals hung on the walls of the museum. At the time, plans were being formulated to celebrate the game's 100th anniversary in 1939. It was natural that the plaques should be dedicated at that time.

But who was to choose those to be honored? It was decided that the members of the Baseball Writers Association of America would be the best qualified judges.

In the first four elections (1936-1939) the baseball writers named 12 players for immortality. All but one — Willie Keeler of "Hit 'em where they ain't" fame — were alive and present at the dedication ceremonies on June 12, 1939, at Cooperstown.

To be elected to the Hall of Fame a player must receive at least 75 per cent of the votes cast. Ballots are sent out early each year by the secretary of the Baseball Writers' Association. The voting is confined to members of at least ten years standing in the association. The rules stipulate that the writer must be actively engaged in covering the game.

A player to be eligible to receive votes must be retired as an active player for at least a year and his playing career must fall within the previous 25-year- span. (As an example: In 1949 the writers voted on players of the 1923-1947 era).

There are 58 plaques hanging in the historic hall today. Some of the better known include Grover Cleveland Alexander, Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane, Eddie Collins, Frank Frisch, Henry Louis Gehrig, Charles L. Gehringer, Robert Moses Grove, Clark C. Griffith, Rogers Hornsby, Carl Hubbell, Walter Perry Johnson, Willie Keller, Napoleon (Larry) LaJoie, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Connie Mack, Christy Mathewson, John J. McGraw, George Harold Sisler, Tristram E. (Tris) Speaker, Honus Wagner, George Edward (Rube) Waddell, and Denton T. Cy Young.

But, somehow, the kids always stop and gaze at the one which reads: "Greatest drawing card in history of baseball. Holder of many home run and other batting records. Gathered 714 home runs in addition to fifteen in world series."

Of course, it's the "Babe"—George Herman Ruth.

My 66 Years In The Big Leagues

CHAPTER 12

A TRIBUTE TO THE IMMORTALS

On this diamond jubilee of America's national game there are fifty-five bronze tablets in the Hall of Fame, erected in honor of the men who have been elected to this baseball academy of immortals.

It would be impossible in this limited space to pay tribute to all of them, despite the fact that I consider each and every one a noteworthy player. Many were my friends in the early days of the game; others were my own "boys."

The Hall of Fame Committee controls the policy of the national institution and elects to the gallery of immortals the players and builders who were active in the era prior to those elected by the balloting of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

FIRST PLAYERS IN HALL OF FAME

I was invited to the dedication and considered it a great honor to be there. Taps were blown in honor of the living and the dead, and more than 10,000 people bowed their heads in silence.

The first players elected to the Hall of Fame numbered a fateful thirteen. But when the doors were officially opened that dedication day, only eleven passed through its portals. Two were missing—Christy Mathewson and Wee Willie Keeler, who had passed away before the event took place.

The ceremony of cutting the ribbons at the entrance gates was performed by Ford Frick. Beside him stood Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, William Harridge, president of the American League, and the late W. G. Bramham, who performed valuable service as president of the minor leagues.

As the gates swung open the crowd of onlookers broke into cheers. There stood the three greatest outfielders of all times: Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, and Tris Speaker.

I was privileged to go through the open bronze doors first, because I was the oldest, no doubt. Each of us, as we were presented to the throng, tried to express our gratitude in a few words. The records say that I "choked up and moved on with tear-filled eyes."

In the true American style, photographers were on hand to snap our pictures. When we sat down, Eddie Collins, the smiling Babe Ruth, Connie Mack (still stage-struck), and Cy Young were in the front row. Ty Cobb, however, failed to appear in time to have his photograph taken. Someone was heard to say, "Ty's late—just as he always was for spring training."

Standing behind us was a row of immortals: Hans Wagner, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Tris Speaker, Napoleon Lajoie, George Sisler, and Walter Johnson.

We then went to Doubleday Field, which was filled to capacity, where three thrilling exhibition games were played during the day. The first game was an old-fashioned "town ball," the kind I used to play as a boy in the old Brookfields.

The crowd was fascinated by a two-inning game of early baseball, the kind played by the New York Knickerbockers in the 1850's. The pitcher, called the thrower in those days, stood only forty-five feet from the batter, who was then called the striker. The catcher stood back at a safe distance, as was the custom in the days before masks and chest protectors and chin guards and catcher's mitts.

The centennial exhibitions closed with a modern nine-inning game between two major league mixed teams. Lefty Grove, Dizzy Dean, Ducky Medwick, Hank Greenberg, and Mel Ott were among the stars. This anniversary day brought back to me many happy memories.

BRONZE TABLETS TO THE IMMORTALS

Today I am revisiting these historic scenes with you in memory. I can mention but a few of the tablets as we quickly pass along.

We stand before the bronze plaque bearing the portrait of Grover Cleveland Alexander. Under it are these lines: "Great National League pitcher for two decades with Phillies, Cubs and Cardinals starting in 1911. Won 1926 World Championship for Cardinals by striking out Lazzeri with bases full in final crisis at Yankee Stadium."

Those who remember this game will never forget the exciting moment as Alexander the Great, 6 feet, 1 inch tall, hurled the winning ball. In his twenty years in the pitcher's box he played 696 games with 90 shutouts, 373 vcitories and 208 defeats, percentage .642. He was in the majors twenty years, from 1911-1930.

There is the tablet honoring Adrian Constantine Anson, known and beloved as "Cap" and "Pop." It bears this tribute: "Greatest hitter and greatest National League player-manager of nineteenth century. Started with Chicagos in

MINOR CLUB BOSS DEFIES BASEBALL ORDER

THREATENS SUIT WHEN TRAUTMAN KILLS CONTRACTS

El Paso Owner Challenges Right To Rule On Player Transactions

EL PASO, Tex., April 8.—(AP)—A defiant minor league club owner today said he still planned Monday a federal court suit that would:

1. Attack the structure of U. S. baseball, the authority of its commissioners.

2. Brew new discord between U. S. and Mexican baseball.

Target of El Paso Club Owner Jack Corbett's planned suit is George M. Trautman, commissioner of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors).

Trautman yesterday nullified the contracts of three El Paso players, one from Juarez, Mexico, in the same Class C Arizona-Texas League with El Paso, and the contracts of several other players in various leagues. He found these players still had contractural obligations to Mexican League teams.

At Columbus, O., today Trautman said U. S. baseball went through hell during "player raids" by the Mexican League several years ago; that the present agreement between the two organizations stopped it, and that "we don't intend to go through it (hell) again."

A second club owner, Julio Ramirez of Juarez, indicated he planned a suit in U. S. Federal Court similar to Corbett's. But there were indications Ramirez might not go through with his suit.

Corbett's action is still in the planning stage and is entangled with his plans to sell his El Paso club to R. L. Edmondson, Sr., of Pampa, Tex., for $32,000.

What Corbett wants in federal court is an injunction that would prevent Trautman from nullifying the contracts. He says he'll ask by what authority Trautman and the national association did this.

He also wants a cash bond posted to protect the El Paso club from any damages it might suffer.

Corbett still owns the club.

"Until I get the money in my hands I still own the ball club, and as long as I am owner, I am going to protect my rights," he said.

Edmondson said he had agreed to buy the club and a tentative price of $32,000 had been set. Edmondson said the sale had not been completed.

The El Paso City Council will have to approve transfer of the club's lease on the ball park. Councilman E. W. Kayser said it is doubtful if the council could act on the matter before Thursday. Monday is the day Corbett says he'll file his suit.

If Corbett files the suit it will mark only the second time someone of the executive side of the game has attacked baseball's structure. In 1931 Phil Ball, then of the St. Louis Browns, sued the late high commissioner of baseball, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, when the latter refused to sanction the transfer of player Fred Bennett from St. Louis to Milwaukee.

Ball lost in the district court, and after he appealed to the circuit court of appeals the case was dismissed by agreement.

Trautman suggested Corbett and Ramirez stay out of federal courts until the exhaust organized baseball's own procedures in settling their protest.

He said if Corbett was dissatisfied with the ruling, he could appeal to the executive committee. If he lost there, Trautman said, his case might be heard by A. B. (Happy) Chandler, the supreme commissioner of baseball.

"I have already appealed to the executive committee," Corbett said today. "They have done nothing for me. I maintain that Trautman and the national association do not have authority to take those players away from me. There is nothing in baseball law that gives them that authority and they will tell you so. They are the ones who have done something they have no right to do."

Corbett declared:

L. S. U. Tennis Team Beats Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, April 8. —(AP)—Louisiana State's netmen bowled over Georgia Tech today 6 to 3—the same score by which they toppled Georgia yesterday.

The Engineers, who had beaten Georgia 8-1, took the top matches in both singles and doubles against L. S. U. but dropped all the others.

Louis King and Gordon Statham won the No. 1 and 2 singles over L. S. U.'s Beerly Coington and Roger Richardson, respectively, in tough, up-hill battles.

Both were swamped by their rivals in the first sets but were able to take the next two. The only other match to go three sets was the No. 3 singles which Kenneth Koach, L. S. U. took from Tom Graham .

In the No. 1 doubles King and Statham were hard put to defeat Richardson and Larry Mills of L. S. U. but managed to close the match in two sets. The score was 7-5, 6-3.

The Engineers were without the services of ace Don Ferguson, Jr., who was called out of the city on business.

Alabama Again Whips Louisiana State, 5-3

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8.—(AP) — Alabama's baseballers made it two in a row today, downing Louisiana State, 5-3, by suppressing a ninth inning rally.

The Tide got off to a fast start in the first, nicking L.S.U. for three runs, then picked up two more in the sixth. L.S.U. rallied in the ninth, with two singles and a double scoring two runs.

Frank Lary, who pitched the Tide to yesterday's victory over L.S.U., did a fancy relief job to squelch the fire today.

Score by innings:

Mechanic Says 'Promoters' Knew About Phoney Fight

BOXER ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING AS 'KID' PORTUGUEZ

Puerto Rican Jose Rafael Aviles Held For Bilking Kansas Fight Fans

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—(AP)—A Puerto Rican mechanic who bilked a Wichita, Kas., fight crowd by using the name of topflight boxer Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez of Cuba, asserted today he had told "the promoters" all about it before the phony fight.

He gave his name as Jose Rafael Aviles, 23. He was arrested here on a warrant from Wichita charging fraud.

Max Yeargain, the Wichita promoter who staged the fight between "Portuguez" and Alvin Williams, 161-pound Indian, stoutly denied Aviles' statement. The bout, fought Wednesday, ended with Aviles taking the 10-count in two minutes and 33 seconds—and about $225 of Yeargain's money for his efforts.

"Just go in and fight," Aviles quoted the unnamed 'promoters' as telling him. "We'll take care of the rest."

In Topeka, Kas., Yeargain denied emphatically there was any truth in Aviles' statement so far as it concerned him.

"The fighter definitely did not tell me he was not Portuguez," Yeargin said. "I didn't know until about 24 hours after the fight Wichita was not Portuguez."

Bo Davis, a Kansas City trainer of beak bashers who made arrangements for Aviles' appearance on Yeargin's card, denied he knew the man was not Portuguez.

"He looked good in the gym," said Davis. "He signed his contract as Portuguez. I'm no investigator and didn't question him."

He said he knew the minute the so-called fight started, however, there was something phoney about the man he was seconding in the ring.

"He looked like a ballet dancer —then he got hit. That was the end of his fight," said Bo eloquently.

Frank Gilleece, Kansas State Boxing Commissioner, said he did not believe Aviles' statement that he had told anyone he was not Portuguez prior to the fight.

"I think he is a liar," Gilleece said in Topeka. He added he had talked to both Yeargain and Davis, and the entire investigation indicated to him that Aviles is not telling the truth.

The real Portuguez said in New York he has never been in Kansas. He has won three of his four bouts in the United States. Three of his fights were in Madison Square Garden.

The 152-pound Aviles, asserting he has "nothing to hide," waived extradition for return to Wichita. City Marshal Arthur R. Wermuth and Deputy Glen Hayes left with Aviles for Wichita by motor car this afternoon. The fighter was handcuffed.

Police Detectives L. J. Hiles and J. E. Miller pulled the sleeping Aviles out of bed at the Pasco Y. M. C. A. here about 8:30 this morning and arrested him.

Aviles said he lives in New York but had been in the midwest about a month.

After his discharge from the army after World War II, Aviles said he moved to New York and obtained work as a mechanic. While there he saw the real Portuguez fight several times and friends had commented upon the resemblance between the two.

Recently, Aviles said, he had been told that the real fighter had retired from the ring. So he decided to use his name. In his native Puerto Rico he had won most of his 35 or 40 fights in 1941 and 1942. He came here to seek a professional fight.

He told police he received only $169 shortly after the brief encounter. In Wichita officials said his share of the purse was $225.

QUIZ SHOW WINS BY PHOTO FINISH IN CHESAPEAKE

Derby Nominee Beats Out Suleiman, Jess Linthicum In Stretch Drive

By George Bowen

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 8. — (AP) —Palatine stable's Quiz Show, hurt last year by shying into a pitchfork, ran today in the stretch like he was struck with one as he won the Chesapeake Trial.

Quiz Show put on a breath-taking rally in the home stretch to beat nine other three-year-olds and force his consideration as a Kentucky Derby contender.

Quiz Show was fourth on eighth of a mile from the finish and appeared out of contention. Jockey John Gilbert gave him the whip and the son of Apache came storming down the middle.

He just nipped Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Suleiman and H. B. Cohen's Jess Linthicum, which had been fighting it out down the home lane. After looking at a photo, the judges gave the $6,225 first prize to Quiz Show by a nose over Suleiman, which was half a length to the fore of Jess Linthicum.

Jess Linthicum also is a derby nominee, as are Janet N. Kelly's Gigolo; which finished fourth, and Greentree stable's Androcles which came in seventh.

All of today's starters except Pebble Son are eligible for next week's $20,000 Chesapeake Stakes when they will be asked to go a mile and a sixteenth.

Today's trial was three-quarters of a mile and Quiz Show did it in 1.12. Winning tickets on him were worth $6.40.

Quiz Show was taken out of training last June when he was hurt with a pitchfork. He had already shown his potentiality by winning five straight races, including the Eastern Shore, William Penn and Christiana Stakes.

He started to get in shape this year with a race at Gulfstream finishing third.

The crowd of 14,593 bet $894,797 on the first of 16 days of racing here. Last year, Havre De Grace opened on a Monday and drew 9,000 fans who bet $643,922.

Are Ball Players Worth That Big Dough? – Listen To Some Of Them

By Joe Reichler

TAMPA, Fla., April 8.—(AP)—Are ball players jealous of each other's success? Does the player making from $5,000 to $10,000 a year harbor any resentment toward the big star earning $50,000 or more?

Well . . . . .

The sun was beating down on the group of pitchers lazing in the Cincinnati Reds' bullpen. They were only slightly interested in the tight game that was going on before them between the Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ewell Blackwell, the tall, slender righthander of the Reds, came jobbing by. He had just finished pitching three innings. He stopped for a breather.

"Hey, Blackie," one of the boys said to him. "Your control was not very sharp."

"Aw, that blind umpire," Blackwell complained. "I had Musial struck out, but he called it a ball. He's got to protect those $50,000 guys, you know. The fans didn't pay to see Musial strike out."

Yeah, I know what you mean," the first speaker said. "Musial, DiMaggio and Williams. They've got the umpires on their side. The other day, I threw six strikes to Williams but the umpire walked him. Anybody else and I would have had a strikeout. But not Williams. He's making $125,000 a year. He's not supposed to be called out on strikes. If he doesn't swing at it, the umpire automatically calls it a ball."

"I don't care what anybody says," chimed in Kent Peterson, a young lefthander," nobody is worth that much money."

"That's right," the unidentified speaker came back. "That's the trouble with the game. Those guys make all the dough while we make peanuts. Maybe if the owners did not pay those guys so much, we'd get more."

"That Williams, now," continued Peterson as if he hadn't been listening. "I've had a lot of luck with him. I've made about five starts against the Red Sox in spring exhibition games and he still has not gotten a hit off me. Every time I get him out this spring, I keep saying to myself:

"If that guy gets $125,000, what should I be getting?"

What do the teammates of Williams and DiMaggio think?

"Personally," observed Johnny Pesky, star third baseman of the Boston Red Sox, "I don't believe any ball player is worth more than $35,000 a year—on his ability alone. That's a heck of a lot of money to pay a fellow just for playing baseball. Where else can he make that much money?

"However, guys like Williams, DiMaggio, Musial and Kiner deserve all the money they make. Why? Because they bring the people to the parks. They've got color. The fans pay their buck and a half to watch him hit. There probably is no way to determine the number of people they attract to the park, but if there were a way, I bet it would show that they more than earn their salaries that way.

"Boston drew over a million people two years in a row," Pesky continued. "Do you think I drew them with my two home runs for the year? Or Dom DiMaggio with hi six? Or Billy Goodman with none? No, it was Williams and Williams alone. The rest of us owe the big guy a vote of thanks. Probably because of him we are making more money than we would otherwise."

And Tommy Henrich? Does he resent Joe DiMaggio's $100,000 salary?

"Resent it?" asked Henrich, a $40,000 a year man himself. "On the contrary, I think the Yankees are not paying him enough. Joe is the greatest player in the game today. Who brings more prestige and money to the club than Joe? Who is a better asset or a better morale builder? The rest of us look up to him. There isn't one player who doesn't consider it an honor to play on the same team with him.

'For my part, they can't pay him enough."

Touring Golf Stars Win Fight With P. G. A., Will Remain In Organization

Difficulties Ironed Out; Ousted Schneiter Not In New Set-Up

By Sterling Slappey

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8.—(AP)—Touring golf stars won their fight with the P. G. A. tonight for more say-so in operating tournaments. They will remain in the P. G. A.

Once threatening difficulties between the two groups were ironed out in adoption of a series of proposals which P. G. A. Executive Secretary Tom Crane said will provide the players "with complete self operation of tournament affairs within the structure of the association."

George Schneiter, ousted last Monday as P. G. A. tournament bureau manager, will not be included in the set-up in any capacity other than as a tournament golfer.

A temporary committee was appointed at a meeting of P. G. A. officials and the golfers to supervise the tournament bureau until the executive committee meets in Columbus, Ohio, between June 20-27.

Its P. G. A. members are Joe Novak of Los Angeles, P. G. A. president; Horton Smith of Detroit, secretary, and Harry Moffitt, of Toledo, treasurer. Player members are Lawson Little, Jimmy Demaret, Clayton Heafner, Tony Penna and Chich Harbert.

The golfers were selected by a board of governors which had acted on behalf of the displeased shot-makers.

Within the next three months, the entire player group will elect a permanent committee to serve from June to the end of the year. A new election then will be held.

At the annual meeting of the association in November a series of amendments to the P. G. A. constitution will be presented to give the players additional authority in tournament affairs.

Novak is chairman of the committee and a co-chairmanship arrangement was agreed upon whereby members of the committee can act while tournaments are going on from Florida to California.

Little was named the first co-chairman.

The players' board of governors first convened last winter and held spasmodic conferences with P. G. A. officials. The "board," including such stars as Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Carey Middlecoff, Little and Demaret, was headed by Schneiter.

The player bid for power came to a head this week. Schneiter's firing in Chicago opened the week and last night and tonight's meeting concluded it.

Among controversial points were P. G. A. plans to change the distribution of purse money in both $10,000 and $15,000 tournaments. Another issue involved where autographed golf clubs can be sold.

Home club pros, who form the bulk of the P. G. A. membership of 2,800, wish to sell the clubs only in their shops. The players for whom the clubs are named wish them sold in department stores and sports shops as well.

There was no comment from either side on what was decided on either of these issues.

YALE'S ACES DOMINATE SOUTHERN RELAYS

JIM FUCHS, FRANK INDIVIDUAL STARS OF ANNUAL EVENT

Meet Records Take Walloping In Birmingham's Big Track Show

By Leroy Simms

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—(AP)—Yale's two aces, Jim Fuchs and Vic Frank, dominated the Southern Relays here today to win unofficial team honors for Ole Eli.

No team trophy is awarded at the meet, but on the usual point basis, Yale would have topped Oklahoma A. & M. and Illinois, 31 1-3 points to 22 each.

Fuchs, trying to beat his own record in the shot put, took first with 57 feet, 6 1-4 inches He had two better ones, both nullified when he stepped over the marker. Neither was measured but both were at or near his own record throw of 58 feet, 4 3-8 inches.

Frank took the discus with a throw of 170 feet, 3 inches. He was second to Fuchs in the shot, and Fuchs was second in the discus.

Oklahoma A. & M. won the mile relay, the sprint medley relay and the 44-yard relay for most of its points. Illinois' Don Laz took the pole vault, with 13 feet, 11 1/2 inches, and team strength accounted for most of the other places for the Illini.

Behind these three in points were Louisiana State, 13; Alabama 12 1-2, and Auburn, 10.

Meet records were broken all over the place, beginning with Fuch's first throw.

The Yale two-mile relay team, anchored by George Wade, took that event in 7:43.8, followed by Illinois, Arkansas and Mississippi in order. That broke the mark of 8:09 set last year by Notre Dame.

Roy Grieve, Bradley, took the high hurdles race with a good 14.4 second performance into the wind. Auburn's Jack Demedicis was a close second. Paul Bienz, Tulane sprinter, won the 100-yard dash in 9.8, with Jimmy Walker of Auburn next.

Michigan's Don McEwen paced his team to a close victory in the distance medley relay, in the new record time of 10:14.5 the old mark of 10:30.7 was set last year by Auburn.

Yale's Vic Frank, while far behind Fuchs, also bettered the old relays shot put record with 52 feet, 8 1-2 inches. The former meet mark of 51 feet, 11 1-2 inches, was set last year by Notre Dame's John Helwig.

Illinois' Don Laz won the pole vault as expected, clearing 13 feet, 11 inches. Vic Frank, Yale, took the discus with 170 feet, 3 inches. Both were new records for the relays and for the legion field track, where all southeastern conference track meets are held.

Elmo Adams of the University of Arkansas won the high jump at 6 feet, 5 1-4 inches.

Penn's Richard Hart took the two-mile run in a close duel with Illinois' Vic Twomey. Hart took the final lap, and came home in front by 10 yards.

Oklahoma Aggies won the sprint medley relay in a breeze, in 3:26.7, a new meet record.

THREATENS SUIT

"I was told recently by a representative of his (Trautman's) office that 'if you have plenty of money and are ready to retire and sell your club, go ahead and fight. If not, you had better stay in the good graces of the top men in baseball.'

"What I want to know," Corbett said, "is what authority Trautman has to nullify my contracts. They are going to have to show cause."

The El Paso club owner had said he planned to name Ventura Morales, one of the players whose contracts were nullified, a party to the suit. He said he had a letter from Morales in which the outfielder told him in late March he did not have a job with the Mexican league. He said yesterday that he planned to play Morales, now with his club, in the opening game of the season April 18.

"In this controversy on the Mexican League protest that several of its players had been signed by National Association teams despite the 'no raiding' agreement," Trautman said, "we have held hearings, examined many parties, and finally concluded that some of the players had contractural obligations with Mexican league. Those contracts were nullified.

"Mr. Corbett sincerely believes he had a right to the player contracts the most valuable asset any club can have.

"Our belief is that the best interests of baseball can be preserved, in both Mexico and the U. S., by recognizing contractural obligations. We went through hell when that didn't prevail, and we won't go through it again.

"All 454 member clubs have subscribed to the national association agreement, the governing policy under which we operate. That instrument provided the procedure in this case. It provides a member club with procedure in case that club disagrees. The rights of everyone, player, club, and league, are established in the agreement."

A. A. U. CHAMP

Heading for the National Amateur Athletic Union boxing tournament at Boston this week will be George "Buck" McDuffie, Monroe middleweight, who won the Southern A. A. U. crown at Shreveport the past week with decisions over Sherman Roberts, Winnfield, north Louisiana Golden Gloves champ; Harvey Falton, New Orleans, Louisiana state Golden Gloves titlist; and Ray Wheeler, Shreveport, who was kayoed in the first round of the finals. McDuffie, of 509 K street, is a former Neville High School student who spent four years in the U. S. Marine Corps where he was All-Japan champion in 1947 and 1948; Far East champion in 1949, and an All-Navy finalist last year.

CARDINALS SIGN HIGH SCHOOL ACE

Red Birds Claim Missouri's Sanders 'Better' Than Paul Pettit

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced today they had signed a Hannibal, Mo., high school pitcher who "Is a better prospect than Paul Pettit."

Pettit is a California high school youth who recently received a reported $100,000 for signing with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Missouri youth is James Wesley Sanders, 18, a righthander. He was signed to a contract with Columbus, Ohio, Cardinal-owned farm in the American Association.

Fred M. Saigh, Cardinal president, described Sanders as "Missouri's most outstanding high school athlete." He said Sanders was not a bonus player but would receive the maximum amount for signing allowable without putting him in that category.

While playing with an Amrican Legion baseball team in 1947 he lost only one game. He won 20 and lost one last season with an independent team at Hannibal.

He will be graduated from Hannibal High School May 25.

Both were taken into the Pirate farm system, but Gimler was soon cut loose, and Smith spent nearly half the season in about five different minor leagues throughout the central and southern states. Smith was made a free agent this year and reported to the Sports.

Arvanites is a promising looking rookie, and Phillips, like Smith, played through several circuits last year but hopes to clinch a regular job here.

BOSTON SET FOR NATIONAL A. A. U. BOXING TOURNEY

62nd Annual Event Attracts Fighters From All Sections Of Country

BOSTON, April 8.—(AP)— That annual three-day fistic extravaganza, the 62nd National A. A. U. Championship boxing tournament, will begin Monday noon in Boston Garden.

More than 150 youngsters—the best that could be found in tournaments over the country and in the Hawaiian Islands — will compete for eight individual titles and for team prizes.

Before the first pair enters the ring, representatives of some 20 sectional associations will have arrived in town.

In the past few years boxers from the far West and Hawaii have dominated the tournament.

Three Oakland, Calif., boxers, two from Honolulu and one each from Salt Lake City, Philadelphia and Gary, Ind., won last year's titles.

Most devotees of amateur boxing would not be surprised should some titles wind up in the same areas this year.

For instance, Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is a favorite in the welterweight division. Fullmer, who comes from the same section as Rex Layne, last year's heavyweight champion, and Jay Lambert, 1948 Olympic representative, was in this competition in 1948.

That year the Utah farmer boy ran into two-time champion Johnny Gonsalves in a quarter-final bout.

Earle Williams, a navy sailor boxing for the Hawaiian team, is another highly thought of competitor in the 147-pound class.

Middleweight Wes Echols of Atwater, Calif., is another who competed here recently. Echols, who has won 52 of 57 bouts, was eliminated on the second day last year when he boxed for the Seattle team.

Carl Mills of Seattle, a Golden Gloves title winner, is another top choice among the 160-pounders. He has a reported string of 40 victories.

Norvel Lee of Washington, D. C., must be made a favorite among the heavyweights now entered. Lee, a semi-finalist in the 1948 Olympic tryout finals here, is National Golden Gloves champion. He is a physican education major at Howard University.

This class could wind up in a battle of local boys. Jack Brennan, a former navy sailor, is the New England entry. Marine Corps Pfc. Mike Mahoney is the heavyweight on the Camp Lejeune (N. C.) team of marines. Both young men are from Boston's Charlestown district, the site, oddly enough, of the Boston navy yard.

Charlie Wiggins, 21-year-old married amateur from San Francisco, carries the hopes of the Pacific A. A. U. in the 112 - pound class. This young father is tutored by Christy Lewis, brother of Heavyweight John Henry Lewis.

Nate Brooks of Cleveland, Ohio, and Jerry McGuigan of Cambridge, Mass., are considered capable of giving Wiggins some trouble in the 112's. Cleveland always has a well trained team and McGuigan is a cut above the most recent New England representatives.

Jimmy Ithier of Portsmouth, Va., who has competed here before, is the best known of the boys entered in the 126 pound class.

Elmer Lakatoes of Youngstown, Ohio, is another "must" favorite in pre-tournament selections. A 135 pounder, Lakatoes will appear in his fourth national tournament. Twice he fought for the Cherry Point Marines and last year was a member of the Cleveland team.

Sam Kanamu of Hawaii and Marine Pfc. Willie J. McClendon of Camp Lejeune are well-recommended light heavyweights.

The team title?

BRAVES BLANK REDS

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 8.—(AP)—Boston Braves Righthander Willard Marshall suffered a three stitch cut over his right eye today while the Tribe was defeating the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 before an overflow crowd of 4,301.

Marshall crashed into the batting cage in right field foul territory while chasing a Bobby Adams fly. He collapsed but walked off the field. He was treated at Lynchburg General Hospital.

Marshall, former New York Giant player whose home is in South Richmond, Va., had been the star of the game as his two run homer in the third provided the Braves enough runs to win. Del Crandall homered in the seventh.

The victory, credited to Johnny Sain who worked seven innings, was the third in as many days for the Braves over their traveling National companions.

Joe Haynes held the A's to five hits and two runs in seven innings, but Philadelphia produced four runs in the last two innings off Dick Weik.

Washington received a jolt before the game when it was learned that Eddie Robinson, first baseman, will not be able to accompany the team north when it breaks camp tomorrow. Robinson is ill with a virus infection and is a doubtful starter in the season opener with the A's on April 18.

WILLETT CLAIMS CHANGES NEEDED TO SUIT PURPOSE

Wants Code That Will Meet Different Conditions Around Country

By Ted Smits

CHICAGO, April 8.—(AP)—Hugh C. Willett, President of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, came out today in favor of "flexible" changes in the sanity code—a document which if sternly enforced could split American college ranks.

The code governs the aid given college athletes to keep them in school. This is limited now to tuition. Southern schools claim this is not sufficient. Critics of the code declare it ignores the realities of American college football, chief of which is the money given privately by enthusiastic alumni to star athletes.

"I am very much concerned with seeing to it that we have a code that can meet different conditions around the country," said Prof. Willett in an interview after the close of the N.C.A.A. Executive Committee meeting here, before returning to the University of Southern California.

"I hope that out of our meeting will come some modificiation of the code to make it flexible," he said.

The committee and the 20 heads of college conferences received six concrete proposals for changing the code.

Their exact details are being kept secret until the N.C.A.A. "screening committee" looks them over and passes them on to the council, which meets in August.

Prof. Willett, who said the six proposals ranged all the way from virtually no change in the code up to "food and room across the board" said all six had these three principles in common:

"One, each was based in actual need on the part of the recipient-athlete; two, each set up a standard of academic attainment; and three, each would be administered by the regular agencies of the colleges."

Prof. Willett said he believed that no plan would have much chance of acceptance at the 1951 convention in Dallas unless backed by the council.

The last N.C.A.A. meeting was torn by argument over enforcement of the code, but Prof. Willett refused to take a dim view.

"We should not over-emphasize the significance of temporary discussion of the sanity code," he said.

College commissioners said it was highly significant that Willett himself was in favor of healing the breach in the N.C.A.A. He took over the presidency this year from Dr. Karl E. Lieb of Iowa, who held a strict view of the code.

"Until 1948 we depended on the slow processes of education and persuasion for improvement of college athletics," said Willett.

In 1948, however, came the code—and with it the threat of many southern schools to secede from the N.C.A.A. These claim the job opportunities are so much greater in northern cities than southern that it is not fair to clamp all institutions under the same restrictions.

Willett, in telling his hopes for unifying and strengthening the N.C.A.A., pointed out that this big organization now makes the rules governing all amateur sports except baseball, tennis, and golf; prints all the college guide books in competitive sports; supports a bureau to gather and issue football and basketball statistics; with Amateur Athletic Union, supports American participation in the Olympic Games; and backs a growing program of national championships in almost all college sports.

One of the major steps of the executive committee meeting was a decision to expand the basketball tournament from eight to 16 games, and set up a new method of selecting them.

Asked if the N.C.A.A. might in time determine a national champion in football, Prof. Willett declared "the football situation seems to be a nut that can't be cracked."

National League's first year, 1876. Chicago manager from 1879 to 1897, winning 5 pennants. Was .300 class hitter twenty years, batting champion 4 times."

"Pop" Anson, the famous first baseman, was in the majors twenty-two years, 1876-1897. He was truly a striking figure, 6 feet, 1 inch and weighing 220 pounds, the heaviest man in the Hall of Fame. He played 2,253 games, at bat 9,084 times and made 3,081 hits, a lifetime average of .339.

Christian name was Dennis, the heaviest hitter of all the first basemen, with a lifetime record of .348. He was a star in the major leagues for seventeen years, 1879-1896, a towering fellow of 6 feet, 2 inches, weighing 200 pounds, a left-hander at bat and in throwing. Dan played 1,668 games, at bat 6,788 times, and made 2,365 hits.

And here is Mordecai Peter Brown (Three-Fingered), first major leaguer to pitch four consecutive shutouts, achieving this feat on June 13, June 25, July 2, and July 4, in 1908. How well I remember him! This "three-finger" pitcher was in the majors for fourteen years, from 1903-1916. He pitched 480 games; won 239; lost 130; a .648 percentage.

What Records These Men Made!

We move along to a plaque with this description: "Jesse C. Burkett: Batting star who played outfield for the New York, Cleveland and St. Louis N. L. teams and the St. Louis and Boston A. L. teams. Shares with Rogers Hornsby and Ty Cobb the record of hitting .400 or better the most times. Accomplished this on three occasions. Topped the N. L. in hitting three times, batting over .400 to gain the championship in 1895 and 1896." Burkett's lifetime batting average was .342, equaling that of Babe Ruth's record in later years, although Burkett was not a home-run hitter, like the Babe.

In its place of honor is a bronze bearing the name: "Frank Leroy Chance. Famous Leader of Chicago Cubs. Won pennant with Cubs in first full season as manager in 1906. That team compiled 116 victories, unequaled in major league 1907, 1908, and 1910 and World Series Winner in 1907 and 1908. Started with Chicago in 1898; also manager New York A. L. and Boston A. L."

Here is the master of them all—the great and only Ty Cobb! His memorial in this Hall of Fame reads: "Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Detroit-Philadelphia A. L. 1905-1928. Led American League in batting twelve times and created or equaled more major league records than any other player. Retired with 4,191 major league hits."

During his twenty-four eventful years in the majors he played 3,033 games, a world record. He was at bat 11,429 times; that too is a world record. He made 4,191 hits; that's another world record. His lifetime batting average was .367, and that has never been beaten. I am proud to be able to say that Ty Cobb was one of my boys and has been a lifelong friend.

SCOUTING GOES TO HIGH RECORD

One Thousand Monroe Scouts Now Head List To Top Previous Figures

L. L. Price, chairman of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's Organization and Extension committee, announced yesterday that the council has recently attained the highest record of membership in its history. He stated that the council, which received recognition for its work in organization in 1949, had continued with excellent progress in membership in 1950 in making Scouting available for more boys in the council area.

In making the report on the council's membership, Price stated that a total of 3,370 Scouts and Scouters are registered and actively participating in the program in the 15-parish Ouachita Valley Council. This is several hundred more than have been registered at any previous date. Of this group, 1,776 are Boy Scouts, 692 Cub Scouts, 52 Explorers, and 850 leaders.

Mr. Price gave special commendation to the Scouters in the central district, composed of the Monroe and West Monroe area. He reported that these men had made it possible for many more boys in Monroe and West Monroe to participate in the character building program of Scouting, and a total of 1,007 Scouts are now actively engaged in the Scout program in the central district. The goal of 1,000 Scouts, which was set by the central district for December 31, 1950, has already been accomplished.

Many new troops have been added to the council's roll this year, as Scouters in all districts are actively promoting the organization of units to provide Scouting's opportunity for more boys. More troops and packs have been adding new boys to their rosters, and many additional units are in the process of organization at the present time.

It was also brought out by Mr. Price that all new units of the council have been organized on a definite plan which requires training of leaders before the organization is complete. This has proved to be a very sound procedure in organization.

New units in the Ouachita Valley Council which have been organized in 1950 are as follows: Troop 6, sponsored by the Methodist Church, Beekman; Troop 30, sponsored by the Calvary Baptist Church, Monroe; Troop 33, sponsored by Cleft Rock Baptist Church, Monroe; Troop 48, sponsored by American Legion, Bernice; Troop 63, sponsored by Pinney Grove Baptist Church, West Monroe; Troop 66, sponsored by Progressive Baptist Church, Monroe; Troop 84, sponsored by Parent-Teachers Association, Ansley; Troop 86, sponsored by the Baptist Church, Joyce; Explorer Post 88, sponsored by the Baptist Church, Atlanta.

The Boy Scout organization is a member agency of the Community Chest in the twin cities and is supported financially by independent campaigns in other communities of the Northeast Louisiana Council.

Information on occupations engaging the attention of Americans has been collected by the census takers at every decennial census of the United States since 1840. The 17th Decennial census, to be conducted in April, asks all employed and unemployed persons 14 years of age and over for information on the kinds of work they do. Probably well over 30,000 different occupations will be reported to the census takers.

In collecting data on occupations in the past censuses, the census takers, discovered many odd pursuits. There was the woman who gave her trade as "egg-breaker". For eight hours a day, she broke eggs, to be used in bakeries. Another highly specialized job was that of the man who measures the distance of flight of different breeds of pigeons.

The inventory of Americans at work revealed many other strange ways of making a living. One man ran a "fishworm ranch". Another worked for a tanner as an "unhairer." "Tooth pick flavorer", and "whistle-tester" were reported by two others. In the food industry, there were found a "potato-peeler" in a potato chip factory, a man who spent his days as a "ham-sniffer", and one who might be called an "artillery-man", because he shot cereal out of a gun.

In 1940, the enumerators sometimes found the question of occupation touchy. One sensitive young girl, when asked the occupation of the head of the household, replied emphatically, "Electrician. When queried as to the kind of business in which he plied his trade, she stated reluctantly, "Well he lights the red lanterns on a sewer construction project".

Brown, and the late Grace Moore.

URGES ITALIANS TO ACCEPT ARMS

Italy's Premier Calls Arms Aid 'The Best Defense For Peace'

ROME, April 8. —(AP)— Premier Alcide De Gasperi urged Italians in an Easter Eve address tonight to welcome American arms as "the best defense for peace."

Communist of both Italy and France have threatened to throw the arms, offered by the United States to its Atlantic Pact partners, into the sea.

The U. S. freighter Exilona sailed from New York April 1 with arms for Italy. The Freighter American Importer left April 14 with arms for France.

De Gasperi accused Communists of waging a campaign of lies, pretending "we are foreign slaves and want and prepare for war."

On the contrary, he said, "these arms are instruments solely for defense and peace."

De Gasperi addressed a nationwide radio audience in a strong bid to counteract weeks of Communist-led propaganda against Americans arms aid. Government troops and police are on the alert to prevent any attempt to sabotage the unloading.

BURGLARY

Star-Times said a committee of five had been set up to bring peace to the feuding Democratic factions in Kansas City and put up a compromise candidate in the senatorial primary this year. For this peace Binaggio was to retire.

The paper named the committee as Lloyd E. Jacobs, chairman, Jumes M. Pendergast, Henry McKissick, Tim Moran and George A. Clark.

Jacobs, a lawyer here who has not held a political office since 1916, declared, "I have never heard of the committee."

Pendergast, a political rival of Binaggio's crowd and nephew of the late Kansas City boss, Tom Pendergast, said "It is ridiculous."

Clark called the story "absolutely ridiculous."

McKissick and Moran were unavailable immediately for comment.

The newspaper said the peace plan failed because the president said he would stand by his avowed senatorial candidate, Emery W. Allison of Rolla. The other candidate who was supposed to have left the race was Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of St. Louis.

The burglarized tavern was once a part of the first district Democratic Club. It was partitioned, leaving a door between. Later the door was filled in.

A police car was parked in front of the club when the thieves pried open the tavern's back door. They failed to take $30 in cash and $1500 in savings bonds.

Investigators had pinned some hope on finding clues in the safe. But it contained only a file of names of some 900 club members, some other records and a half pint bottle of whisky.

After the examination the club was turned back to McKissick, a political associate who teamed up with Binaggio and Clark to help elect Missouri's governor, Forrest Smith, in 1948. Police were withdrawn.

Other records opened by the coroner failed to produce any clues. They had been taken from the club Thursday when the bodies were found. At every turn investigators appeared to have drawn a blank.

GIRL SUBJECTED TO PERVERSION

Returned Safely Home After Horrifying Experience Of Sex Mistreatment

COVINA, Calif., April 8.—(AP)—A terrified Covina High Schooi girl, Dulcy Nelson, 17, returned safely to her home today after being kidnaped for a horrifying five-hour experience of sex mistreatment.

Sheriff's officers said she was snatched from her boy friend as they sat in front of her house last night and driven into the lonely hills by a youth who subjected her to sex perversion but not rape.

"I hadn't expected to see her alive after he kept her so long," sobbed her mother, Mrs. Homer A. Nelson. "We are lucky, very lucky. Someone else may not be so lucky."

"It will take her awhile to get over it," said her father, a 43-year-old school equipment salesman. "It was quite a shock."

A physician examined the girl, gave her a sedative and sent her home, but he declined comment about her condition. Sheriff's investigators previously said she was apparently unharmed but terribly distraught.

The gunman accused of taking and mistreating Miss Nelson was caught, still with her. He gave his name as Vance Smith Jr., 20, of West Covina. He was booked on suspicion of kidnaping, theft of an automobile and sexual perversion.

Detective H. F. Skouland said Smith's account agreed with that of Miss Nelson. The officer said Smith boasted: "I went out after just what I got."

Skouland said records showed that Smith, charged with burglary and robbery three years ago at Burbank, Calif., was placed on probation, then last June was committed by his parents to Patton State (mental) hospital, being paroled to his parents last January.

Miss Nelson and her boy friend, Donald Oelrich, 16, watched a television baseball game last night at his house, then Oelrich drove her home.

They parked in front for awhile until, she related, a youth with a gun flashed a light, ordered Oelrich out and drove away with her.

Oelrich gave the alarm.

Some five hours later Miss Nelson telephoned the Oelrich home, said she had been in an accident and was all right. A short time later a sheriff's patrol car came across Miss Nelson and Smith on a highway.

Miss Nelson told sheriff's Sgt. Dorothea Wilson that her captor held a gun pointed at her while he drove her to a remote spot in the La Puente hills. She said he forced her to disrobe and undergo acts of perversion in young Oelrich's automobile and outside it.

The man, finally frightened by an apparently approaching light, permitted her to dress and they drove off but the car became mired in a ditch. She said he aroused a resident, John C. Wood, permitting her to telephone from there but threatening her not to give an alarm.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed girl related that they tried to hitch a ride. She said her abductor was about to arouse another household when the patrol car came by.

Smith was held in jail. He wears a mustache and a goatee.

Alabama Senators Plan Battle With 'Dixiecrats'

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—Alabama's two Democratic U. S. senators said today they plan expeditions back home to fight the "Dixiecrats" States' Rights party.

Senator Hill told a reporter he probably will fly to Montgomery, Ala., Wednesday to make a radio appeal to southern Democrats to turn their backs on the States' Rights revolt.

Senator Sparkman said he will be in Alabama April 17 to make a radio speech "stressing the importance of staying in the national Democratic party and the futility into which a splinter group such as the Dixiecrats might lead us."

Man Contends In Court He Is Father Of Child

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—(AP)—Contending that he sired a woman's baby while her husband was overseas, George W. Melchior, 25, petitioned superior court yesterday for recognition as the child father.

Three men are involved in the case. In his suit against Mrs. Patricia Lee Howard, 22, the mother, Melchior contends he became intimate with her while the husband, Joseph G. Howard, Jr., was overseas with the army.

But before the child, now 17 months old, was born, Melchior added, Mrs. Howard took up residence with the third man, Bruce K. Kaump. Melchior alleged she represented Kaump as the father on the birth certificate.

Melchior complains that Mrs. Howard has tried to place the child for adoption. She divorced Howard on Feb. 11, 1949. Melchior asks the court to name him the father and award him custody of the child.

DISCOVER WAY TO PHOTOGRAPH ATOM

Exhibit Simulated Picture Magnified More Than Ten Million Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 8. —(AP)— Massachusetts Institute of Technology has found a way to take a picture of an atom.

It exhibited the first photograph tonight—not a direct picture but a simulated picture made by the use of x-rays.

Magnified more than ten million times in the print is a pattern of iron and sulphur atoms as they are combined in a common mineral known as marcasite.

So far as M. I. T. scientists are aware, this is the first time that such magnification has been illustrated photographically.

The optical device which made the picture provides physicists with a new shortcut for finding the positions of atoms in any crystal.

Here's how the device developed by Prof. Martin J. Buerger of the institute's geology department works:

A sample of crystal (in this case it was marcasite or iron pyrites hardly bigger than a pinpoint) is subjected to X-rays. That tiny amount contains several billion atoms.

The X-rays bounce off the crystallin substance and strike a film, resulting in a pattern corresponding to the positions of the atoms in the crystal. The X-rays are of short enough wave length to "see" individual atoms.

At this point, if X-rays were shined back through the film, the pattern resulting would show the positions of the atoms, but the pattern would be invisible to the human eye.

Photographs made by this process will substitute for many time-consuming computations previously required to learn the positions of atoms.

Unexplained Noises Irk Britishers

LONDON, April 8.—(AP)—Britons are hearing strange noises in the air.

And at least one of them—Ralph B. Cox, an elderly London barrister — is determined to find an explanation, a scientific one.

He started mass observations is seeking the cooperation of government scientists and has advertised in the Times.

"Unidentified continuous vibratory noise in the atmosphere," the ad said. "Will those who hear this write to me."

Letters have poured in. Some guesses have been eliminated. One writer thought jet motors might be responsible. But jets don't flow around a lot of air at 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, when the noise is loudest. Some thought radar might be doing the trick. But the noise persisted, with or without radar.

Cox says the noise sometimes howles, then moans, then whispers "and it's a confounded nuisance." He says it has affected the health of his wife, who uses a hearing aid but has no trouble hearing the unearthly wail.

The most fantastic speculation is that Mars is blowing whistles at the earth, or perhaps the little men in the flying saucers are communicating with each other.

"I don't think it's anything that preposterous," says Cox. "There must be some scientific explanation."

Mrs. Fulbright Takes First Airplane Ride

WASHINGTON, April 8. — (AP) — Mrs. Roberta Fulbright, 76, mother of Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.) took her first airplane ride today, from Tulsa, Okla., to Washington.

"She rather enjoyed it," the senator said.

Mrs. Fulbright is president and publisher of the Northwest Arkansas Times, published at Fayetteville.

She and her son left Fayetteville about 5:30 o'clock this morning and caught an American Airlines plane out of Tulsa about 8:30 a.m. Central Standard Time.

The flight to Washington took three hours and 40 minutes.

"She was right pleased with the trip," the senator said.

Mrs. Fulbright will be here for three or four weeks, the senator added. She will join in the celebration of his 45th birthday tomorrow.

Hood To Convene With Boyle In Washington

MERIDIAN, Miss., April 8.—(AP)—Clarence E. Hood, Jr., acting Mississippi Democratic national committeeman, said today he will confer next week in Washington with William Boyle, national chairman of the Democratic party.

Hood is aligned with the pro-Truman forces in Mississippi, which in the 1948 election voted for States' Rights candidates.

Hood declined to comment on the nature of his talks in Washington.

NEW DISPUTES IN RUHR COAL MINES

Deliveries Stopped To Russian Zone; Method Of Payment Is Big Issue

BERLIN, April 8.—(AP)—The Ruhr coal mines have stopped deliveries to the Russian zone of Germany in a new dispute over method of payment.

The coal embargo, coming on top of an embargo on steel, has infuriated East German trade circles.

East and West negotiators who handle the interzonal trade held several stormy meetings this week without reaching a solution.

U. S. officials, disclosing the situation today, said the West German coal producers had demanded letters of credit from the eastern buyers. The buyers were in no financial position to put forth such credit and the producers thereupon shut off shipments.

The trade division of the U. S. embargo probably will be ironed out, since no fundamental disagreement in policy is involved. The only problem to be solved is the manner of payment.

Allied authorities indicated they are not too sympathetic with the West German demand. One American authority said that the western insistence on either letters of credit in the Soviet zone or cash may be considered good business ordinarily but that it violates the spirit of an interzonal trade agreement for exchange of goods.

Dr. Kurt Meuchkenberger of the West Berlin city government said the original pact called for the Ruhr to ship coke and gas coal to the East in exchange for brown coal briquettes to be delivered to West Berlin.

Under this agreement, reached in January, the Eastern Germans were to deliver 471,000 tons of briquettes in the first three months of this year. They delivered on schedule and even got a little ahead of it, for which the west now owes Ruhr coal.

The Ruhr doesn't want to deliver anything more unless it gets cash on the line, Mueckenberger declared.

Burglars Take $49,500 From Clothing Store

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 8.—(AP)—Burglars walked out the front door of a swank downtown men's clothing store today with an estimated $49,500 in Easter merchandise.

Clyde Halk, owner-operator of Clyde's Man Shop, said the thieves pried open the front door and stole 700 pairs of men's slacks, priced at $42.50 each, 150 suits, ranging fron $150 to $175 each in price; and 180 ties marked at $6 to $20 each.

Detective John Howell said a prowl car crew saw a red pickup truck parked in front of the store about 2 a. m., but noted nothing suspicious about it.

He never saw us before, but he OK'd our credit with a smile

It could have been embarrassing—trying to charge our purchases in a store where we were unknown, where we had never dealt before!

But you can buy almost anything you want on credit, anywhere, any time, if your credit record is good.

Retail merchants, physicians, dentists, druggists, fuel dealers—almost any business or profession serving the public—gladly grant reasonable credit to responsible people. And the only way to establish yourself as a responsible, trustworthy person is to pay your bills promptly—when they are due

The merchants and professional people of the community have access to the records of the Credit Bureau. They can learn quickly and easily whether you are "Prompt Pay," "Slow" or "A Poor Risk." If you want the convenience, the satisfaction and the prestige of a good credit record, you can enjoy these advantages by buying only what you know you can pay for—and paying for it promptly on the date it is due.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

Increased Production Request Is Expected

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Tex., April 8.—(AP)—Texas oil purchasers are expected to ask next week for increased crude production in May.

Early estimates indicate May demand will be heavier than in April when a 130,000 barrel daily increase in crude output was authorized by the state's oil and gas regulatory commission.

The railroad commission is to set May's allowable Friday following a statewide hearing at Austin.

It will be a busy week for the commission. Three days earlier a hearing is to be held on means of stopping wasteful blaring—burning in the open field—of butane and propane gases.

Last year the commission carried out an intensive campaign to reduce the flaring of oil well or casinghead gas to an absolute minimum.

Anticipated demand increases come despite gasoline stocks having reached an all-time high of 135,586,000 barrels last Saturday, up 180,000 from the previous week.

Crude handled by refinerie last week averaged 5,470,000 barrels daily, only 1000 barrels above the previous week but 201,000 over the same week last year. A year ago the oil industry had seen the Texas commission order a fourth consecutive monthly cutback in crude production.

Domestic crude output, however, still is well below a year ago. Production last week averaged 4,872,950 barrels. A year earlier the average was 5,129,000 barrels daily.

The demand increase forecast also is being made without opponents of heavy imports of foreign oil having adknowledged any definite progress in their campaigns.

Sharp increases in foreign oil imports have received most of the blame for the long string of cutbacks that began for Texas crude production in January last year.

This month's increase in allowables was the first hike since 1948 except for a brief period lat last summer when predictions of increased domestic demand proved to be inaccurate.

Senator Robert S. Kerr (D.-Okla.) said in Washington Wednesday the domestic industry has 1,000,000 barrels of producible oil shut in.

He was commenting on a statement by Willard Thorp, assistant secretary of state, that domestic oil is not being injured by the heavy flow of foreign oil into the United States.

Thorp, while testifying before a house interstate commerce subcommittee, had strongly defended the hig level of imports.

Thorp's comment also indicated the inaccuracy of another prediction made within oil industry circles or that the state department is in disagreement with the White House on the imports problem.

Only a few weeks ago there were widespread forecasts President Truman would take action to end any imports threat to the domestic industry.

The Texas hearing Tuesday may become broader than dealing only with the problem of flaring the by-products of gas.

The Independent Refiners Association of America last month asked the commission to consider placing under proration regulations all liquid hydrocarbons obtained from gas.

The commission indicated it was willing to look into the matter.

Commission Chairman William J. Murray, Jr., earlier had suggested there might be a need for establishing allowables for natural gasoline output.

Natural gasoline produceion in Texas has increased rapidly the past year and recently passed the 300,000 barrels daily mark.

Daily Crude Oil Production Upped

TULSA, OKLA., April 8.—(AP)—The United States daily average crude oil production during the week ended April 1 was 32,365 barrels more than in the previous week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

Total output, the Journal said, averaged 4,809,300 barrels daily.

With only one day of an increased allowable for April included, Texas jumped 20,625 barrels to 1,859,075 barrels, the healthiest gain.

Other major increases included: Colorado up 2,900 barrels to 60,200; the eastern fields, up 2,150 to 58,850; Illinois and Kansas, each 1,700 barrels to 180,800 and 266,400, respectively; Oklahoma, 1,650 to 421,600; Mississippi, 1,150 to 98,850; Montana and Indiana, up 1,100 to 23,100 and 28,000, respectively.

Alabama gained 50 barrels to 1,350, Arkansas was up 100 to 80,800, Louisiana added 900 to 507,700, Michigan increased 800 to 45,600, and Nebraska gained 50 to 1,450.

Top losses were in California, down 1,100 barrels to 860,700, and Wyoming, also off 1,100 to 157,000.

Florida was down 215 barrels to 850, Kentucky lost 300 to 25,200, New Mexico dropped 525 to 128,875, and Utah fell 100 to 2,900.

More Wells Completed, Fewer Started In State

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8.—(AP)—More oil wells were completed in Louisiana last month but fewer were started, the state department of conservation reported today.

Commissioner S. L. Digby said the upswing in completions extended the boundaries of six fields—Caney Creek, Barataria, Quarantine Bay, Fordoche, Logansport and North Lewisburg.

The report listed 187 permits to drill new wells during March. This compares with 172 in February and 204 in March of last year. Twelve of last month's permits were for exploratory wells.

March well completions were recorded at 215, compared with 171 in February and 190 in March 1949. They included 123 oil, 42 gas or gas condensate and 50 not-productive wells.

American Oilmen Drill 600 Miles Into Earth

By Howard W. Blakeslee

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—American oilmen drilled almost 600 miles last year in oil holes each one deeper than two miles.

All this drilling was in the United States. It is a new record in oil production, anywhere in the world. It is a guarantee of great, new oil resources in Uncle Sam's own backyard.

The figures are given in the April Petroleum Engineer, published at Dallas, Tex.

The total wells deeper than 12,000 feet each were 232. Of these 124 produced oil.

This, the engineer says, is more than twice as high production than for wells drilled to all depths.

The deepest well was 20,521 feet, at Sublette, Wyo., by the Superior Oil Company. This was the first time man had struck oil as deep as 20,000 feet, which is nearly four miles.

The engineer says that part of these deep wells were drilled not merely in hopes of oil, but as exploration. The wells cost an average of $432,000 each. One spent $300,000 for drilling mud. The engineer says prospects are for costs of the deep wells to drop.

Diamond bits ate through hard rocks that would have been considered impossible to penetrate a few years ago.

Underground pressures of about six tons per square inch were found by the Tidewater Associated Oil Company at 13,000 feet deep at Manila Village, Jefferson Parish, La.

The time for drilling one of these deep wells now averages 149 days which is a drop of about one month compared with two years ago.

The wells brought in seven new deep oil fields. These were, the engineers say, three in Texas at Ellenburger, Upton county and Andrews county, two in Louisiana in Jefferson Parish and LaFourche parish, one in Oklahoma in Grady county and one in New Mexico in Lea county.

Aid Request 30 Years Ago Gave Mines Bureau Jurisdiction Over Research

By Tex Easley

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—Some 30 years ago the petroleum industry, then just a fledgling compared with its size today, turned to the government for aid and advice.

The bureau of mines, established a decade earlier to deal with safety and production problems for the coal industry, was considered the logical agency to cope with the oil industry's trouble.

So it is that the mines bureau, a unit of the interior department, today has jurisdiction over research and experiments of importance to the petroleum and natural gas industries.

The extent of its activities are reviewed in the annual report of Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman and an accompanying report by the bureau of its work with liquid and gaseous fuel.

Both reports deal in detail with developments over a period of many years in ways of recovering more and more oil from known deposits.

Abandoned fields are estimated, on the average, to contain about 35 per cent of their original reserves. Wells are shut down because their production has dropped to such a point as to make their operation uneconomical or because the flow has dwindled to nothing even with the best known methods of recovery.

The No. 1 long range program, in which studies have been going for a year at the bureau's Bartlesville, Okla., laboratories, is the finding of ways to recover all or most of that remaining 35 per cent.

Methods already developed to get all oil possible out of a well, after the conventional pumping methods no longer produce a flow, fall roughly into three categories:

1. Pumping natural gas back into the well. This is the usual method where gas is available and no ready market for it exists.

2. Pumping air into the well. Two principal objections are encountered. A damaging fire or explosion may result when oxygen in the air ignites gas. Air also increased damage to pipes through corrosion.

3. Pumping water into a well, forcing the oil to rise in the sand. This method has become increasingly popular. At the beginning of last year there were 172 waterflooding projects in Oklahoma, controlled by 82 operators, as compared with 73 projects and 42 operators in 1942.

A method under study, but which laboratory tests so far indicate is not feasible, calls for thinning the remaining oil by heat to make it more recoverable.

Heat is applied to oil-bearing sands, the temperature being increased gradually to about 234 degrees. The difficulty arises in that the heat bakes the sands until they are no longer porous.

The Russians claim to have had some success with a method in which underground gas is ignited by an injection of air and an electric arc. As soon as the oil bearing strata are sufficiently heated the air is cut off to extinguish the fire.

Another phase of the bureau's report treats with the "shouting" of wells to start production when they have been drilled to the vicinity of oil sands.

Using nigroglycerine as the principal explosive, the industry to date has set off charges largely on a hit or miss sort of basis, the bureau says.

If a nearby well has been brought in successfully with a shot, a similar size charge usually is expected to do the job again. But the industry soon may employ only "tailor-made" shots.

Studies now under way, the bureau reports, indicate the kind and intensity of explosive should be determined only after a careful analysis of the strata to be blasted. What might be just right in one well could ruin another; for instance, too much heat in some would glaze the formation like a pottery bowl and seal off the oil, or too violent an explosion could drive the drillers' mud into the sand and do the same damage.

One method developed by the bureau, and round practicable in areas where certain limestone strata exists, calls for application of acid to penetrate to the oil sands.

At its Louisiana, Mo., plant the bureau has shown that liquid fuel can be produced efficiently from coal, although more expensively then from natural petroleum.

And at Rifle, Colo., the bureau is successfully producing gasoline from oil shale. Cost of mining the shale has been reduced to point where economic use of it is possible, the bureau reports.

Paintings Made Of L. S. U. Ex-Chiefs

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8.—(AP)—Louisiana State University is scheduled to receive portraits of two of its former presidents during the "L. S. U. at Mid-Century" celebration here April 13-14.

Program Chairman Marcus Wilkerson said the portraits are of William Bass Hatcher, president from 1944 to 1947, and of Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, president from 1941 to 1944.

Both paintings are by Lila Shelby, a Louisiana native, he said. The Hatcher portrait was donated by members of the late educator's graduating class of 1917, the Hodges portrait by the late general's family, he said.

Wilkerson said the unveilings will be held in Hatcher Hall and Hodges Hall, two of three new men's dormitories to be dedicated during the program.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—The stock market slowly poked its way into new high ground for the past 3 1/2 years today.

Selected chemicals made an especially good showing, as they did just before the Good Friday recess yesterday.

Favored stocks moved up fractions to a point or so and in a few cases more.

The market started out at a fast clip and business was maintained at a good rate through the two-hour session. Turnover approached 1,000,000 shares.

Engineer Attacks Steward On Ship At Sea

HONOLULU, April 8.—(AP)—The Coast Guard went out to sea today to overtake the Tanker Halcyon III, aboard which an assistant engineer was reported to have attacked a steward with a knife.

Pilot August N. Hasselgren called the Coast Guard on his return from guiding the ship out of Honolulu harbor on a voyage to Japan. Hasselgren said the ship's master asked him to send aid to subdue the engineer. He said no one had been seriously hurt when he left the ship, however.

The Halcoyno III, a 7,208-ton liberty ship, formerly named the Orson D. Munn, is owned by the Phoenix Steamship Co., of New York.

No Conclusion In Consideration Of Sander

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 8.—(AP)—The Board of Censors of the Hillsborough County Medical Society considered charges against Dr. Hermann N. Sander today, but a spokesman said "No definite conclusion" was reached.

Dr. Theodore H. Lee of Peterborough, spokesman for the three-man board, declined to comment on any future action the board may take.

The board can recommend to the County Society that (1) Dr. Sander be expelled from the organization; (2) be reprimanded or (3) be exonerated of any charge against him.

Sander, a 41-year-old Candia physician, was acquitted March 9 of a charge of murder in the death of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, a dying cancer patient.

H. T. IN OFFICE NEARLY 5 YEARS

Observers Undecided Whether He Will Seek Reelection In 1952

KEY WEST, Fla., April 8.—(AP)—President Truman got ready today to close the books on five years in office, spoiling for a fight with Republicans at home and totalitarianism abroad.

The men around him disagreed whether he will seek another term in 1952 but conceded he has done nothing to shut off a "draft" by the Democratic party.

Tanned and relaxed by nearly a month's vacation in Florida sunshine, he returns to Washington Monday armed with ammunition for coast-to-coast stumping tours in the "give 'em hell" manner of his own 1948 campaign.

But, he was armed with an olive branch, too, for he is trying to revamp the bi-partisan foreign policy, and confine partisan domestic politics "to the water's edge" of this country.

The president weighs several pounds more than he did when he was summoned to the White House the afternoon of April 12, 1945, just five years ago next Wednesday, to learn of the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt and kiss the Bible in a solemn oath-taking.

He weighed 167 then, and could still wear the World War One uniform in which he led the 129th field artillerys' battery in France. Today, at 175 pounds, the uniform wouldn't fit.

He tells callers he has only one ambition—to go down in history as a man who helped secure the peace of the world. He is alternately optimistic and pessimistic as he tries to cope with Russian's maneuvers in the cold war.

In an effort to bolster the home front, he is turning more and more to Republicans like Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich) for a revival of bi-partisan consultations in the formulation of foreign policy steps.

Most weasels have scent glands, but the skunk has carried their use to the extreme.

NEGROES' FARM SHOW GROWING

J. W. Fisher Nurturing Crop As Big As All Outdoors

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8.—(AP)—For seven years — most of them lean — J. W. Fisher has been nurturing a crop as big as all outdoors.

This week, he finally saw it begin to flower.

His crop? Southern University's annual state livestock-poultry show and farm and home week, held for the seventh time this past week.

It's his because he helped start it, back in 1943, and because he's director of agriculture at Southern. The state-supported Negro school here, like its bigger counterpart—Louisiana State University—is also an agricultural and mechanical college.

The flowers he spotted were small—mere buds—but there were quite a few when he counted them. After the show, Fisher eased himself wearily onto a bench and took stock:

"Let's see. The first year we were just a poultry show and we had entries from only two parishes, East and West Baton Rouge. Then county and home demonstration agents spread the word and we added livestock and farm and home week.

"This year, 39 of Louisiana's 64 parishes sent entries, from all parts of the state. We had 475 poultry entries, 82 dairy cows, 15 beef cattle and 30 swine. Yes sir, we broke all records."

But that isn't all, Fisher found. Buyers this year paid a respectable 55 cents a pound for 500 pounds of poultry. And the auctioneer, for the first time, sold beef and got 36 1-2 cents a pound for it.

Then, too, his records show, total auction sales totaled $1,500 and the show paid out $2,245 in premiums to prize stock, most of it raised and entered by 4-H and N. F. A. (New Farmers of America) youngsters.

And from a mere handful, he added, the number of Negro farmfolk who attend the better living demonstrations and the show has grown to 500, this year's attendance.

The harvest Fisher hopes to reap? He sets it forth very simply:

"To teach the Negro farmer of Louisiana to produce what he needs instead of buying it, and to sell the surplus so he can buy what he can't produce."

And that includes, Fisher explained, the stimulation to raise better livestock and crops by intelligent breeding and planting, and to live better by improved housing and landscaping.

The show this year was sponsored, in addition to the university, by the agricultural extension service, vocational agricultural departments, teachers of institutional on-farm training for veterans and the Louisiana colored state fair association of New Orleans.

It also has the backing of the state department of education and the state department of agriculture. The New Orleans chamber of commerce and the New Orleans Times-Picayune sponsor an annual "better living contest" and award prizes.

Commissioner of Agriculture W. E. Anderson delivered the key address at the convocation this year. He praised the project and, later, promised to help seek additional prize money for the show.

DENTAL COUNCIL SETS CONVENTION

One-Day 'Leadership Conference' Slated Here Next Wednesday

The Council on Dental Health of the Louisiana State Dental Society has announced a one day "Leadership Conference" to be held in cooperation with the Louisiana State Department of Health next Wednesday at the Hotel Frances in Monroe.

The conference, which immediately precedes the annual Dental Society meeting in Monroe, will be attended by dentists from more than 35 Louisiana parishes.

Dr. J. C. Earnest of Monroe, president of the Fifth District Dental Society, announced the threefold purpose of the conference. The meeting was called, first, to enable dentists to gain knowledge of new techniques in community organization work, second, to develop ways of fitting the activity of the dental profession into a community-planned program, and finally, to stimulate participants in the sessions to assume the responsibility of organizing community planning conferences in their own areas.

The conference will employ the use of group dynamics, a method stressing small group discussions of pertinent topics, handled in open forum manner, with the object of arriving at basic understanding and agreement on principle.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

On Monday Mrs. Robert N. Amacker concluded the mission book "The Ecumenical Church" with stress on "The Ecumenical Church In Our Own Community." The Bible was attractively displayed on a base of black velvet with ivy entwined cross to the right and low bowl of iris to the left. The spotlight was thrown on a gilt framed painting of Solmon's head of Christ.

For a quiet meditation Mrs. Herman Schwartz at the organ played "In Christ There Is No East or West."

Members and guests were invited to the educational building for a social hour. The lace draped table was seasonal in decorations of white picketed fence corners filled with grass and nests of Easter eggs. Central decor was crystal bowl of mixed spring flowers on mirrored reflector. Sandwiches, mixed candies, and individual cakes were served. Mrs. W. H. Maben, at a side table, served fruit punch from a candlewick service based with red and purple verbena.

THRONG ATTENDS ANCIENT RITUAL

Pontifical Mass In Rome Expected To Draw 500,000 Persons Today

VATICAN CITY, April 8.—(AP)— Thousands of Catholics witnessed ancient Holy Saturday rites of blessing fire and water at St. Peter's Basilica today and were received by Pope Pius XII in his biggest Holy Year audience.

But this was only a forerunner to tomorrow's Easter rites, when the Pope will celebrate a Pontifical Mass expected to draw 500,000 to the Basilica, the great square in front of it and adjoining streets. They are set for 10 a. m. (4 a. m. EST).

At noon today the Pope received 40,000 pilgrims from scattered parts of the world in Holy Saturday audience marking the end of Lent.

This was the highlight of a day that saw 80,000 pilgrims and Romans throng through the great church.

Amid cheers of "Viva Il Papa" the Pontiff, smiling and moving his right arm in blessing, was carried in his portable throng down the center aisles of the Basilica to the massive confessional altar.

The Pope spoke in English, French, Italian, Spanish, German, and Portuguese. He exhorted the pilgrims to strive for the maximum spiritual benefits from their Holy Year visits.

He called the roll of individual pilgrimages. Each time a country was mentioned, cheers rose from the section of the Basilica where its pilgrims were stationed.

Americans present included the Milwaukee Archdiocese Pilgrimage of 200 led by the Rev. Moses Klink, director of the Milwaukee Archdiocese Society for the propagation of the faithful. Canadians were led by Msgr. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, and Msgr. Paul Emile Leger, recently appointed Archbishop of Montreal.

In today's ancient ceremonies a procession of the Basilica's canons proceeded from the sacristy, down the central aisle of the Basilica and then to a side altar where a fire was ignited to light again the altars darkened during Holy Week. The newly ignited fire was blessed. Then three candles, representing the trinity of the Father, the Son and The Holy Ghost, were lighted. With one of these, a large Easter candle was lighted to burn for 40 days, representing the 40 days that Christ stayed on earth after his resurrection.

Another ceremony was the blessing of the water in the baptismal font. After the blessings, 12 canons representing the 12 apostles marched through the Basilica, sprinkling the people with the holy water.

C. I. O.'S UNITY BID PROGRESSES

Machinists Favor Labor Parley To Discuss 'One Big Union' Possibilities

By Harold W. Ward

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)— The idea of one big labor union in this country advanced a step nearer fulfillment today when the International Association of Machinists accepted a CIO bid to discuss cooperation.

Replies are expected shortly from the American Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods.

CIO President Philip Murray has suggested that unions set up a joint committee to present a solid front on economic legislative and political problems and work for eventual merger into a federation of 16,000,000 members.

In answer to Murray, the machinists chief, Al J. Hayes said his independent union of 630,000 members stands "ready to cooperate."

He expressed hope a meeting behind the Murray plan yesterday, saying he would recommend to his United Mine workers executive board that they accept Murray's invitation when they meet here April 18.

President William Green, the spokesman for 8,000,000 AFL members, received the Murray overture cordially and told reporters in New Orleans that he would seek an early session with Murray to talk it over.

The railroad brotherhoods, some of them in the AFL and some independent, were expected to reply as soon as their leaders could get together.

Hayes, in his letter to Murray, said his union "has long felt that disunity in the labor movement is a tragic negation of the whole principle of collective action.

"Never in its long history has organized labor been faced with greater organized opposition than it is up against today," Hayes said.

"Moreover, that opposition has gained a great advantage primarily because we, in the labor movement, are divided.

"In our present deplorable jurisdictional bickering, we, as leaders of organized labor, can neither protect the interests of our membership politically nor win for them adequate economic returns at the bargaining table. And this, in my view, does not represent responsible trade union leadership."

Director of the show is Miss June Shultz, OPHS drama instructor, who is also preparing several one act plays for presentation the following week in the school auditorium.

STATE POLITICS ON BRISK SPREE

Interest Suddenly Lively After Several Weeks Of Doldrums

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8. —(AP)— After weeks of Doldrums, Louisiana politics has crowded on all sails and is scudding before a brisk, if variable, breeze.

Such a spurt isn't unusual in political campaigns in this state, the odd thing about the current senatorial maneuvering is that with all this speed, it isn't yet a race between a candidate epresenting the bucked by the usual opposition forces. The generally recognized opposition candidate has not appeared, although J. M. McLemore of Alexandria, who has been mentioned for the role, has said that he is canvassing possible support.

This situation highlights the exact wording which Mayor De Lesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans used when he denied recurrent rumors of a deal between the traditionally rival state and city administrations. The mayor said, in part:

"If the other independent thinking people in the state are ready to take a stand and offer all-out opposition in the forthcoming senatorial campaign, we shall be proud to do our part."

This sounded like a promise to oppose the re-election of Sen. Russell Long — on the condition that a strong candidate emerged, backed by a united front.

As the week drew to a close no such candidate had avowed his intentions.

McLemore said in Baton Rouge last week he wanted to talk to more people, including Mayor Morrison, before making up his mind.

There were indications also that not all the political elements rumored to be aligned against Sen. Long were in harmony. The breach still appeared wide, for example, between former Gov. Sam H. Jones and Leander H. Perez, Plaquemines — St. Bernard district Attorney and States Rights democratic leader, long-time political antagonists.

Perez supported Gov. Earl K. Long in 1948 but subsequently has been widely reported at odds with the state administration and opposed to Sen. Long — reports he has declined to confirm or deny.

Jones ran against the governor in 1948.

At a state federation of labor convention in New Orleans Jones complained of persons he said were capturing the States Rights leadership. In an interview, he added, "I am not a Perez lieutenant. . . . I will not be identified with a group of reactionary principles."

At the same convention, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor praised Sen. Long as a liberal and attacked "Republicans and reactionary Dixiecrats."

Meanwhile Mayor Morrison went ahead with legislative proposals for increasing the city's revenues, trimmed by the 1948 legislature. Declaring he would not try to restore the one percent of the city sales tax the legislature cancelled, he asked for a redistribution of cigarette, gasoline and horse racing taxes which he said would provide as much as $1,800,000 annual increase for the city budget.

And Rep. Mike Ohlsen of Concordia parish, a strong administration supporter in the state house of representatives and chairman of a municipal study group appointed by Gov. Long, described the mayor's requests as "reasonable." He said he would "go along with him in the legislature."

The legislature will have met before the senatorial primary is held, and any benefits New Orleans receives could be expected to influence the mood of the electorate in that city.

When he announced his policical stand, however, Mayor Morrison said explicitly that he was going to the legislature "with a program based on its fairness and on its merit" but with no "intimation that we might bargain our political liberty, or our political freedom or independence."

Easter time of regeneration, when our contemplation of Christ risen reminds us that there must be some master-plan for all complexities of existence. Easter, the time for planting, when the sight of growing things over all earth assures us that God in His Kingdom is wise and bountiful. Easter is a symbol of the peace and brotherhood of man. It is a day in which we pause to thank the Almighty for our blessed peace and to take sanctity in His House of Worship. For it is in the quiet dignity of the church that we may mediate and count our blessings together. It is a day which symbolizes the unity of family, country and the entire world. Easter is indeed a symbol.

News From The Parish Library

The month of March 1950 was one in which the Ouachita Parish Public Library had the largest circulation in its history. During this month 21,195 books were borrowed from the library. Of this number 9,418 books were read by adults and 11,777 were read by juvenile readers. From the Monroe branch 7,376 books were borrowed, from the West Monroe branch, 3,325 books were read. The circulation from the Bookmobile was the largest in the parish library system, a total of 9,472 books. The patrons of the Carver branch read 1,022 books. More juvenile books than adult were borrowed from the Bookmobile, while Monroe, West Monroe and Carver loaned a majority of their books to adults.

In March 335 new borrowers registered at the four branches of the library, making a total registration of 15,579 people who use the library. Of this number 7,680 are adults and 7,899 are juvenile readers. In order to meet the standards set up by the Louisiana Library Association we should have 18,669 registered borrowers. This number should be distributed as 8,622 juvenile and 10,047 adults. We need to register 3,090 people before the close of the year to reach the standard. If you are not a user of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, you are failing to take advantage of a wonderful source pleasure and education that is furnished to you absolutely free of charge. There is some type of reading material to appeal to each person in the collection of 29,400 volumes which the library owns.

It is very gratifying to note that more and more people are turning to the library as a source of information. The library is glad to answer reference questions over the telephone. If a person wants material on any subject, the library staff is glad to prepare a bibliography and collect the material. If a person wants reading guidance, the library staff is glad to give it. The library is an agency o adult education and every citizen of Ouachita parish should take advantage of its resources.

Every week new books are added to the library collection. "The Firebrand" by George Challis is a historical novel with the scene in Italy during the close of the age of chivalry. There is a great deal of intrigue, sword play etc. This is a book which will appeal to readers who like Samuel Shellbarger's works. "Give Us Our Years" by Margaret Culkin Banning is a light story which will appeal to many readers. "The Enduring Hills" has for its setting the Kentucky hill country. This is a story of great sincerity and will appeal to many readers. "Memory and Desire" by Leonora Hornblow is a novel which has for its setting New York and Hollywood. Mrs. Hornblow is the wife of the director, Arthur Hornblow, and should know what she is writing about. It is a well done book and makes most interesting reading. "The World is a Bridge" by Christine Weston is a novel with the scene laid in India. "The Unknown Path" by Anne Meredith is a romantic novel of the Victorian period. It will appeal especially to women. "The Boys From Sharon" by Louise Field Cooper is a delicate comedy dealing with the visit of two boys eight and eleven years old to a dull and patterened household of three adults.

Mystery stories are always in demand. Several new ones have recently been added to the library collection. "The Washington Story" by Jay Deiss is a suspense story concerned with a young matron who found herself involved in all sorts of suspicious activities, without any fault of her own. "Even in Death" by Stewart Devine is reminiscent of the Leslie Ford mysteries. It is concerned with the adventures which befell Kit Driscoll, when she went to visit a school friend in Virginia. "Make Haste to Live" by the Gordons is a mystery novel of superior plotting, characters and style. "The Bride of Newgate" by John Dickson Carr is a mystery story with a setting in England during the period of the Napoleonic wars. "The Bride Regrets" by Marjorie Carleton is a gruesome story of a girl who married a bluebeard and almost became one of his victims.

In the field of general information there are books for every taste. "My World is an Island" by Elizabeth Ogilvie is a charming story of life on an island off the coast of Maine. "The Plant Disease Handbook" by Cynthia Westcott will be of interest to all gardeners, especially since Mrs. Westcott recently talked at a meeting of the Monroe Garden Club. "The Church-School Teacher's Job" by Mildred Eakin, will be of help to Sunday School teachers. "Out of the Earth" by Louis Bromfield is a book dealing with the new methods of agriculture as he applied them at Malabar Farm. "Interrupted Melody" by Marjorie Lawrence is a story of the career of an opera singer, which was a success despite a crippling attack of polio. "I Married a Oinasaur" by Lillian Brown is a humorous account of a girl who married an anthropologist.

A most beautiful book is "Louisiana Gallery" by Philip Kappel. It is a book of pen and ink sketches with accompanying text dealing with New Orleans and the river country. "Worlds in Collision" by Immanuel Velikovsky is a most amazing book explaining a whole new theory of the universe. "The Story of our Names" by Elsdon C. Smith should be interesting to any person who wants to know about the origin of his name. "Out of the Earth" by Russell Lord is a fascinating account of the pleasures of country living. "Antique Fakes and Their Detection" should be read by every person who collects antique furniture and also by dealers who sell it. "The Abingdon Bible Commentary" fills a gap in our collection, which has existed for some time.

VIVIAN GREEN, BRIDE-ELECT, IS FETED IN TALLULAH

In their Tallulah home, on the banks of the picturesque bayou, Mrs. B. L. Coad and Miss Nell recently, for a lovely bridge luncheon honoring Miss Vivian Green of Rayville whose marriage to Foster Jones, Jr. will be solemnized in April. For the occasion the honoree wore a suit of bridal blue with accessories of navy and a becoming hat of pink and navy. She was presented with a corsage of dutch iris and daisies.

In the reception hall of the Coad home baskets of purple iris and low bowls of pansies carried out the Easter colors. The dining table and buffet were centered with white iris, daisies, clematis, and bridal wreath. In the living room a basket, shaped like an "Easter hat", adorned with pink rose buds and blue forget-me-nots with bows of tulle was most effective.

The card tables were covered tered with "flower-girl" baskets of daisies. A delicious three-course luncheon was served. The desert course of individual cakes and mint green sherbert was most attractive.

Following the delectable luncheon bridge games were enjoyed. Miniature wedding rings, placed on each table, designated the winners of the floating prizes, silver bridge pencils, won by Mrs. W. M. Green, Jr. and Mrs. Frank Schooler. The high score prize, a pretty hand made organdy apron, was won by Miss Nitsy Guynes. Low score prize went to Miss Jackie Guynes, a novel silver glove clip. The honoree was presented with a piece of silver in her chosen pattern.

At the close of the games, a large florist box, containing specimen gladioli, with card enclosed from Mr. Coad, was presented to the honoree.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

CAGEY MELDING CAN OUTWIT

By William E. McKenney
America's Card Authority

In Canasta it is sometimes possible to encourage opportunity to knock at the door by giving the opposition a misleading picture of your hand. This can most effectively be done when your hand contains five cards of a kind and the initial meld has been established. Rather than meld all five of the cards, it sometimes pays to meld only three of the holding and freeze the pack at your next turn. If your side has only a limited number of melds showing, it is possible that the opponent on your right will eventually discard into the pair withheld from your original five of a kind, enabling you to pick up the pack.

Some of the most interesting questions placed in my mailbox recently have been:

Q—If I have a natural canasta in my hand, even though it's sixes or sevens, and the individual card values total to only 35 points, does it constitute an opening meld?

A—No. Melding of a canasta does not meet the minimum meld requirements unless the value of the cards themselves totals the required amount. Only exception is when you go out concealed, when minimum meld requirements are waived.

Q—What is the principle on which singletons or doubletons are discarded?

A—It's a good idea to discard them when the pack is small, but when the pack is large, think twice. If you have not a black three or even a wild card to prevent your opponent from taking the pack, it may be a good thing to discard from one of your long suits, hoping that he will not have a match for it.

Q—Is it a good thing to keep your hand as small as possible?

A—No. You can have too few cards, thus making your hand inflexible.

Q—Are red treys counted in the initial meld?

A—No. You do not include the value of any red treys you may have laid on the table in your initial meld. The 100-point value of the red trey is a bonus only. It is not counted as a meld value.

Q—I have two wild cards and a queen in my hand. Can I meld these three cards if it will put me out.

A—No. Any original meld must contain at least two natural cards. You might be able to place the two deuces on another meld and discard the queen.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

THE STERLINGTON WOMAN'S SOCIETY HOSTESS AT SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING

The Sterlington Woman's Society of Christian Service was hostess to societies in zone two of Monroe district at the first semi-annual meeting of the year. Roll call gave a total of 68 present, representing nine of the 10 societies comprising zone two. Societies represented were Bastrop, Bartholomew, Bonne Idee, Bonita, Collinston, Jones, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, and Sterlington. There were no representatives from Fairbanks.

An offering was taken, amounting to $20.77, which was sent to the district treasurer to be channeled for missionary projects.

A musical prelude, with Mrs. Tom Wafer of Sterlington at the piano, preceded the opening of the program. The meeting came to order at 2 o'clock with the zone leader, Mrs. Warren Storment of Bastrop, presiding and Miss Marie Hodges of Collinston serving as secretary.

Mrs. Powell Sinclair, president of the hostess society, gave a heart-warming address of welcome; Mrs. Storment responding in behalf of the guests. Opening prayer was by Mrs. W. E. Cubberly of Bastrop.

Instructions on duties of each officer in a local society were given by members from different societies or circles in the zone. Participants and the respective officers were: Mrs. Slocum of Jones, vice-president; Mrs. W. C. Corley of Bastrop, Christian Social Relations; Mrs. Allen Pomeroy of Bastrop, Missionary Education and Service; Mrs. D. J. Lloyd of Bartholomew, student work.

Mrs. A. H. Harper of Collinston, youth work; Mrs. Scott Horton of Sterlington, spiritual life; Mrs. Scott Buatt of Bonita, supply work; Mrs. M. J. Bowe of Bonne Idee, literature and publications; Mrs. Allen Pomeroy of Bastrop, status of women; and Mrs. W. C. Corley of Bastrop, president's duties.

A climax of the program was a dialogue, on the Ecumenical Church, by Mrs. Jack Midyett and Mrs. Scottie Buchanan of Bastrop. The program came to a close with an inspiring meditation by Mrs. Cathey of Bastrop, assembly singing from the Methodist Hymnal and benediction by Mrs. Hattie Neely of Bastrop. Bonita extended an invitation for the next meeting to be held in the fall.

A delightful social hour followed in the lovely new church school and recreation annex. Coffee, dainty sandwiches, and confections were served by the Sterlington ladies.

MY MAN and YOURS

By Margene Danch

Mrs. Rene Coutre of Chi ago really has something worthwhile to say today:

". . . My man let himself in for a lot of trouble and I only hope all you folks will take warning from his case. I'm partially to blame, too, I guess. I've been after my husband for months to do something about fixing up our place.

'I will, I will,' he kept evading. 'When we can afford it.'

He knew he was safe there because the way it looked, it would be a long time before we got any money ahead.

And then it happened.

A very nice looking young man stopped at our house. My husband went to the door because I was busy with the dishes just then.

'Good afternoon, sir.' The young man smiled. 'You probably don't know me. I was passing through this neighborhood and the wonderful lines of your little house here caught my eye.'

'Well, it's not that good . . .' my man said modestly.

The young man looked past him. 'May I come in and look further? You see, I can use your home as a model place. It won't cost you a cent. All you have to do is let your friends and other folks see what wonders you've worked and we'll pay you ten dollars for every deal we make.'

'I can't afford to put any money in . . .' My husband thought he'd get that clear from the beginning.

'You don't have to, sir! We would like to use your home as our model!' The customers we get from the display of the house will more than pay for the job.'

He went over the whole house and with each room got more enthusiastic. When he was through, he sat down with paper and pencil and made some rapid figures, checked them briefly, and looked up.

'This is better than I thought! We can do everything for less than seven hundred dollars!'

So, we signed up and the remodeling was done. The work is all right. But not one customer has shown up to give us ten dollars credit on our bill!

We've learned it's a racket that has been sweeping the country.

So, be on the lookout for people who want to give you something for nothing- Take it from one who knows!

MRS. JOHN P. NOEL HOSTESS AT REVIEW CLUB MEETING

Mrs. John P. Noel entertained the Review Club Monday afternoon at a local tea room, where attractive arrangements of iris and other springs flowers created a background of outstanding beauty in the reception rooms.

The main feature of the business session, conducted by Mrs. F. V. Barnett, president, was a report on the district meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs held recently in Manghham. The delegates were enthusiastic in their praise of the success of the convention. Mrs. Barnett discussed general features of the meetings, and Mrs. W. T. Davis summarized the highlights of the address made by Mrs. H. M. Mims, president of L. F. W. C. Also included in the business was the completion of plans for the annual open meeting of the Review Club on May 1st.

Mrs. Noel, program chairman introduced the speakers of the afternoon, Mrs. E. P. Cudd gave a highly entertaining account of "The Heat of the Day," by Elizabeth Bowen, a novel set in wartime London. The story is that of three main characters, Stella, Robert, and Harrison, bound together by extremely personal and intimate relationships. The central problem evolves around whether Robert, an officer in the British army, wounded at Dunkirk and now on special duty in London, is guilty of treason. Harrison, an intelligence officer, is attempting to take Robett's place as Stellas's lover, and at the same time to convince her that Robert is a traitor. Although the story itself is somewhat unsatisfactory, Mrs. Cudd said, the novel is, as a piece of writing, a real work of art. In portraying the people involved, the author proves herself a master of characterization.

Mrs. Corbin Turpin presented an interesting review of "The Christmas Tree," by Isabel Bolton. This novel seems to be designed as a symbol of the world's disorder. It is the story of Hilly Danforth, of her son Larry and of her grandson, who move together toward a tragic end. At the root of the book is Larry's mother complex and Hilly's tragic realization of her own part in fostering his dependency on her. Miss Bolton sustains suspense througout the novel, but the real attraction lies in her ability to reproduce human emotoins, in her re-creation of the sparkle and artificiality of the Christmas tree around which she centers the story.

At the conclusion of the program a delicious dessert course was served.

Tisdale of Monroe, who is now serving as Extension chairman in the general federation. Past district presidents present were Mrs. C. Noble Hatch of Rayville, Mrs. C. E. Hester of Tallulah, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale of Monroe and Miss Blanche Wilson of Sicily Island.

As an invocation, Mrs. Clyde Archibald Grammar School under the direction of Mrs. C. N. Hatch, sang two numbers.

After the flag salute, led by Mrs. Barney Atkins, of Jonesville, Mrs. W. L. Acklen of Archibald led the group in singing "America."

Mrs. Theo Jones, president of Mangham Literary Club, graciously welcomed those present and Mrs. Joseph H. Pankey of Ferriday responded to her welcome.

The girls of Mangham High School Chorus, under the direction of Miss Elaine Canady sang several delightful numbers which were generously applauded by the appreciative audience.

Miss Lillie Mae Seals of Sicily Island, recording secretary, called the roll of the clubs of the district, when twenty-nine clubs responded to their names. There were present 128 members of the various clubs represented.

Fifth District is proudly welcoming three new clubs this year. They are Archibald Literary Club, sponsored by Alto Cultural Club; Harrisonburg's Woman's Club, sponsored jointly by the Sicily Island Woman's Club and the Jonesville Women's Club; and the Rayville Arts and Civic Club, sponsored by the Lambda Kappa Club, of Rayville. It was reported that there are several other clubs in the process of formation in this district.

Mrs. Lellah H. Lyle of Rayville, chairman of library service for Fifth District, introduced Miss Eunice Heitman of the Catahoula parish library who spoke on librarianship as a profession. Interesting posters and booklets graphically describing the subject were prepared and displayed through the courtesy of Richland parish Library. Miss Heitman, discussing the advantages and joys of service to one's community through library work said, "I have never seen a librarian who said she did not like her work." Miss Heitman also spoke of the 25th anniversary of the Louisiana State library, enumerating some of the many services it gives to people of every walk in life throughout the state.

At 12 o'clock luncheon was served in the cafeteria of the Mangham High School. Although served informally in cafeteria style, the tables were beautiful with a profusion of spring flowers.

The afternoon session opened with the assembly singing "Louisiana," led by Mrs. W. L. Acklen, district music chairman, followed by the club collect, led by Mrs. G. D. Babin, 2nd vice president. Miss Elaine Canady of the music department in Mangham High School, gave a beautiful solo accompanied by Mrs. B. N. Hixon, also of Mangham.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale of Monroe gave an interesting talk on "Know Your Federation" in which she pointed out the advantages of belonging in the federation, the good which can be accomplished when many work together for a common cause and enumerated the steps by which women's clubs could mobilize their strength for peace.

A beautiful and impressive Memorial Service, conducted by Mrs. W. L. Acklen and Mrs. C. Noble Hatch was held in honor of deceased members of clubs in the Fifth District. These departed club friends were Mrs. Frank B. Hatch, Jr. of Rayville; Mrs. A. C. Monroe of Oak Grove and Mrs. Julius Chandler of Monroe.

At the February executive board meeting, it was decided to group the clubs of the district for the purposes of entertaining the convention each year; those clubs that are close together cooperating in the yearly meet. As this year, the three hostess clubs, Mangham and Alto were close together so they could entertain jointly. Thus, the clubs in Harrisonburg, Jonesville and Sicily Island, being close together, were grouped to entertain the district at the same time. These three clubs invited the contention for 1951 with the meeting to be held in Sicily Island. The invitation was accepted enthusiastically and the convention adjourned with anticipation of another successful meeting in Sicily Island in 1951.

Catholic Daughters Of America Will Present Book Review

The Catholic Daughters of America are happily anticipating the pleasure of a Book Review to be given by Reverend D. A. Curren, May 12. The book is one of the latest publication—"The Cardinal," by Henry Morton Robinson.

It is a Privilege to present such an outstanding book; in it we find real story-telling and characterization and it has enormous appeal to the general public. It has much spiritual value and carries tremendous power of conviction and interpretation.

A rich tapestry of dramatic characters and events has been woven out of the rise of an Irish boy from Medford, Mass., to the eminence of a prince of the Roman Catholic Church. The hero of the book, Rev. Father Stephen Fermoyle, brings its readers very close to the realm of sacerdotal ritual, mysteries and devotions, such points have been neglected by many novelists. We appreciate the efforts brought forth in the book of Henry Morton Robinson, who so skillfully unfolds his story as to grip his readers from the very beginning to its final pages.

Rev. Father D. A. Curren, retreat master and instructor at the Maryhill Seminary, has graciously granted our request to give this review in Monroe.

With such an outstanding book, given by one of Father Curren's ability and eloquence, it is hoped many will plan to hear the review on May 12. The place is to be announced later.

The public is cordially invited. Please, avail yourself of this great opportunity of hearing a review by such an able authority on his subject and a scholar who will leave us indelibly impressed.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

The club has planned a party for all boys of L. T. I. with Miss Genevia Castles and Miss Dutch Martin furnishing the entertainment.

Mrs. J. D. Petty, acting program chairman in the absence of Mrs. Morris Miller, introduced Mrs. E. C. Gibson, who reviewed the novel "Cry, The Beloved Country," by Alan Patron. Mrs. Bigson stated that the book is filled with love, fear, pain and kindness. The background of the novel is Africa. The central character is a Negro parson who, because of his simple consecrated spiritual sincerity, stands out as a hero. "Cry, The Beloved Country" is more than just a story — it is a profound experience of the human spirit.

Mrs. W. B. Wheelis gave a most interesting and informative talk of youth and your community.

Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Long, to the following members: Mrs. R. E. Black, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. R. H. Dallor, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. E C. MR. C. C. FLEMING, LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT, TO BE GUEST SPEAKER AT MONROE GARDEN CLUB MEET

Mr. C. C. Fleming, landscape architect of Houston, Texas, will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the Monroe Garden Club on Monday, April 10th at the Virginia Hotel in the Cameo Room. This lecture will be open to the public for a small admission fee.

Mr. Fleming, who is a Texan has traveled extensively in Europe and has had the great advantage of actually seeing and studying the authentic background on which the present day architects base their standards of proportion and design. He has viewed the wonderful gardens of Europe and with a true artists ability applies their basic principals to the individual gardening problem at hand, bearing in mind the surroundings and the owners tastes.

The rich cities of Dallas, San Antonia, Houston and as far up as Memphis have gardens both publically and privately owned which Mr. Fleming has designed. Monroe is very fortunate in having a sample of his work in the gardens of Miss Emmie Lou Bidenharn on Riverside drive. Miss Biedenharn's garden is truly reflective of the European more formal landscaping, while Mr. Fleming has done equally as attractive work in very informal gardens.

The State Convention of Federated Garden Clubs which met last spring in New Orleans heard Mr. Fleming's lecture and due to the great enthusiasm shown, The Monroe Garden Club feels greatly honored to have him speak here Monday afternoon. His lecture should be of great interest to everyone who wishes to make their surroudings more attractive.

SPRING HATS MODELED AT MONTHLY SUPPER MEETING

The Jaycee Jaynes held their regular monthly supper meeting Friday night at a local restaurant with Mrs. Ada Gruber as guest speaker.

Centering the dining table was a straw hat filled with spring flowers in purple and yellow.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Rush Biossat introduced the guest speaker, whose subject was, "Getting a Head Start". Mrs. Gruber said in part, "This year of 1950 will go down in history as the year the hat returned in triumph, no more scarfs about the head, no wisps of veiling and flowers, but hats. The tonic hasn't been invented that can give a woman the lift of a new hat. Don't underestimate the really beneficial effects of a new hat. Hats have been known to change the course of a lady's life. Men would rather have their women pretty than smart, a pretty color, a softened line, a rich material, a feminine flower, a provocative veil may not make newslines in Vogue, but it is liable to make the husband or boyfriend happier than the severe fedora which only the knowing fashion editor might appreciate. The fact that many men may not understand high fashion in no way is meant to mark down masculine taste, for in my opinion, men have very sound instincts for good line and also good quality. So in order to please the male the hats must be pretty and must be becoming.

The New Look has now passed on and in its place we now have feminine but not fussy, interesting but no overdone clothes, clothes which are the perfect marriage of two schools and which do a good job of combining the sex appeal of the French look with the practical Americanism of our best casual costumes.

These new clothes, the spring 1950 clothes call for simple not dull, sleek but not understated, interesting but not fussy hats. Spring 1950 hats can be feminine, fashionable and becoming. They can in one of the most overworked customer phrases, 'do something for' the women who buy them. Hats are not an inanimate piece of merchandise but they are an emotion because they bring pleasure and joy to the wearer.

You'll be hearing more about the idea of moving your hat forward, a little or a great deal. After these years of the wide open brow, the forward tilt seems worth trying again. But, if it makes you look older, don't do it. If it makes you feel self-conscious, don't do it. If your brow is your special beauty, don't do it. Or, if you simply like yourself better in a backward look, by all means, leave the forward look to others. It is the newest look, but it is not the only smart look. One of the reportable things about the new Mid-Century fashions is the fact, the already-worn, verified fact, that there is more than one silhouette, more than one skirt length, more than one sleeve idea, accepted by fashionable women. Becomingness can be the distinguishing mark of the smartest clothes this spring.

Mrs. Gruber closed her speech by giving a few tips, such as, for the short and fat, wear black or dark clothes, do not wear pompons or over blown roses, you yourselves are over blown roses. Wear a gay, pert brave hat above your upswept hairdo. To those 35 and beyond I urge that they forget the "looking young" phobia, having come to fruition, make the most of it."

Members of the Jaycee Jaynes next modeled hats with Mrs. Billy Edmondson wearing a white milan bonnet effect with clusters of white dew drops at each side. Pale green velvet entwined with pearls around the smooth crown and a short pale green veil. Mrs. John Scalia modeled a pale pink colored Swiss straw contrasted with a rich shade of green velvet ribbon, matching bow and sprays of pink lilac blossoms.

Mrs. S. E. Holloway, Jr. was lovely in a wonderful shade hat of pure white Swiss Milan with contrasting black grosgrain band. The wide brim is overlaid with loops of ribbon to one side.

Mrs. Rush Biossat was wearing a portrait shape in black Milan with bronze beads and flowers encircling the crown, completed with a cage veil of black mesh.

Mrs. James Lamb was wearing a sailor hat, that's all. A fresh angle, that everything. This is the newest way for a hat to sit; right over the eyes; and a naturally satisfactory way for the unadorned sailor to cant. Suddenly a right look for this year's small shouldered very narrow suits. The hat itself makes fashion remarks of its own. The staring white of it, the smooth, light weave of Balibuntal straw, the mask of the dotted veil.

Mrs. Jack Wyatt modeled a youthful bonnet of white Baker with a garland of white flowers. Contrasting pale green velvet ribbon crown band with velvet also edging the scalloped brim. Pomp length finely dotted veil completing this so wearable hat.

Members present were Mrs. S. E. Holloway, Mrs. Rush Biossat, Mrs. Carl Slakter, Mrs. Buddy Tolson, Mrs. Artis Ponder, Mrs. Alfred Brin, Mrs. Roy Holloway, Mrs Loraine Armstrong, Mrs. Johnnie Scalia, Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Bill McClary, Mrs. Jack Wyatt, Mrs. Charles Reagan, Mrs. James Lamb, Mrs. Jane Douglas, Mrs. Bill Downey, Mrs. Aubrey Wallace, Mrs. Jack Howard, Mrs. John Usrey, Mrs. Norman Moncrief, Mrs. Billy Edmondson and two guests, Mrs. Ada Gruber and Mrs. Jodie Clinton.

The First Methodist Church in Conroe, Texas, was the scene Saturday at 7 o'clock in the evening of the marriage of Miss Jane Carol Jeanes of Lokwood Farms, Willis, Texas, daughter of Mr. T. E. Jeanes and Mrs. Vivian Koen Black, and the Rev. Arthur M. Baker, son of Mrs. A. M. Baker of Darnell. The Rev. Robert T. Browne officiated in the double ring ceremony, which was performed before the altar of the church decorated with garlands of magnolia leaves and bouquets of white gladiola.

Miss Urcell Knight at the organ played a program of nuptial music during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. T. E. Jeanes, was wearing a bridal gown of antique ivory satin fashioned with off shoulder yoke of Chantilly lace bound with seed pearls and pointed bridal sleeves with insets of lace bound with seed pearls. Her full gathered skirt swept into a full length train. Her fingertip veil, edged in Chantilly lace, fell from a Juliet cap of ivory satin, embroidered in seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible topped with white gardenias, with white satin streamers and stephanotis.

Matron-of-honor was Mrs. L. A. Koen, grandmother of the bride, and bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Jan Walls, cousin of the bride, Miss Mae Darroll Rains, Miss Rita Hoffoss, Mrs. Tom McNeill, Jr., Mrs. B. T. Dunken, Miss Mary Catherine Graham and Miss Kay Stripling, junior bridesmaid. The bridal attendants were gowned in white faille taffeta gowns, fashioned with low necks, cap sleeves and gathered skirts with bustle effect in the back. They were wearing skull caps of white illusion and carried bouquets of American Beauty roses. Miss Jamie Jones was the flower girl.

Mr. Tim Austin served the groom as best man, and ushers were Mr. Robert V. Lentz, Mr. David Salter, Mr. Don Thompson, Mr. John Rudin, Mr. W. R. Walls, Jr., Mr. Dick Phieffer and Mr. Gene Reese.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Black chose a cocktail length gown of pink lace and a black straw picture hat with dipping pink velvet rose. Mrs. Baker was wearing a gown of aqua lace with fitted bodice and full gathered skirt.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride, Lokwood Farms, which was decorated with bouquets of white gladiola and red roses. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. W. R. Walls, Mrs. W. C. Rains and Mrs. L. V. Magee.

For traveling on their trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, Mexico, the bride was wearing a suit of navy gabardine with navy accessories and white blouse and a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon their return, they will make their home at 4716 St. John's Drive, Dallas, Texas, where both are attending S. M. U.

The bride is a graduate of Our Lady of the Lake High School, San Antonio, Texas, where she was president of the Junior and Senior Class, president of Student Council, National Honor Society and a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority at S. M. U. The groom attended Northeast Junior College and S. M. U., where he will graduate in June. Slip Cover Classes Held Recently

Today, slip covers form a definite and important part of house furnishing. In the early days slip covers served merely as protectors against dust and hot scratchy woolen upholstery during the hot summer months. They were usually poorly fitted.

"Housewives are finding that they can make their own covers, fitting them trimly and tailoring them smartly for permanent use," states Mrs. Swift. "I have just held three all day classes, and each class learned to cut and make a slip cover. The cover was completed in one day, with every person in the class learning every step. These women can now make their own slip covers, and assist others in learning. This is a big saving in the budget.

The following women attended all day classes: Mrs. J. H. Votaw, Mrs. J. W. Traylor, Mrs. J. C. Earnest, Mrs. L. S. Nay, Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Mrs. R. D. Milling, Mrs. A. C. McMeans, Mrs. J. W. McCarty, Mrs. H. T. Crowell, Mrs. Newton Moore, Mrs. H. W. Montgomery, Mrs. T. D. Tillman, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. H. S. Trammell, Mrs. O. W. Hattaway, and Mrs. Irving Campbell.

NEWELLTON HIGH SCHOOL HAS JUNIOR AND SENIOR BANQUET

The Junior Class of Newellton High School paid their tribute to the class of 1950 at an elaborate and unique banquet, held recently in the Plantation Room of the Old Southern Tea Room in Vicksburg, Mississippi. Never had the Plantation Room been adorned in such loveliness with such a spectacular array of spring flowers and class colors of red and white.

The banquet table was arranged in the shape of a horseshoe, symbolic of "Good Luck" to the graduates, with green ivy outlining the center of the horseshoe interlaced with red and white roses, the class flower. In the center of the tables, at the turn of the horseshoe, was a massive flowers arrangement, also of red and white roses, and on each side stood a boy and girl graduate figurine, wearing a miniature nosegay and lapel rose respectively and each holding a tiny diploma in his hand. A tall single candlestick on each side completed the adornment of the center table. In the middle of each arm of the horseshoe was a triple silver candlelabra holding tapering white candles, and near the ends on each side was a low arrangement of red and white rosebuds. A dainty nosegay was presented each senior girl and a lapel rosebud was given each senior boy. The placecards consited of tiny diplomas for the seniors and miniature dunce caps for the juniors. Baskets of spring flowers in red and white were placed in appropriate settings around the room.

The program which was spaced at intervals during the dinner consisted of the junior welcome address by Jimmie Smith, the senior response by Jimmie Adams, the class prophecy by Wilma Roundtree, a farewell message to the seniors by the junior class president, Eleanor Harvey, and the toast to the graduates by Charles Wood. After dinner was served, bingo was enjoyed by all present. Then the juniors sang two songs which they had written and dedicated to the senior class. When the entire group joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne, there was a wistfulness and sadness in their voices, with the realization that graduation was just around the corner and "parting is such sorrow."

The honored guests were: Jimmie Adams, Patsy Parks, Jimmie Ruth Keyes, Billy Tatum, Wilson Penick, Dane Darnell, Arthur Calloway, Lavonne Woodruff, Helen Wilson, and Bill McConnell.

Juniors present were: Eleanor Harvey, Wilma Roundtree, Charles Wood, Friley Ford, Hollis George, Tommie Jean Lee, Robert Harris, Mary Barnes, Lady Gentry, Betty Jean Vinson, and Jimmie Smith.

Others attending the banquet were Mr. Mary Carras, junior class sponsor, Mr. A. L. Porter, principal, and Mr. Bob Wasson of the Newellton faculty.

Ulysses S. Grant's father was a tanner. The boy who was to become president started as an apprentice in the family sole-leather tannery.

MRS. E. N. JACKSON ENTERTAINS MEMBERS OF W. S. C. S. AT TEA

A beautifully planned tea was recently given by Mrs. E. N. Jackson, president of the W. S. C. S. of First Methodist Church, at her home on Roselawn honoring the new members and prospective members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church. Two - hundred guests and members called during the appointed hours.

Receiving at the door was Mrs. F. L. Jones and Miss Juanita Porter who ushered guests into the reception hall where Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. Ben Parnell and Mrs. C. J. Turpin extended further courtesies. Yellow calla lilies tied with a wide yellow satin bow decorated the newal post of the stairway, and a striking arrangement of yellow gladioli were reflected in a stately gold-leaf pier mirror.

In the living-room Mrs. Jackson received with Mrs. Mike John Jr., president elect for the coming year, Mrs. Gaston Ikle, Miss Julia Wossman, Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, Mrs. A. E. Allen, Mrs. John Breard, Mrs. Henry Blanks, Mrs. Francis Faulk, Mrs. N. Leatherwood, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. W. Sandy, Mrs. Hugh Murray, Mrs. Richard Kellog, Mrs. Lea Thompson, Mrs. Joe Powell, and Mrs. J. J. McStravick. Yellow gladioli were placed upon the piano and yellow iris and acacia were placed at vantage points throughout the room. The mantel was flanked with yellow calla lilies and yellow acacia. Mrs. C. B. McEachern rendered various piano selections throughout the afternoon. A large bowl of yellow tulips attracted attention as guests moved on into the sun parlor where they were greeted by Mrs. C. W. Dodgen who presided at the guest book.

Circulating among the guests and also extending courtesies was Mrs. J. H. Drake, vice president of the W. S. C. S. of First Methodist Church.

The dining table was laid with a beautiful cream colored cut-work table cloth and yellow calla lilies in a silver florentine bowl with matching candelabrum holding the lighted yellow tapers fromed the elaborate centerpiece. The motif of the color scheme was further carried out with cream colored napkins embossed in gold with the initials W. S. C. S. Magnificient antique silver services placed at each end of the table were presided over by Mrs. W. M. Washburn and Mrs. J. D. Petty for the first hour, alternating with Mrs. Earl Hitt and Mrs. A. D. Murray for the second hour. Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. J. A. Combs, Mrs. G. M. Gleason, Mrs. H. S. Stansell, and Mrs. Ernest Strauss.

DR. COX STARTS REVIVAL APRIL 10

Will Initiate Revival In First Baptist Church, Monroe

Rev. Norman W. Cox, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist Church of Meridian, Miss., will be in Monroe on Monday to begin the series of services at the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Cox is a native of Georgia. He received the degree of B. A. and D. D. from Mercer University and the Th. M. from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He has traveled largely in the United States, Canada, Mexico, and several European countries. He has served as pastor of the Court Street Baptist Church, Portsmouth, Va.; First Baptist Church, Savannah, Ga.; First Baptist Church, Mobile, Ala.; Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, Huntington, W. Va., and since June 1930 has been in his second pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Meridian.

He is one of the few ministers in Mississippi of whom there is a personal sketch in "Who's Who in America." A sketch of him has appeared in that publication in each of the volumes for the past twelve years. He is a Shriner and Rotarian. Some of the regular weekly religious editorials he has written are "Tramping Trails of Faith" and "Tales From a Preacher's Memory." He is the author of a book, "Youth's Return to Faith," Judson Press, which has sold two editions.

In addition to this pastor's study in writing, he has been active as an evangelist and preaches in from five to ten meetings a year. He has preached the baccalaureate sermons and spoken to the student bodies of colleges, universities, and theological seminaries in several states of the nation.

We of the First Baptist Church feel that we are especially privileged in having such a man with us for these days, and the people of the Twin Cities are most cordially invited to share these meetings with us.

NEWS FROM THE GIRL SCOUTS

Happy Easter, Scouts! We know you're having lots of fun admiring your pretty Easter baskets and their contents today, and rightly so—for this is one day you can indulge in eating all the jelly beans, chocolate candies and hard boiled eggs you can hold and Mother won't say a word! We know that all who are able will attend some church service today in observance of Easter and its true meaning, for this is indeed a glorious holiday.

Quite in keeping with the Easter theme, we'd like to report that Troop 27, Mrs. N. L. Huckabee and Mrs. A. W. Wiley, leaders made Easter favors to take to the folks at the Collins home for the aged and also worked up a nice program for their entertainment. Also, Troop 21, Mrs. A. J. Varnado and Mrs. W. L. Wooley, leaders, made tray favors and sent them to Charity Hospital to brighten the day for patients there. These favors were Easter baskets made from pastel paper baking cups filled with green straw and jelly beans. What a pretty susprise for the patients! Troop 21 is very busy these days equipping a first aid kit to have in readiness for the day camp when summer comes.

Troop 3, Mrs. Harry Schroeder and Mrs. Philip Snider, leaders, had a cook-out last week on White's Ferry road. There they built a fire and cooked hamburgers, very successfully, and as an added attraction they toasted marshmallows and had graham crackers along with a few squares of milk chocolate. This is called a "some more"—which needs no explanation. The girls then followed wooded trails using trails signs learned in Scouting. Quite a happy outing!

Troop 2, Brownie Scouts, with their leaders, Mrs. Bennie Goyne and Mrs. J. H. Netherland, leaders, had quite a unique "hike" recently. Sort of a "meet your neighbor" jaunt. All members left a starting place and visited each girl's home as a group, ending up at the last home for refreshment. This, we think, is a wonderful get-acquainted idea!

Troop 16, Intermediate, Mrs. McCaskle and Mrs. T. G. Kincaid, leaders, were driven by committee members out Highway 80 to the farm of Mrs. J. C. Elliot, also a committee member, and while hiking around the farm learned the different trees, one of the requirements for the Second Class badge they are now working on. This nice trip ended with a delectable wiener roast, which added just the right touch to an otherwise perfect afternoon. We were sorry to hear that Rosemary White, Patsy Pardue, Sharon Eady, Shirley Naron were confined at home by that old bug "flu" and missed the trip, but at the same time we're glad to know they're all up and out again, especially since they were able to attend the lovely Easter egg hunt given for the troop Friday at Bernstein Park.

"Women of Tomorrow", the picture about Scouting was a true and thrilling summary of the life of a Scoue? A number of troops went in a body, individual groups were noted, as well as a whole troop from Winnsboro in attendance at this showing. We feel sure the many grownups in evidence also enjoyed this short feature.

Last, but by all means not least, we have some information on a busy little troop number 25, Brownies, Mrs. H. E. Rabun and Mrs. George Roth, leaders. Pardon us—they have 20 members, which classifies them as a really big troop. Anyway, these girls have made sock dolls and scrapbooks, which we think is very commendable for the young ones, and we'd like to go into detail about the sock dolls here and now. They made arms and legs out of men's white sox stuffed with cotton, then tied ribbons around the middle to pull in the waists. Next some yellow and white wool thread was plaited for hair and lastly black crayon was used to draw the faces. Then they sewed up the slit in the back where the cotton was put in. Now, with the help of their mothers they'll soon have the dolls dressed. Aren't they smart? As for the scrapbooks, they're very colorful and very useful, as they hold all the items of interest to Brownies, such as newspaper clippings and pictures. Mrs. Rabun took a snapshot of each girl and now each scrapbook has its owner's picture right inside the cover.

YOUNGSTERS GET THE MOST OUT OF CARNIVALS

Paul also took other rides, saw midget cattle, age to have the most fun at carnivals. Last week, when a carnival was in town, Paul took in about everything there was to take in. Young Folks Just Naturally Get A Kick At Carnivals

By Percy Fant
(Of the Morning World Staff)

You've gotta be young to enjoy a carnival—to get the most out of taking a "chance" or being jarred from stem to stern by devices designed by imaginative geniuses for the guaranteed purpose of thrills and more thrills.

Don't get me wrong. An adult can get a "kick" out of a carnival, too—quite a kick. But not like the youngsters. To them, a nickel, a dime, a quarter, a dollar is something dad pulls from his pocket. It buys entertainment.

There was a carnival in town last week, but it left this morning. It was like most carnivals, if you get what I mean.

First you walk in. A woman greets you: "Guess your weight within two pounds, your age within three years, for a quarter. If I miss, you get one of these wonderful prizes," and she pionted to a shelf of glassware, bookends, etc. You took a chance and sure enough, she was pretty good, but not quite good enough. So you got a prize and moved on.

You took the path to your right because you're in a habit of traveling to your right. There was a stand after stand of "chance" games where "you couldn't lose." So you stopped at one. It was a quaint game—somewhat risky though. All you did was pick up a ball with a number on it. Then you compared the number with the same number on a chart and you got five points.

All you needed was ten points to win a swell prize. It was a quarter for two balls and you decided to play a little longer since you were feeling quite lucky after getting five points with the first ball. You snatched a couple of balls. Oh, you hit something that time! The operator pulled out a 20-dollar bill, tempted you with it, and said:

"Now, mister, you're real lucky tonight. From here on, you can't lose. You just play 'till you win—'till you get ten points and then you'll have this 20-dollar bill and your choice of any of the prizes."

Here you had progressed to the point in the game where each ball cost a dollar. It looked good, too good, so you decided to take in another part of this festival of fun.

Your next stop was a "spinner"—you spun the arrow 'round and 'round and it stopped at a prize. It wasn't the one you wanted so you took a couple more chances. They panned out the same way.

You walked disappointedly away and found yourself before a make-shift shooting game. You tried your luck here and it was just like the lady said—you couldn't lose. But come to think of it, what you won was, oh well, it wasn't worth it.

Then you arrived at a miniature farm. You paid a dime to get inside. It didn't quite live up to expectations, but maybe it was worth the 10 cents you paid for admission. It satisfied your curiosity.

At the rear was a side show, but police had closed it before it got started. The girlie shows would—but can't click in Monroe.

The rides didn't interest you much.

The way out was much like the way in. By the time you arrived at the exit, your pockets had accumulated a number of various articles of various shapes, value and size. You just as soon had left with the money you spent, but you did have a little fun.

But we said the youngsters got more fun out of a carnival. Let's follow Paul Roye, 12, son of Mrs. L. A. Black, through the show and see what he thinks about it all. Paul is a student at Ouachita and lives with his mother at 406 Stone avenue.

First Paul took in several of the concession stands, tried his luck. But the fun came on the ferriswheel, eating cotton candy, watching midget cattle, and riding the merry-go-round.

I think what Paul liked most about his night at the carnival was: 'it didn't cost him a cent." The manager, in cooperation with a Morning World reporter and photographer, gave him the rides, candy and other entertainment free as appreciation for his cooperation.

Paul said he enjoyed the carnival "very much."

"It's a lot of fun," he said.

And that goes another step to prove our point—the youngsters get more fun out of a carnival than do adults.

Zip Gives Man Elbow Room In A Top Coat

Sherlock Holmes did not discover this. It is the creation of a Baltimore tailor. It's a top coat with raglan sleeves that can be zipped open to form a cape in mild weather.

Joseph Charlow of the Baltimore Club of Custom Tailors explains it this way: "You're going for a long drive. You leave with coat sleeves fastened. By noon it's warm. You want to feel free and easy. But it's not warm enough to take off your coat. What do you do? You zip open the sleeves—don't even have to stop driving to do it. One second for each sleeve zips it open from cuff to armpit."

Charlow says this brainstorm is so new it hasn't got a name yet. Might call it a Zip Tease Topper.

Pagan Customs Are Reviued For Easter

(AP Newsfeatures)

The Easter parade, Easter dawn services, Easter eggs and the Easter rabbit are so mixed up with religion, paganism and folklore that only a powerful story like that of the Resurrection could survive to dominate this custom-cluttered spring day.

When you put on your new Easter bonnet and other spring finery you are perpetuating one of the oldest traditions of Christendom—the donning of white robes by the newly baptised.

Your children may wake up early to surprise you—an ancient custom — and they'll hunt for Easter eggs — primitive symbols of the germinating life of early spring. You'll tell them the eggs were laid by the Easter rabbit — a pagan emblem of fertility.

In fact the very name of Easter is pagan — an old Anglo-Saxon word that derived from Eostre, a Teutonic goddess of the rising light of day and spring.

Joy Means Noise

Don't be annoyed if the children are noisy — noise has accompanied the joy of Easter since earliest times. Until recently throughout eastern Europe, anyone was permitted to enter the belfries and ring the church bells on Easter. The noise was kept up for most of the day.

The joy of Easter has been variously interpreted in every country and in every century of the Christian era. The Catholic Enclopedia tells how priests of Bavaria in the 15th century thought it permitted them to tell funny stories in their sermons to make their churches ring with laughter.

"This Easter laughter," says the encyclopedia, "giving rise to the grave abuses of the word of God, was prohibited by Clement X (in the 1670's) and again by Maximilian III in the 18th century."

Ball Games in Church

In both France and Germany, Easter joy was taken to sanction ball games and dances by bishops, abbots, priests and monks in front of the altar. It was all symbolic, of course, the ball representing the sun, which was believed to take three leaps in rising on Easter morning. But apparently a good time was had by all, for the clerics had been under strict discipline during Lent.

Although the church eventually banned such shennanigans, the custom survived in other forms. Within the memory of many persons still living the ball game was continued at Bury St. Edmunds "with great spirit by 12 old women."

One of the most ribald Easter customs is described by the Rev. Alan W. Watts, S. T. M., in his new book "Easter" (Henry Schuman, New York). It is the story of ale drinking parties in all the churches.

"The fact that almost all of the churches now have parish halls attached to them," writes the Rev. Mr. Watts, "is, in part, the result of excluding another Easter festivity from the church itself. This was the Easter 'Church Ale,' a convivial distribution and drinking of ale after the principal Easter service, the money derived from it being used for repairs to the church fabric.

Brawls Brought Taverns

"It is certain," he continues, "that Church Ales easily degenerated into brawls and for this reason were ordered out of the church itself. As a result, church houses were built or rented adjoining the church, and equipped with kitchens and drinking utensils. Some of these ultimately became taverns while many more were retained for what is now the normal social life of the church community."

However, the strength of the church is illustrated in its adjustment to many other springtime capers that people confused with our Easter. One is the Easter Fire. This was lighted on top of a mountain, and according to pagan practice, it had to be kindled from new fire — drawn from wood by friction. The fire signified the victory of spring over winter.

At first the bishops issued severe edicts against these "sacrilegious Easter fires". But all over Europe people insisted on starting them. So, the Catholic Encyclopedia observes, "the Church adopted the observance into the Easter ceremonies."

Easter Egg's Origin

But of course, the Easter egg remains the most universal symbol of the day. It seems to have had its origin in the fact that eggs were forbidden during Lent. When they were brought to the festive table on Easter Day, they were colored red to represent Easter joy.

There is a church in London that carries on the practice of giving each member of the Easter congregation an egg bearing the words "My Redeemer."

And this habit of getting up early to find eggs and to surprise each other is purely an ancient church tradition. Before the 10th century in France, when a canon was absent in the choir for first psalms of the morning, the others would take the processional cross and the holy water, march to the absentee's house, and finding him in the bed, they'd sprinkle him with the water to wake him. Then he was led to church. In punishment he was compelled to provide breakfast for the others.

Switching in Bed

The bishops eventually put a stop to that, but the custom survived among the people. In many parts of Europe parents and children tried to surprise each other on Easter morning. Instead of using holy water to waken the sleepers, they used "health-giving" pagan switches.

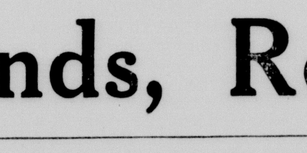
Today this early rising is perpetuated with Easter dawn services, popularized by many of the Protestant churches in outdoor settings, such as natural amphitheaters and mountainsides. And although thoroughly Christian, these services stem directly from pagan sun dance ceremonies of greeting the spring sun from a hilltop.

How Paganism Perserves

"A great many pagan customs, celebrating the return of spring, gravitated to Easter," admit the historians. And some of these customs are odd, indeed.

On Easter Monday, for instance, the women are supposed to have a right to strike their husbands—on Tuesday the men may strike their wives.

In northern parts of England, the men parade the streets on Easter Sunday and claim the privilege of lifting every woman three times from the ground. In payment for such feats of male strength they get a kiss or a silver sixpence. The next day the women are permitted to try the same trick on the men.



Gardeners Judged By Compost Piles

By Cynthia Lowry

Gardeners may be arbitrarily divided into two groups: those who have compost piles and those who do not.

Most garden hobbyists who do not have a compost pile are unfortunates whose grounds are quite small or whose lot is without an unexposed, unobtrusive corner where this project may be undertaken. Others consider it a messy job and can't be bothered.

Those who do spend a little time year round building and occasionally feeding and tending a pile of moldering organic matter usually wind up feeling a pride comparable with the production of a prize rose or raising a pine tree from seed.

Compost is as important a garden tool as a spading fork, or more important. It is, in it's final form, food-rich soil perfect for combining with other soil. It is a tonic, a meal, a prescription for inadequate earth.

It's Built Like A Sandwich

..There are as many ways to build a compost pile as there are recipes in a basic cook-book. They can be made in a large hole in the ground. They can be piled on trop of the ground. They can be encased in wood, in concrete blocks, in metal—there's no end to the variations. But what goes into the pile is uniform.

The primary ingredient is plants—leaves, weeds, pea pods, beet tops, expendable plants in the thinning out process. The rule of thumb is soft, green material—no hard woods, nothing thick which would take a long time to succumb to nature's process of combined action by water and bacteria.

A compost pile works best when given some assists and when it is built like a giant sandwich. The first or bottom layer should be plant material. When it reaches a height of a foot or a little more, a thin layer of soil—not necessarily one's best soil—is spread. If the gardener has a good supply of fresh or well-rotted manure, it's good to add a thin layer of that. Then comes another plant layer, and the process is repeated again.

No matter at what stage of construction, the top of the pile should be concave, so that it will catch and hold rain water. It's a good idea to let the pile settle a bit before applying the soil or fertilizer layer.

Stir It Every Quarter-Year

The one thing to remember about a compost pile is that it must be turned over once every three or four months—except during winter. At that time, the pile should be liberally dosed with lime.

Locker Plant Provides Adequate Food Storage

By Otis Hassell

WINNSBORO, La., April 8. —The Franklin Parish Locker Plant, located in Winnsboro, will have been in operation three years the 19th of this month. It was completed and put in operation at a cost of $56,000 April 19, 1947. C. C. Nelson is owner and manager and Miss Ruby McNair is the bookkeeper. Clinton Beach is process man and is assisted by S. J. Browning, Jr., Huey Humphries and Elmer Emfinger, are employed as general helpers.

This "quick freeze" and meat curing plant is equipped for complete processing and storage of meats, poultry, fish, fruits and vegetables. In addition to the cooling, storage and curing rooms there is space for 750 lockers. Six hundred have been installed, with 570 being rented at the present time. When the plant opened three years ago, 110 lockers were rented. The storage space in each of these lockers is six cubic feet and they are used to keep the food in after it has been processed and quick frozen. In some cases two families will share the same locker, although some families have two or more lockers rented.

This plant is an asset to the community and has definitely raised the standard of living for the people of Franklin parish. It is a known fact that among all the methods of food preservation, freezing is by far the best and frozen foods retain more of the qualities of fresh foods, such as nutritive value, color and flavor than those preserved any other way.

It is spring now and on almost every farm there is a flock of frying size chickens, or chickens, that will be frying size soon. In the past, any one who had more fryers than they could eat had to sell the surplus at low prices because of the overloaded market during the spring and summer months, but now they can take them to the locker plant, have them frozen and placed in a locker to be used any time during the year. The poultry may be dressed before taking to the plant, but if the owner desires, he may bring it in alive and have it dressed there. Included in the plant equipment is an electric "chicken-picker" that really makes the feathers fly.

Gardens and truck patches will soon be filled with good things to eat and you may be sure that before the summer is over the people who have these 570 lockers rented will have them filled with such fruits and vegetables as snap-beans, lima beans, carrots, corn (cut or on the cob), eggplant, okra peas, pumpkin, squash, greens blackberries, figs, cantaloupe peaches and strawberries.

People who are lucky on those fishing trips this spring can have their fish frozen and placed in their lockers, then they can eat fish later in the year, when the fish won't bite.

Farmers can take a beef or hog to the locker plant have it cut up, wrapped in family size packages, frozen and placed in their locker. They will then have fresh meat to eat all the year; or if they wish they may have their pork cured and smoked. The plant is also equipped to make the sausage and render the lard. You do not have to rent a locker to have meat cured and smoked at the plant and for a slight extra charge the meat will be kept in storage until called for. This is quite an improvement over the time when we had to wait for a cold day to kill a hog and then hope that the weather would stay cool so that the meat would not spoil. In 1949 the Franklin Parish Locker Plant processed over 315,000 pounds of pork and beef.

A large number of homes in Franklin parish now have home freezers and most of the owners of these freezers bring their meat to the locker plant to have it cut, processed, wrapped and frozen before storing it in their home freezers.

After looking at the advantages of having a locker plant here, we sometimes wonder how we ever got along without it.

PLANT RUBBER

SINGAPORE—(AP)—British planters are still coming forward to serve on Malayan rubber estates despite nearly two years of terrorism. "We have been able to maintain a steady supply of young men of the right stuff who will eventually form the backbone of the industry," said Mr. E. C. Martin, vice chairman of Sime Darby and Company, rubber estate agents.

Success Was In The Cards For Tony . . .

Buttitta Visits Friends, Relatives Here

By Jim Reynolds
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Maybe we'd seen too many movies. Maybe we'd just believed too much of what we'd seen in the movies. In any event, we were pretty well prepared for what we'd find—that typical, preconceived idea of a press agent: brash, natty, and addicted to words like "stupendous" and "collossal."

The assignment, you see, was to interview Anthony Buttitta, former Monroyan, now press agent and novelist, who returned to Monroe last week for a visit. Prepared as we were, it came as a bit of a shock to find a quiet, well-dressed and likeable fellow with a big grin and a modest manner. He's so quiet and retiring, in fact, we almost didn't get the story.

"After all," he said, "it's my business to give clients publicity, not get it for myself. Nobody wants to hear about me."

After a tearful story about the ferocity of editors, however, we did talk him into giving some information.

Tony Buttitta moved to Monroe with his family while he was still a youngster. In 1926 ("I was still very young," he added with a grin) he graduated from Monroe City High School and left for Louisiana State Normal School, urged, he remembers, by teacher Kate Perkins. "I'll never forget Miss Perkins," Buttitta reminisced. "She was directly responsible for my going on to college . . . kept urging me to learn more and more."

Buttitta later moved to the University of Texas, from which he graduated in 1929. While there, he worked on the campus newspaper, "The Texan." "That was the first time I ever got fired," he recalled. "They gave me the sack for panning the Jolson picture 'The Jazz Singer' in a review. They asked me back to the staff for writing a review of another film, though. Maybe that proves I was right the first time."

After Texas, Tony moved to the University of North Carolina for his master's degree in drama. While at Chapel Hill he and another venturesome young author started a literary magazine, "Contempo." The new publication featured the works of such literary greats as Faulkner, Hemingway, George Bernard Shaw and many others. "Most of these fine authors were considered pretty radical in those days," Tony noted, "and I guess we got a pretty pink reputation, too."

"Contempo" didn't confine itself to innocuous literary notes. As a matter of fact, it got pretty interested in outstanding political issues, and acheived the reputation of being quite socially conscious.

Perhaps it was too good to last. Maybe "social consciousness" is short-lived. For whatever reason, "Contempo's" existence proved to be a perishable thing, and the magazine disappeared. Tony went to Durham, N. C. and a newspaper job, and the other editor went on to other literary fields.

In Durham, Tony wrote book reviews, did general reporting, and soon managed to become area correspondent for several wire services.

For the wire services, he wrote a story on Lamar Stringfield, the prominent composer-conductor and winner of the 1926 Pulitzer Prize for music. The writeup so pleased the maestro that he invited the young reporter to take on the full time job of his press agent. "He taught me all about promotion and press relations," says Tony. "Stringfield was a self-made and self-named 'genius,' and a master of publicity."

After a term handling promotion for Stringfield, Buttitta joined the staff of the Federal Theater Magazine as co-editor, and after a short while moved to the Theater's press department. In his new capacity, he worked with the new "greats" of the American stage—Orson Welles, Marc Blitzstein and others. He was associated with both Welles and composer Blitzstein in the production of the famous "The Cradle Will Rock," and told us the full, inside story of this Broadway "miracle."

"Marc had written the musical play," Buttitta began, "and it was scheduled to open at the Maxine Elliot Theater in New York. Play night came, curtain time was approaching, and we still had no word from Washington. You see, Washington had to approve each of our productions before presentation, and "The Cradle Will Rock" was evidently pretty strong for some of the bureaucrats. By curtain time, we knew the approval would never come. We couldn't put the show on in the theater.

"Suddenly, one of the cast ran outside and told the waiting crowd what had happened. Almost before we knew it, we'd been offered the use of the Venice Theater, where 'Kiss Me, Kate' is now playing, and the cast, crew and audience had started a parade down the street. Less than an hour later, the show was ready to go on.

"Since the play was unauthorized, the cast couldn't set foot on the stage without risking loss of their Actors' Equity membership. So, they played their parts from the audience—from wherever they happened to be standing. The stage was empty except for Welles, the narrator, and Blitzstein. Ever since then, the show's been put on in the same way.

"As soon as the show started, I got to a phone and broke the news. Think it hit every front page from Manhattan to Los Angeles." This time, the grin was really in evidence.

His success with the Federal Theater led to Buttitta's next location, as press agent—oh, pardon us!—we mean "Information Director" for the famous Lost Colony of Roanoke Island, Va. It was on Roanoke Island that Virginia Dare, the first Anglo-American child born in America first saw the light of day. A major victory while publicizing the "Croatan" colony was Buttitta's exposure of a well-planned hoax which would have located the Lost Colony somewhere in Georgia.

New York seems to be a magnet for good publicity men, and it was to New York that Buttitta moved next. His first job in Manhattan was with the publicity firm headed by Constance Hope. There he worked as press agent for outstanding artists in the music and concert fields, publicizing such names as Jascha Heifitz, Lily Pons and Grace Moore. From the Hope fold, Tony moved into the office of publicist Bill Fields, and later worked with Jean Dalrymple.

At the height of his Broadway activity, he was handling publicity for three of the year's big hits simultaneously. "The Voice of the Turtle," "One Touch of Venus" and "Anna Lucasta" all found their way into the papers and magazines through his efforts.

A vacation followed, but Tony, never one to waste time, used his spare moments to start work on two novels: "No Sleep'Til Spring," a war story, and "End of Darkness," a psychiatric study of the "career woman." Both books are still in the unfinished state, and stand high on the list of "things to be completed" for Tony.

Continuing his press agenting, Tony headed across the country, heralding the arrival of the road company of "Song of Norway." The tour started in Chicago, and concluded in California, where Tony moved into the press agent spot for the San Francisco Light Opera Company. This season, the company plans to bring the road company of "South Pacific" and the New York cast of "Lost in the Stars" to the west coast.

Plans for the future, says Tony, include a trip to Europe for work on a new novel, and reworking of his two previous works. The scene of the opening of the new book is Monroe, and from here it "just travels around."

This trip to Monroe, as a matter of fact, is partially to gather background material for the book, but mostly, he declares, "to visit real friends I haven't seen in much too long."

Tony's brother, V. J., is currently shepherding him around the city. "Sometimes it seems that he's my press agent," adds Tony. "But he sure has a right to be. V. J. was the one who made it possible for me to go on to college. He financed my education. Without his belief in me, I guess I never would have gone anywhere."

High on his list of old friends to visit in Monroe are former Superintendent of Schools Ernest L. Neville and his daughter Sarah. "I'll never forget Mr. Neville. He was principal when I was in high school. Sarah was in my class." Tony added, "and I'll always remember my teachers, too—especially 'Maidie' Moore, a wonderful woman . . . and Julia Wossman—she runs the Children's Book Shop now. It's a pretty great feeling to know you're remembered by old friends. Makes you really feel at home."

Certainly Tony is at home in Monroe. But somehow, that doesn't seem like a Hollywood-type press agent, either. Anthony Buttitta's visit may have been pleasant for him. For us, it was an education. Hollywood, take it away!

Fairbanks Increase In Membership Results In Award To Chairman

Mrs. R. N. Lanningham, membership chairman of the Fairbanks P. T. A., was presented a certificate of award at the recent Fifth District meeting for the splendid increase in membership. The membership for the current year was almost 100 per cent over the previous year.

Mrs. Floyd Smith discussed points of interest as taken from the talks of the guest speakers at the district meeting. She said in part: "We learn thae lay leaders are needed and they they should be trained. We have several types of leaders — the institutional leader, the hereditary leader, the situational leader and a new type known as the creative leader. This new creative leadership offers everyone an opportunity to participate in a discussion — thus contributing to the growth and maturity of the individual. To be a creative leader one must be a continuously growing one that trusts the Democratic process. He must have ability to be a delegate — he must develop a fellowship. This is the type leadership parenateacher members need to know how to develop."

The nominating committee submitted the following names: president, Mrs. Floyd Smith; vice-president, Mrs. R. N. Lanningham; secretary, Mrs. Pansye Sanders; treasurer, Mrs. T. A. Ward. The report was accepted and the group elected by acclamation. Mrs. Spurgeon, out going president, and Mrs. Smith, the in-coming president, were named as delegates to the State Convention.

Mrs. Buckley's room was awarded a half-holiday due to the fact that the parents were 100 per cent in membership. The room award went to Mrs. Bradley and Miss McWilliam rooms. The president, Mrs. Welch, presiding, asked for a donation from the unit to be sent to Mrs. Larkan to be applied on her expenses to the National Convention. It was voted to send 10 cents per member — $5.00 was given for the National Building Fund.

Armored cars were in use by the marine corps as far back as 1916 and those early types attained speeds as great as 60 miles per hour.

SELMAN SCHOOL IS MOST UNIQUE

Only Elementary School In State With Vocational Unit

Selman School will end its second year June 2 with a faculty of 20 and a student body of 573. This year the eighth grade was added, and the graduation exercises will be Thursday morning, June 1, 1950, at 10 a.m. in the school auditorium.

Superintendent Mack Avants will address the graduates, and James Trousdale, president of the Ouachita Parish School Board, will deliver the diplomas to approximately 65 graduates.

Selman is the only elementary school in the state that has a vocational unit. It was begun February 20, 1950, under the direction of Francis O. Seymour. This is a unit of the Ouachita Valley Vocational School directed by Hal P. Willis.

The students are working with wood now, but the aim for next year is to have not only woodwork, but tile and metal, as well as industrial arts for various grades.

The vocational building is equipped with all necessary hand tools, and mechanical tools such as circular saw, jointer, drill press, band saw, jig saw and lathes for wood work.

The students are now very busy making what-nots of plywood.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

by GEORGE WUNDER

THE HOUSE AT NUMBER 13, STREET OF THE WHIRLING DERVISHES, HAS ATTRACTED A LARGE AND APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE.

EIYEE! BEHOLD HOW THE FLAMES FEED UPON THE ROOF!

IT IS SAID THAT THIS WAS THE HEADQUARTERS OF THOSE WHO WOULD RULE THE WORLD.

AND ON THE FRINGE OF THE CROWD...

THE WOMAN, ALEXIS, HAS LOST HERSELF IN THE MOB, COMRADE PARTY LEADER. SHE IS NOT TO BE FOUND.

A THOUSAND CURSES ON THE SHE-TRAITOR!

HOW DID SHE MANAGE THIS AFFAIR, EXALTED COMRADE?

IN HER RAGE AT MY CHARGE OF TREASON SHE HURLED A LAMP AT ME. IT MISSED, BUT SMASHED AGAINST THE WALL. THE FLAMING OIL SET FIRE TO THE ROOM.

IN THE CONFUSION OF FLAME AND SMOKE, SHE BROKE LOOSE AND ESCAPED — FOR THE PRESENT!...ORDERS MUST BE SENT TO OUR PARTY CELLS AROUND THE WORLD TO WATCH FOR HER.

WHILE, IN A FOUL ALLEY, NEARBY. .

ALEXIS MUST HIDE — BUT WHERE? THE PARTY AGENTS ARE EVERYWHERE. NO PLACE WILL EVER BE SAFE... HOW COULD THIS HAPPEN THAT I, WHO CAME TO HUNT THE FUGITIVE, CHUM, AM MYSELF HUNTED?

MEANWHILE, IN SPRAY O'HARA'S HOSPITAL.

THANKS FOR GIVING IT TO US STRAIGHT, DOC... CAN WE SEE SPRAY NOW?

OF COURSE. I'LL TAKE YOU TO HER.

BETTER LET MR. CHARLES GO IN ALONE FIRST, GENTLEMEN.

HI, SPRAY, BABY.

HEY! WHY THE MOOD INDIGO, SHORT AND IRRESISTIBLE? A FINE WAY TO GREET A BATTLE SCARRED BUT OTHERWISE EAGER BRIDE-TO-BE.

OH, SPRAY, HONEY. I-I'VE GOT TO TELL YOU...IF YOU'RE TO GET WELL, THEY'VE GOTTA SEND YOU TO THE STATES FOR TREATMENT...I-I GUESS THE WEDDING'S CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF PAIN.

DICK TRACY

BUT, BLOWTOP, HE'S BEEN SLEEPING SINCE 10 O'CLOCK.

CHESTER GOULD

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK

NATURE NEVER DUPLICATES. TWO IDENTICAL FINGERPRINTS DO NOT EXIST. EVEN AMONG THE LEAVES ON A TREE, NO TWO ARE ALIKE, UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.

Dick Tracy

JOE DIDN'T KNOW YOU WERE GOING TO DOPE HIM. HE THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO GIVE THE DOCTORED MEAT TO DICK TRACY'S DOG.

I AM, TOOTS, BUT I HAVE TO EXPERIMENT FIRST, DON'T I?

WE DON'T WANT TO BUMP OFF TRACY'S DOG. WE JUST WANT TO PUT HIM TO SLEEP FOR A FEW HOURS WHILE WE PLANT THE SOUP.

USING JOE FOR A GUINEA PIG WAS A DIRTY TRICK, BLOWTOP.

DON'T TAP YOUR FINGERS THAT WAY! HOW MANY TIMES HAVE I TOLD YOU—

JOE! HE'S WAKING UP.

UH-UH—WHAT DAY IS IT?—WHERE AM I?

YOU SLEPT 9 HOURS. THAT'S TOO LONG. I DON'T WANT THE DOG TO SLEEP THAT LONG. I'LL CUT THE DOSE DOWN 50 % FOR HIM.

OOH-H—! AM I THIRSTY!

AND AT HEADQUARTERS—

IT'S A BULLETIN FROM WASHINGTON, SAM. THEY THINK THE BIG PIN IN THAT 2 MILLION DOLLAR EXPRESS ROBBERY IS OUT THIS WAY.

WHAT!

YOU MEAN SOME OF THE MARKED BILLS HAVE TURNED UP HERE?

SO IT SEEMS, SAM. HERE, TAKE ONE OF THESE LISTS OF SERIAL NUMBERS.

NOW WE'RE READY TO GET DOWN TO BUSINESS. I WANT ANOTHER POUND OF ROUND STEAK—AS WELL AS THE ARTICLES FOR AN INCENDIARY BOMB AND SOME WIRE.

SURE IT'LL TAKE MONEY! YOU'LL HAVE TO FENCE ANOTHER 10 GRAND.

WHEN WE DIVIDED THE LOOT, THE BOYS SLIPPED YOU THE MARKED MONEY. WHAT A GYP!

WE CAN'T SPEND IT—WE HAVE TO FENCE IT FOR 10¢ ON THE DOLLAR.

DON'T TWIDDLE YOUR CIGARETTE! YOU KNOW THAT MAKES ME NERVOUS.

GEE, MISS TESS, WHAT A WONDERFUL HOME! WHAT A SWELL YARD TO ENJOY THIS SUMMER.

WE HIT A SOFT SPOT

I TOLD FREDDIE THE GRASS WAS TOO SOFT TO ROLL, BUT HE ALWAYS GETS IN SUCH A HURRY.

WALTON COULD USE SOME OF THAT ENERGY OVER IN OUR YARD.

I HOPE MAC DOESN'T FALL OFF THAT BOARD!

NOW YOU GUYS FILL YOUR TUMMIES WITH THESE BREAD CRUMBS, BEFORE I SOW THIS GRASS SEED!

WAIT A MINUTE, BOYS! WE'VE GOT TO GET A PLANK UNDER SLUG! YOU'RE JUST PUSHING HIM DOWN, TOO!

BUT LOOK, ALICE, IF YOU DON'T WANT TO CLIMB STAIRS, WHY DON'T WE BUILD A RANCH-TYPE NEST LIKE THIS?

BUT YOU KNOW I'D NEVER SLEEP A WINK IN A GROUND-FLOOR BEDROOM!

I DON'T KNOW WHY I WANTED TO BE AN ARCHITECT

SURE IT WOULD! BUT KEEP STILL UNTIL POP GETS DESPERATE AND OFFERS A REWARD.

WHY, MINNIE! HOW WONDERFUL!

IS IT ALL RIGHT IF I TELL GRACE AND MARY B?

I DON'T KNOW WHERE YOU'VE BEEN HIDING ALL WINTER, BUT I'M SURE YOU NEED A WORKOUT!

GEE WHITH, MYRTLE, IF THEY'D PUMP THE WATER OUT OF THAT ROLLER IT WOULD BE EATHY TO PULL IT OUT.

NOW REMEMBER, ARNOLD, IF I SNIP YOU OUT OF YOUR WINTER UNDERWEAR, YOU MUST WEAR YOUR TOPCOAT FOR A FEW DAYS UNTIL YOU GET USED TO THE CHANGE.

WAIT UNTIL I TELL THIS TO MRS. ZSCHLMK! SHE THINKS SHE ALWAYS KNOWS EVERYTHING BEFORE I DO!
